Talks Resume In Newspaper Pact Dispute

White House Press Secretary Arrives In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — White House press secretary Pierre Salinger arrived quietly in New York Wednesday to see if he could do anything about the city's 47-day newspaper blackout.

"I know he is interested in the newspaper strike," said federal mediator Stephen I. Schlossberg, in confirming that Salinger was in town.

Salinger's arrival coincided with the renewal for the first time in a week of joint negotiations in the dispute. He took no direct part in them.

No progress came out of the talks, which were recessed late in the day until Thursday. State mediator Vincent D. Mc Donnell told newsmen: "The position of the parties remains the same."

Salinger slipped into New York on Tuesday night at the request of Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

Not Delegated By JFK

In Washington, Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant press secretary, said President Kennedy was aware of Salinger's mission, but had not instigated it, nor delegated Salinger to represent him.

"I don't think there is any way you can call this specific White House intervention. Mr. Salinger is well known in the newspaper world and his ideas concerning this may be of interest to a great many people," Hatcher added.

Salinger's visit was described as an outgrowth of a speech he made in Philadelphia last Friday, in which he called newspaper strikes in New York and Cleveland intolerable. Salinger suggested that a study group of outsiders look into the industry's economics before some newspapers were forced out of business.

New York publishers replied that the proposal seemed to offer no quick solution to the local newspaper blackout.

Citizens Committee

During the day, a New York citizens newspaper committee, which describes itself as a neutral group interested onl in the public welfare, called upon Mayor Robert F. Wagner to name a three-man mediation board in the strike.

The committee suggested that it be "composed of three eminent New York City residents possessing the skills and the dedication required to assist the parties through their mediation efforts to a successful resolution."

The joint talks Wednesday were only the sixth time this month that the two sides in the newspaper dispute have gotten together.

Mediators set up the meeting between publishers and striking printers after a unity committee of 10 newspaper unions Tuesday urged continuous negotiations.

Some 3,000 members of Local 6, AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, struck in a contract dispute Dec. 8 and all nine major New York newspapers were closed down, idling nearly 20,000 employes.

The ITU printers sought an $18-a-week wage increase in a two-year contract, with fringe benefits the publishers estimated would bring the over-all cost to $37 per week, per man. The publishers offered a $10 package. Printers had been averaging $141 a week.

Congress To Get President's Tax-Cutting Message Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy sends the biggest tax-cutting program in history to congress Thursday — exactly one week after he submitted the biggest spending budget in history.

In a 9,000-word message he will outline a plan under which individuals and corporations ultimately would get $10 billion in annual tax relief.

Individuals would get priority on tax cuts. The first of two reductions in withholding taxes on individuals would take effect July 1—or as soon as possible after the law is enacted. The second cut would take effect July 1, 1964. The first significant rate cut for big corporations would be delayed until Jan. 1, 1964.

Actually, the initial effect of the tax program on big corporations would be to require them to make heavier tax payments than they otherwise would.

They would make their payments earlier than they now do, with the result that the treasury would collect $1.5 billion more from corporations during next January-June than would be paid under existing law.

In each of his three previous messages to the new Congress—his State of the Union address, his Budget and his Economic Report—the President stressed that tax relief overshadows all of his other 1963 legislative goals.

Kennedy regards tax relief as essential, if he is to have any chance of redeeming the promise he made in the 1960 election campaign to get the economy moving fast enough to provide full employment.

Under Kennedy's plan, income tax rates gradually would be reduced by an amount equal to an annual savings of $11 billion for individuals and $2.5 billion for corporations. Offsetting this, $3.5 billion in new revenue would be provided through elimination or curtailment of existing tax preferences.

Individual tax rates now range progressively from 20 to 91 per cent. Kennedy's plan would reduce the individual range to 14-65 per cent. It would but to 47 per cent the existing 52 per cent tax on corporate profits.

More Cuban Refugees Land In Florida

MIAMI (UPI)—A planeload of 100 Cubans and Cuban-Americans many of them happy and wonder-struck children, landed here Wednesday, the vanguard of some 1,200 refugees Fidel Castro promised to free by the weekend.

Emotional shouts of welcome from friends and relatives greeted the refugees when they stepped from a Pan American World Airways DC6B plane at Miami International Airport.

Three little girls burst into tears as they came down the ramp into the excitement.

Two of the passengers were wheel chair cases, one of them identified as a West German diplomat.

Johannes Hellmuth, an attache of the West German Embassy in Havana which was closed after Cuba and Bonn broke relations, said he broke his leg in an accident a short time ago.

The plane was to be followed Thursday by the cargo ship Shirley Lykes, carrying up to 1,000 refugees on its return from a voyage to Cuba to deliver a second shipload of ransom goods being exchanged for 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners released Dec. 23-24.

Many of the Shirley Lykes passengers were relatives of the invasion captives. The ship was due at Port Everglades, Fla., just north of here, sometime Thursday morning.

Diplomat Found Dead In Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —Dominican Republic Consul Gerardo Blanco was found dead at his home two days ago, his throat cut, it was learned Wednesday.

Sources here said Blanco was found in the back yard of his home in Aux Cayes in southwest Haiti. Unconfirmed reports said Blanco's pistol and $2,000 in American money were missing.

In Santo Domingo, spokesmen at the Dominican Foreign Ministry confirmed the death and said it, might have been suicide. Two Dominican Embassy officials were sent from Port au Prince to claimthe body.

The spokesmen said the Haitian government has not offered any information on the death to Dominican representatives in Haiti.

There has been no Dominican ambassador in Haiti for the past eight months. Dr. Antonio Jimenez Dajar has been charge d'affaires.

Japan, Soviet Union Agree On Trade Pact

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Japan Wednesday agreed in principle on the terms of a three-year trade agreement, according to Japanese sources.

The agreement which has been drawn up, but not yet signed, provides that Japan will export goods valued at $133 million to the Soviet Union in 1963 and will import goods valued at $113 million.

The agreement which covers 1963, 1964, and 1965, is to be signed Saturday by Soviet Minister of Foreign Trade N. S. Patolichev and by Japanese Ambassador Hisanari Yamada.

Nationalist China Marks Freedom Day Anniversary

TAIPEI (UPI) — President Chiang Kai-shek issued a new call to his countrymen Wednesday to "prepare for the sacred war of national recovery" of the Communist-held China mainland.

"We must seize on the current favorable situation to join forces with the anti-Communist revolutionaries on the mainland in attacking the Communists from both within and without in order to rescue our enslaved brethren," he said.

Chiang issued the familiar call in a message marking "Freedom Day" celebrated throughout this Nationalist Chinese stronghold on Wednesday.

The day marks the ninth anniversary of the repatriation of 14,000 Chinese prisoners of the Korean War who chose to live in Formosa rather than return to their homes on the mainland.

Many Dead As Mercury Takes Dive

Sicily's Palm Trees Covered By Heavy Snow

LONDON (AP)—Europe's bitter cold wave, one of the worst, darkened Buckingham Palace Wednesday and cracked water pipes in the usually balmy cities of Rome and Naples.

Some animals and humans froze to death as temperatures plunged. Snow piled high from Scotland to Sicily.

Twenty dead were counted in Italy, some in unheated homes and others who tried to stay with their outdoor jobs. Sicily's palm trees stood in 18 inches of snow. In hundreds of Italian villages schools were closed.

Three deaths were recorded in Greece as the frigid wave spread along the Mediterranean to Turkey.

Generally it was the coldest winter in Southern Europe in 10 years, in some places the coldest in 35 years.

Buckingham Palace's electricity cutoff was in company with millions of British homes. Engineers have been pulling the switches to reduce the peak load.

Queen Elizabeth was out of town at the time, secure in her Sandringham country retreat.

Britain had zero temperatures in the night and moved into a new record with its 34th day of freezing weather.

Lean mixtures of antifreeze in cars started turning to ice. Truck drivers lit fires under their vehicles to thaw them out, On one highway near London the spectacle was described by an automobile association patrolman as like a barbecue.

Thousands of vehicles were stranded on blocked highways. The sea froze along some British shores. At Southampton, fish were caught and frozen in the ice, their heads jutting out. Starving seabirds swopped down to peck at them.

Hospitals were crammed with sufferers from respiratory ailments. Deaths from cold in Britain were not officially counted but authorities said the figure must be high.

Expect Ship Movements In 48 Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — A record 32-day dock strike of East and Gulf Coast ports neared an end Wednesday, with the first of 610 idle ships expected to begin moving within 48 hours.

A vast log jam of millions of dollars worth of stranded cargo was due to start breaking up once the vessels began weighing anchor. However, it was expected to take three to five days for such major ports as New York to return to normal.

Waterfront peace moved a big step nearer during the day as New Orleans shipowners fell in line with a government-outlined 37-cent-an-hour contract pattern.

There had been some concern lest Southern ports balk at the settlement formula, which was expected to add $28 million a year to industry cost sheets in New York alone.

Shipowners Committed

Shipowners from Virginia to Maine already were committed to the master contract, worked out by a three-man presidential board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. However, local issues could delay the strike's end in some ports.

Losses to the shipping industry in the longest, costliest strike in Atlantic maritime history neared the $750 million mark.

Also needed before the strike's end was ratification of the settlement terms by 60,000 striking members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, whose leaders accept the peace terms last Sunday. Most of the votes were expected to be in by Thursday night, with endorsement an all but foregone conclusion.

Pigeons Blamed For Fire Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The owner of the 58-year-old 10-story Fretz Building, destroyed in Philadelphia's worst fire New Year's Day, says pigeons broke so many windows the sprinkler system froze.

Nathan C. Hoffman made the statement Tuesday in hearings on the blaze being held by City Council's Committee on Public Safety.

About 30 private homes were severely damaged near the Fretz Building and several hundred persons made homeless. Damage was estimated at several million dollars.

Polar Cold Sweeping Eastward

Southland Sees Temperatures At Record Lows

By The Associated Press

A polar cold wave shattered weather records across much of the Midwest on Wednesday and fanned outward to the Gulf and Atlantic coastal states.

Temperatures in parts of the Midwest, locked in a wintry vise for nearly two weeks, were near their lowest levels of this century.

Snow, strong winds and rain changing to sleet accompanied the arctic surge.

The advancing storm disrupted industry, slowed highway travel and caused massive traffic jams in some cities. Thousands of schools were closed in Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky because of numbing cold or snow-covered roads.

Residents of a vast area from the northern and central Rockies eastward across the upper half of the Mississippi Valley and Michigan shivered in subzero cold. Zero readings were recorded as far south as the Texas Panhandle.

Near Tolley, N.D., a search party of neighbors found the frozen body of Richard Neubeck, 47, a farmer.

Man Found Frozen

Police in Monroe, Mich., found the frozen body of James Thomas, 62, seated in a rocker before an open window in his home. Death was attributed to exposure.

An elderly couple, Clifford Hamilton, 84, and his sister, Florence, 67, were found frozen to death in their home at Brimfield, Ill. A niece told police the couple was so afraid of fire they refused to heat their house. The temperature at the time was -17.

Navigation was blocked on the Mississippi River near Cairo, Ill., when ice floes formed a gorge several miles long.

Borg-Warner Corp. arranged to halt manufacturing electrical appliances at its Norge division in Effingham, Ill., for the first time in 19 years. A heavy residential demand for heating gas prompted the Central Illinois Public Service Co. to request the shutdown to lessen the drain.

In Chicago where the mercury dropped to -18 degrees, record low for the date and only one degree above the lowest reading of the century, the Salvation Army filled its Harbor Light center on skid row with 600 refugees from the cold, and then rented quarters in nearby hotels for the overflow.

Chicago's hospitals reported an upsurge in the number of patients seeking treatment for frostbite.

Soybean Oil Tank Ruptures Due To Cold

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Two million gallons of soybean oil gushed from a ruptured steel tank in 20-below-zero weather Wednesday, creating a monumental cleanup job as it spread in a sticky mass over a five-block area.

The oil, in crude state, cascaded from a 40-foot-high tank at the Honeymead Products Co., large soybean processor, when the 100-foot-diameter vat burst near its base. Cause of the accident was not immediately known, but severe cold was a strong possibility.

One plant official estimated value of the soybean oil at $1.5 million.

One worker was injured, not seriously. Two box cars—one loaded and estimated to weigh 80 to 90 tons—were pushed from their rails and then 300 feet into the Blue Earth River. Seven other freight cars on the plant siding were derailed. A storage shed was wrecked.

"It looked almost like a sea of fire coming toward us," said Mrs. Mel Herman, whose nearby home was surrounded by the amber-colored oil. The wave of oil rushed into her yard, carrying with it barrels and gallon tins from the wrecked shed.

The Herman home was isolated in a lake of sticky oil three to six inches deep, but the oil did not seep into the house.

In the five-block area over which the oil spread it ranged from a film to three feet deep, depending on land contour.

Three road graders with long blades moved down the oil-covered streets pushing the weather-thickened oil into gooey mounds where pumps were set up for salvage and cleanup attempts.

Sand dikes were built at some spots to contain the flow.

DIPLOMAT DIES — Pakistan Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali, 53, died yesterday in Dacca, Pakistan, after a short illness. He served as prime minister from 1953 to 1955 and later served as ambassador to the United Nations. (AP Photofax)

Prime Minister Of Pakistan Dies Suddenly

DACCA, Pakistan (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali, 53, a staunch anti-Communist and a good friend of the United States, died unexpectedly Wednesday.

He had been working hard and had ignored his doctor's orders to take a complete rest. He arrived here Tuesday from Karachi and had arranged a meeting with visiting Premier Rachid Karame of Lebanon for Friday.

Cause of death was not announced immediately.

Ali's death came with Pakistan at an important crossroad in the cold war struggle in Asia between the Chinese Communists and the Western powers.

American and British military aid to India in that nation's border war with Red China put Ali on a political hot seat and strained his pro-Western position.

The foreign minister raised his voice with other Pakistanis in protesting the aid, in fear India would use the arms against Pakistan in their dispute over Kashmir. But Ali said he "spoke in anguish, not anger."

As prime minister between 1953 and 1955, Ali led Pakistan into the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact, later renamed the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO). Both alliances were set up by the West to contain communism in the East.

The convivial Pakistani diplomat had many friends in the United States where he served two tours as ambassador to Washington during the 1950s and as leader of his country's delegation to the United Nations.

With a liking for American ways, Ali was credited with a major share of developing warm relations with the United States.

He once silenced parliamentary critics of U.S. policies by reminding them of the "dark days of '53 and '54 when famine stalked East Pakistan and India threatened Pakistan's security." He said the United States came to Pakistan's aid then purely on humanitarian grounds.

Private Rites Held For Hugh Gaitskell

LONDON (AP) — A 20-minute, private funeral service was held Wednesday for Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell in a centuries-old church filled with bouquets and wreaths from thousands expressing their last tribute.

Gaitskell's widow and his two daughters, Julia and Cressida, entered the suburban Hampstead parish church in deep mourning.

Others at the service included party leaders and the ambassadors of the United States, Austria and Sweden.

A public memorial tribute to Gaitskell was to be held later in Westminster Abbey.

Gaitskell died Friday after a two-week illness.

The body was cremated.

Bell To Head Foreign Aid

Bell resigned as budget director to take the new post. His official title will be administrator of the Agency for International Development.

Sen. Curtis Proposes Plan To Reduce Federal Debt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. Wednesday proposed a pay-as-you-go constitutional amendment which would require at least a half-billion dollar annual reduction in the national debt.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va of the Senate Finance Committee joined Curtis as co-sponsor of the proposed amendment.

"The bringing of federal spending under control is a must and it should not be delayed any longer," Curtis said.

The amendment would require any Congress which authorized spending in excess of estimated receipts to remain in session until it had acted to provide for a balanced budget in the ensuing year.

In event of war or other grave emergency, Congress by a three-fourths vote could suspend provisions of the amendment for one year at a time.

Turkey Land Bases May Be Closed

Seaborne Polaris To Replace Jupiter Rockets Is Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turkish Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin said Wednesday that land-based U. S. Jupiter missiles will be replaced in Turkey by seaborne Polaris missiles with about the same range.

The State Department let the statement stand, neither confirming nor denying it. Asked for comment, it said only that "we are discussing modernization of weapons systems with various NATO countries, including Turkey."

Department spokesman Lincoln White did not elaborate, except on one point. Asked if Turkish developments had any connection with last October's Cuban crisis, he replied: "None whatsoever."

During the crisis, President Kennedy ignored a proposal from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that U.S. bases in Turkey be dismantled in return for Soviet withdrawal of missiles from Cuba.

United Press International learned last week that a strategic shift was underway in the Mediterranean, with Jupiter rockets in both Turkey and Italy being replaced by submarine-borne Polaris missiles.

According to reports at that time, the shift was regarded as furthering the Kennedy - Macmillan concept of a NATO nuclear force as outlined in the agreement reached by the President and the British prime minister at their Nassau conference. Both Turkey and Italy are NATO members.

White House sources said Wednesday that the administration was studying the modernization of NATO nuclear forces. They indicated that the question of Jupiter missiles from Turkey would come up before a meeting of the NATO council in February.

The Polaris is regarded as less vulnerable than the above-ground liquid-fueled Jupiter. The United States has 15 Jupiters in Turkey and 30 in Italy. It also has 60 medium-range Thor rockets in Britain, and these too are being dismantled.

The Turkish foreign minister said in Ankara that substitution of the Polaris for the Jupiter means "there will be no missiles on Turkish soil," long a sore point with Russia. He said dismantling of the Jupiters would begin immediately but that negotiations were continuing.

Man Killed By Crossbow

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Police said Wednesday that a 28-year-old man found slain last Sunday was killed by a razor-sharp arrow fired from a crossbow.

It was first believed the victim, Dillmon Thrasher, had been stabbed to death.

During an autopsy, however, doctors found a black arrowhead in the chest cavity near Thrasher's heart. Officers later located the shaft to the arrow.

The arrowhead had gone through Thrasher's car coat, a sport coat, a sweater, shirt and underwear before fracturing a rib and entering near the heart. He died before he could tell police what happened to him.

Detectives said the shaft is the type fired by crossbows, and may have come from a 45-pound crossbow which has the penetrating power of a .45 caliber pistol at a distance of 100 feet.

They said Thrasher apparently yanked the shaft out and ran about 100 feet to a front porch before collapsing.

Minuteman Shot Most Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP —An advance Minuteman missile blasted out of an underground silo here and sped more than 4,000 miles on a successful test flight.

The success, announced by the Air Force, was the first for the Wing 2 model of the three-stage pushbutton ICBM.

Two earlier Wing 2 rockets exploded during first stage flight last summer and the series was pulled off the firing line for thorough study.

The vehicle's refinements include new first and second stage motors with improved nozzles and lighter materials.

Britain had zero temperatures in the night and moved into a new record with its 34th day of freezing weather.

Lean mixtures of antifreeze in cars started turning to ice. Truck drivers lit fires under their vehicles to thaw them out, On one highway near London the spectacle was described by an automobile association patrolman as like a barbecue.

Thousands of vehicles were stranded on blocked highways. The sea froze along some British shores. At Southampton, fish were caught and frozen in the ice, their heads jutting out. Starving seabirds swopped down to peck at them.

Hospitals were crammed with sufferers from respiratory ailments. Deaths from cold in Britain were not officially counted but authorities said the figure must be high.

Expect Ship Movements In 48 Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — A record 32-day dock strike of East and Gulf Coast ports neared an end Wednesday, with the first of 610 idle ships expected to begin moving within 48 hours.

A vast log jam of millions of dollars worth of stranded cargo was due to start breaking up once the vessels began weighing anchor. However, it was expected to take three to five days for such major ports as New York to return to normal.

Waterfront peace moved a big step nearer during the day as New Orleans shipowners fell in line with a government-outlined 37-cent-an-hour contract pattern.

There had been some concern lest Southern ports balk at the settlement formula, which was expected to add $28 million a year to industry cost sheets in New York alone.

Shipowners Committed

Shipowners from Virginia to Maine already were committed to the master contract, worked out by a three-man presidential board headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore. However, local issues could delay the strike's end in some ports.

Losses to the shipping industry in the longest, costliest strike in Atlantic maritime history neared the $750 million mark.

Also needed before the strike's end was ratification of the settlement terms by 60,000 striking members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, whose leaders accept the peace terms last Sunday. Most of the votes were expected to be in by Thursday night, with endorsement an all but foregone conclusion.

Pigeons Blamed For Fire Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The owner of the 58-year-old 10-story Fretz Building, destroyed in Philadelphia's worst fire New Year's Day, says pigeons broke so many windows the sprinkler system froze.

Nathan C. Hoffman made the statement Tuesday in hearings on the blaze being held by City Council's Committee on Public Safety.

About 30 private homes were severely damaged near the Fretz Building and several hundred persons made homeless. Damage was estimated at several million dollars.

Polar Cold Sweeping Eastward

Southland Sees Temperatures At Record Lows

By The Associated Press

A polar cold wave shattered weather records across much of the Midwest on Wednesday and fanned outward to the Gulf and Atlantic coastal states.

Temperatures in parts of the Midwest, locked in a wintry vise for nearly two weeks, were near their lowest levels of this century.

Snow, strong winds and rain changing to sleet accompanied the arctic surge.

The advancing storm disrupted industry, slowed highway travel and caused massive traffic jams in some cities. Thousands of schools were closed in Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Tennessee and Kentucky because of numbing cold or snow-covered roads.

Residents of a vast area from the northern and central Rockies eastward across the upper half of the Mississippi Valley and Michigan shivered in subzero cold. Zero readings were recorded as far south as the Texas Panhandle.

Man Found Frozen

Police in Monroe, Mich., found the frozen body of James Thomas, 62, seated in a rocker before an open window in his home. Death was attributed to exposure.

An elderly couple, Clifford Hamilton, 84, and his sister, Florence, 67, were found frozen to death in their home at Brimfield, Ill. A niece told police the couple was so afraid of fire they refused to heat their house. The temperature at the time was -17.

Navigation was blocked on the Mississippi River near Cairo, Ill., when ice floes formed a gorge several miles long.

Borg-Warner Corp. arranged to halt manufacturing electrical appliances at its Norge division in Effingham, Ill., for the first time in 19 years. A heavy residential demand for heating gas prompted the Central Illinois Public Service Co. to request the shutdown to lessen the drain.

In Chicago where the mercury dropped to -18 degrees, record low for the date and only one degree above the lowest reading of the century, the Salvation Army filled its Harbor Light center on skid row with 600 refugees from the cold, and then rented quarters in nearby hotels for the overflow.

Chicago's hospitals reported an upsurge in the number of patients seeking treatment for frostbite.

The city's temperature had

Soybean Oil Tank Ruptures Due To Cold

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Two million gallons of soybean oil gushed from a ruptured steel tank in 20-below-zero weather Wednesday, creating a monumental cleanup job as it spread in a sticky mass over a five-block area.

The oil, in crude state, cascaded from a 40-foot-high tank at the Honeymead Products Co., large soybean processor, when the 100-foot-diameter vat burst near its base. Cause of the accident was not immediately known, but severe cold was a strong possibility.

One plant official estimated value of the soybean oil at $1.5 million.

One worker was injured, not seriously. Two box cars—one loaded and estimated to weigh 80 to 90 tons—were pushed from their rails and then 300 feet into the Blue Earth River. Seven other freight cars on the plant siding were derailed. A storage shed was wrecked.

"It looked almost like a sea of fire coming toward us," said Mrs. Mel Herman, whose nearby home was surrounded by the amber-colored oil. The wave of oil rushed into her yard, carrying with it barrels and gallon tins from the wrecked shed.

The Herman home was isolated in a lake of sticky oil three to six inches deep, but the oil did not seep into the house.

In the five-block area over which the oil spread it ranged from a film to three feet deep, depending on land contour.

Three road graders with long blades moved down the oil-covered streets pushing the weather-thickened oil into gooey mounds where pumps were set up for salvage and cleanup attempts.

Sand dikes were built at some spots to contain the flow.

DIPLOMAT DIES — Pakistan Foreign Minister Mohammed Ali, 53, died yesterday in Dacca, Pakistan, after a short illness. He served as prime minister from 1953 to 1955 and later served as ambassador to the United Nations. (AP Photofax)

Prime Minister Of Pakistan Dies Suddenly

DACCA, Pakistan (AP)—Prime Minister Mohammed Ali, 53, a staunch anti-Communist and a good friend of the United States, died unexpectedly Wednesday.

He had been working hard and had ignored his doctor's orders to take a complete rest. He arrived here Tuesday from Karachi and had arranged a meeting with visiting Premier Rachid Karame of Lebanon for Friday.

Cause of death was not announced immediately.

Ali's death came with Pakistan at an important crossroad in the cold war struggle in Asia between the Chinese Communists and the Western powers.

American and British military aid to India in that nation's border war with Red China put Ali on a political hot seat and strained his pro-Western position.

The foreign minister raised his voice with other Pakistanis in protesting the aid, in fear India would use the arms against Pakistan in their dispute over Kashmir. But Ali said he "spoke in anguish, not anger."

As prime minister between 1953 and 1955, Ali led Pakistan into the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact, later renamed the Central Treaty Organization (CENTO). Both alliances were set up by the West to contain communism in the East.

The convivial Pakistani diplomat had many friends in the United States where he served two tours as ambassador to Washington during the 1950s and as leader of his country's delegation to the United Nations.

With a liking for American ways, Ali was credited with a major share of developing warm relations with the United States.

He once silenced parliamentary critics of U.S. policies by reminding them of the "dark days of '53 and '54 when famine stalked East Pakistan and India threatened Pakistan's security." He said the United States came to Pakistan's aid then purely on humanitarian grounds.

Private Rites Held For Hugh Gaitskell

LONDON (AP) — A 20-minute, private funeral service was held Wednesday for Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell in a centuries-old church filled with bouquets and wreaths from thousands expressing their last tribute.

Gaitskell's widow and his two daughters, Julia and Cressida, entered the suburban Hampstead parish church in deep mourning.

Others at the service included party leaders and the ambassadors of the United States, Austria and Sweden.

A public memorial tribute to Gaitskell was to be held later in Westminster Abbey.

Gaitskell died Friday after a two-week illness.

The body was cremated.

Bell To Head Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday approved President Kennedy's nomination of David E. Bell to be head of the foreign aid program.

Bell resigned as budget director to take the new post. His official title will be administrator of the Agency for International Development.

Sen. Curtis Proposes Plan To Reduce Federal Debt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb. Wednesday proposed a pay-as-you-go constitutional amendment which would require at least a half-billion dollar annual reduction in the national debt.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va of the Senate Finance Committee joined Curtis as co-sponsor of the proposed amendment.

"The bringing of federal spending under control is a must and it should not be delayed any longer," Curtis said.

The amendment would require any Congress which authorized spending in excess of estimated receipts to remain in session until it had acted to provide for a balanced budget in the ensuing year.

In event of war or other grave emergency, Congress by a three-fourths vote could suspend provisions of the amendment for one year at a time.

Turkey Land Bases May Be Closed

Seaborne Polaris To Replace Jupiter Rockets Is Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turkish Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin said Wednesday that land-based U. S. Jupiter missiles will be replaced in Turkey by seaborne Polaris missiles with about the same range.

The State Department let the statement stand, neither confirming nor denying it. Asked for comment, it said only that "we are discussing modernization of weapons systems with various NATO countries, including Turkey."

Department spokesman Lincoln White did not elaborate, except on one point. Asked if Turkish developments had any connection with last October's Cuban crisis, he replied: "None whatsoever."

During the crisis, President Kennedy ignored a proposal from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that U.S. bases in Turkey be dismantled in return for Soviet withdrawal of missiles from Cuba.

United Press International learned last week that a strategic shift was underway in the Mediterranean, with Jupiter rockets in both Turkey and Italy being replaced by submarine-borne Polaris missiles.

According to reports at that time, the shift was regarded as furthering the Kennedy - Macmillan concept of a NATO nuclear force as outlined in the agreement reached by the President and the British prime minister at their Nassau conference. Both Turkey and Italy are NATO members.

White House sources said Wednesday that the administration was studying the modernization of NATO nuclear forces. They indicated that the question of Jupiter missiles from Turkey would come up before a meeting of the NATO council in February.

The Polaris is regarded as less vulnerable than the above-ground liquid-fueled Jupiter. The United States has 15 Jupiters in Turkey and 30 in Italy. It also has 60 medium-range Thor rockets in Britain, and these too are being dismantled.

The Turkish foreign minister said in Ankara that substitution of the Polaris for the Jupiter means "there will be no missiles on Turkish soil," long a sore point with Russia. He said dismantling of the Jupiters would begin immediately but that negotiations were continuing.

Man Killed By Crossbow

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (UPI) — Police said Wednesday that a 28-year-old man found slain last Sunday was killed by a razor-sharp arrow fired from a crossbow.

It was first believed the victim, Dillmon Thrasher, had been stabbed to death.

During an autopsy, however, doctors found a black arrowhead in the chest cavity near Thrasher's heart. Officers later located the shaft to the arrow.

The arrowhead had gone through Thrasher's car coat, a sport coat, a sweater, shirt and underwear before fracturing a rib and entering near the heart. He died before he could tell police what happened to him.

Detectives said the shaft is the type fired by crossbows, and may have come from a 45-pound crossbow which has the penetrating power of a .45 caliber pistol at a distance of 100 feet.

They said Thrasher apparently yanked the shaft out and ran about 100 feet to a front porch before collapsing.

Minuteman Shot Most Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP—An advance Minuteman missile blasted out of an underground silo here and sped more than 4,000 miles on a successful test flight.

The success, announced by the Air Force, was the first for the Wing 2 model of the three-stage pushbutton ICBM.

Two earlier Wing 2 rockets exploded during first stage flight last summer and the series was pulled off the firing line for thorough study.

Sheriff Loses Fourth Son To Dread Crippler

GUTHRIE, Tex. (AP)—Muscular dystrophy has killed a fourth son of Sheriff and Mrs. E. W. Hollar.

Jimmy Keith Hollar, 21, died Tuesday. One of his brothers died in 1948, a second in 1958 and a third in 1960.

"There never has been another case in medical history where four victims of progressive muscular dystrophy were found in a single family," said Dr. C. E. Pate, the family physician.

Each of the boys was stricken near the age of 2. Death came for the others at the ages of 14, 18 and 22.

The Hollars' three other sons and two daughters, now adults, escaped the disease.

After the couple lost their first son, residents of this West Texas area contributed $10,000 to build and equip a special hospital room at the sheriff's home.

risen only to -15 at noon and was expected to drop to -20 by Thursday morning.

Other record low readings for the date included: Madison, Wis., -27; Mercier, Mo., -26; Des Moines, Iowa, -22; St. Louis, -11; Kansas City, -9; Oklahoma City, -1; Cairo, Ill., -1.

Record-breaking cold for the date is expected Thursday over much of the South. Zero readings are on tap for all states from the Rockies to the Appalachians.

Cold-wave warnings went out for the vast area from the southern Great Plains to the southern and central Appalachians and the Gulf states. A hard overnight freeze was forecast for the citrus- and vegetable-growing areas of the Rio Grande Valley.

Heavy snow was forecast for most of the Appalachian region and northern New England with a fall of two to four inches expected in the Deep South states of Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

Pennsy Reports Deficit In '62

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad, for the third time in its 116-year history, has reported a deficit for a full year. The railroad said it lost $3,209,900 in 1962 compared with net income of $3,515,600 for the year 1961.

This was the second deficit in the last three years for the nation's largest carrier.

Reduced volume of business in the face of higher wages, payroll tax rates and equipment rental payments caused the deficit, a railroad statement said.

Telestar Makes Important Find About Radiation

NEW YORK (AP)—The Telstar satellite has come up with a new find: A flood of radiation poured into space immediately after the Soviet Union's high altitude nuclear tests in late October.

Telstar discovered the radiation nearly filled the gap between the inner and outer Van Allen radiation belts that circle the earth, Walter L. Brown of Bell Telephone Laboratories reported today.

There was less increase in radiation in the bands themselves than in the strange gap between the two bands, Brown said.

It isn't known why the gap exists between the smaller inside radiation belt and the larger outside belt. But Bell scientists found that the radiation—large increases in energetic electrons—gradually decreased in the weeks following the test blasts.

Telstar also discovered that in the center of the slot the decrease was more rapid than near the belts—even more rapid than would have been expected, Brown told a meeting of the American Physical Society.

Judge Finds Sufficient Grounds For Two Divorces

LONDON (AP)—William Yates, 58, itched and scratched for two nights because of powder his wife put in his bed.

When the itch powder did not drive her husband out, Mrs. Isabel Yates emptied his bedroom of furniture and put sand, bricks, cement and an old fender in the room.

She tried to attack him with a broken bottle, dragged the washing he had laundered into the mud, threw his dinner in the garden, emptied his hot water bottle in the bed, shouted insults at him in the local railroad station and accused him of having an affair with another woman.

They married in 1948 and parted 13 years later.

Mrs. Yates didn't do all the attacking, Judge Charles William Rees said in divorce court Tuesday. Yates was extremely jealous and accused his wife of having affairs with tradesmen who called at the house.

The wife claimed that he also threw their television set out on the lawn, loosened the stair carpet to make her fall and beat her with a part of the vacuum cleaner.

The judge granted divorce decrees to both husband and wife on grounds of cruelty.

State Police Continue Search For Missing Maryland Teacher

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — A dozen state troopers searching for a missing home economics teacher concentrated on the Bowie area Wednesday, tramping through woods and fields and questioning residents.

A 13-state alarm was issued for Mrs. William S. Replane, 25, of Laurel, who disappeared Monday night after teaching a sewing and tailoring class for adults at Laurel High School.

"We have no reason, at this time, to suspect foul play," said State Police Sgt. Wilton R. May, who is heading the investigation.

"We are treating the case as a missing person — until we either find Mrs. Replane or something to indicate foul play."

Mrs. Replane's husband, William, who teaches at the high school, said his wife left home about 6 p.m. Monday to teach two classes, planning to return at 10:30 p.m.

A custodial employe said she left the school at 10 o'clock and he locked the door behind her.

State Police said four persons who drove along the road where her car was found — at different times between 10:40 and 11:30 p.m. — said they noticed a car parked beside the road with the headlights on.

However, a neighbor, Mrs. David Tiren, said she saw the Replane car in front of her as she drove home from the movies about 11 p.m. The car's brake lights flashed off and on, but there was no turn signal, she said, then it pulled off the road.

As she drove by slowly, Mrs. Tiren said, the car's headlights were on but no one was visible inside or outside the car.

Replane said he became worried about 11 p.m., when his wife usually calls if she's going to be out after midnight. He called Laurel police at 12:45 a.m. but officers went to the school and found no cars and no lights.

Replane got into the couple's other car about 1 a.m. and started toward Laurel. He found his wife's gray and white car parked at a 10-degree angle to the side of the road, about 500 yards from their apartment.

The location is on Mistletoe Spring Road, between U.S. 1 and the Baltimore-Washington Parkway.

MRS. WM. S. REPLANE

The car's headlights were burning on high beam. The ignition was off. The left front window had been rolled down. The emergency brake was partly set.

Replane was able to start the car, though the battery was a little low. He said the car was parked as his wife might have left it except for the emergency brake.

"I remember telling her that setting the emergency brake in freezing weather risked locking the brakes," he said. "She invariably left the car parked in 'park'."

Doctor Orders Tawes To Rest

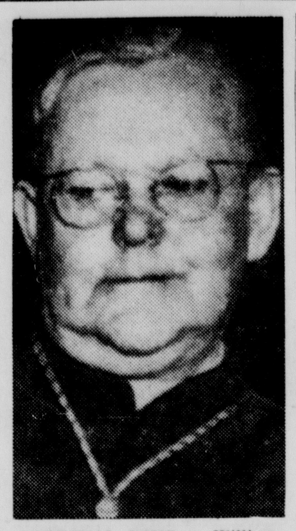

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Tawes' condition was improved Wednesday but he remained under doctor's order to stay in bed for the second day in a row.

An aide in the governor's office said Tawes probably would not be back in his office the rest of the week.

The governor's personal physician, Dr. Daniel Wilfson, described the chief executive's ailment as an "influenza-like infection."

The governor, because of his illness, was unable to attend a legislative breakfast at Government House for legislators from Baltimore and Harford counties.

The governor's son, Philip, and an executive assistant, James Morton, were co-hosts for Tawes.

Maryland News In Brief Form

BALTIMORE (AP) — Search planes flying over 20 square miles of forest in Howard County found no trace Wednesday of a plane that was reported to have crashed in Patapsco State Forest.

A night watchman, Robert Miller, who works in Ilchester, said a light, twin-engine plane, with one of its engines sputtering, flew over before dawn Wednesday.

He said the pilot turned on his landing lights and the plane disappeared in the trees. A search was started soon afterward but was called off before noon after it yielded no evidence of a plane crash.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The filing of answers to final motions in the conspiracy case involving former congressman Thomas F. Johnson has cleared the way for a U.S. District Court hearing.

Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen has set Friday for arguments on a motion by Johnson's lawyers to dismiss the case. Johnson has been indicted by a federal grand jury, which accused him of accepting compensation to intervene in behalf of a savings and loan operator charged with mail fraud.

Johnson, a Democrat, was defeated by Rogers C. B. Morton, Republican, for Eastern Shore congressman in the general election last November.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Some 23,000 pounds of pharmaceutical supplies and baby food were flown to Havana, Cuba, from Friendship International Airport Wednesday.

The shipment, worth $311,800, is part of the goods demanded by Premier Fidel Castro in exchange for release of Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

SUITLAND, Md. (AP) — Six apartment buildings under construction in the Pennbrooke Terrace development were destroyed by fire early Wednesday.

A spokesman for the developer said the buildings were about 75 per cent completed. An estimate of the damage was not available immediately, and firemen were investigating the cause.

Nearly a dozen firefighters were injured, none seriously, while battling the flames.

Maryland Hay Crop Smallest In 18 Years

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Maryland's 1962 hay crop was the smallest in 18 years, the Crop Reporting Service said Wednesday.

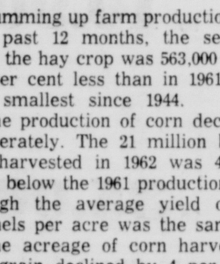

Summing up farm production for the past 12 months, the service said the hay crop was 563,000 tons, 29 per cent less than in 1961 and the smallest since 1944.

The production of corn declined moderately. The 21 million bushels harvested in 1962 was 4 per cent below the 1961 production, although the average yield of 60 bushels per acre was the same.

The acreage of corn harvested for grain declined by 4 per cent from 1961, but acreage for silage of 99,000 acres was much higher than the 1961 level of 66,000 acres and largest since the drought year of 1957.

The total value of the principal crops in 1962 was $122.2 million — a slight increase compared with $122.1 million for 1961.

Claiming Proper Exemptions Can Save Income Tax

Tax Series—Part 3

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of five dispatches on how to make out your federal income tax return without paying more than you owe. Todays' subject: Exemptions.)

By United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're eager to pay Uncle Sam more income tax than you actually owe, one way to do it is to fail to claim all exemptions to which you're entitled.

Exemptions are important because the government draws a distinction between your total income and your taxable income. You have to report the total income, but you aren't taxed on all of it.

Each exemption to which you are entitled reduces your income by $600 for tax purposes.

Every taxpayer automatically gets one exemption for himself. (That's why a single person with no dependents pays no tax if his income is $600 or less.)

A married person gets one exemption for himself and one for his wife — unless she is listed as a dependent on another person's return, such as a parent's, or unless she has filed a separate return of her own claiming herself as an exemption.

The rule is that a person can be a full dependent of only one taxpayer. This means that when a couple files separate individual returns, each must list himself and neither can claim the other. Both can be listed in a joint husband-wife return even if the wife (or husband) had no income in 1962.

Provide Exemption

There are special exemptions for old age and blindness. If you were 65 or older on or before Jan. 1, 1963, you get an extra $600 exemption. If you were blind on or before the last day of the year, you may take an extra $600 exemption regardless of your age. If you qualify on both counts, you may take two extra exemptions.

Suppose you turned 65 last year (or on Jan. 1, 1963) and your wife did, too. If you file a joint return you may take four deductions — the one apiece everyone is entitled to and one each on account of age. That means the first $2,400 of income reported is not taxable. If you and your wife file separate returns, you take two exemptions each.

You may take blindness and old age exemptions for a wife or husband who died last year.

But these special types of exemptions may not be claimed in any circumstances for a dependent other than a spouse. A parent, child or other dependent counts as only one exemption for you regardless of age or blindness.

Must Meet Test

To claim someone as a dependent, your relationship must meet these five tests:

1. You must have furnished more than half of his or her support in the past year.

2. The dependent's gross income must have been less than $600 for the year, unless the dependent if your child under 19 or a fulltime student. (Details on this exception below.)

3. The dependent must be closely related to you or, if not, must be a member of your household who has lived in your home for the entire year.

4. The dependent must be a citizen of the United States. If he is not, he must be a resident of this country, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone.

5. The dependent must not make a joint return with his or her wife or husband.

Here is the special exception the government makes for your children. A son or daughter who earns $600 or more may still be claimed as a dependent by a parent who provided more than half the youngster's support:

—If the youngster was under 19 at the end of the year.

—Or if he or she was a full-time student regardless of age.

To be legally a full-time student, a person must hve engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or have been enrolled in one of several full-time on-the-farm training programs.

If Child Qualifies

Remember: Even if your child qualified under one of these special rules, you cannot claim him as a dependent unless you provided more than half his support.

Regardless of whether you claim him as a dependent, a child who earned $600 or more must file an income tax return of his own. He may claim his own personal exemption without affecting your right to claim him as a dependent.

If the child earned less than $600 and taxes were withheld—this applies to adults, too — he is entitled to get the taxes back. To do so, he must file a return.

A modest tax break is also provided in the law for persons who qualify as "heads of household." Usually, this means a person who is unmarried or legally separated, but who furnished for the entire year more than half the cost of maintaining a household for at least one relative. An example would be a single man who provides a home for an elderly mother.

A "head of household" is taxed at slightly lower rates than "single" taxpayers. If the relative he supported was an unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild who shared a home with the taxpayer, he need not qualify as a dependent. If the relative is a parent who qualifies as a dependent, the household you maintain for him need not be where you live.

Rule Modified

The rule which says you must furnish one-half of a person's support in order to claim him as a dependent is modified in the case of persons whose support is provided by several individuals.

If all other tests for claiming a dependent are met except the "support test," any person contributing more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support may make the claim. Other contributors of more than 10 per cent of support must make statements waiving their right to take an exemption for the dependent. They use Form 2120 to make this declaration. These forms are filed with the return of the person claiming the exemption.

Here's an example: an elderly mother is supported by two sons and a daughter, each of whom provides one-third of her support. One of the three may claim the mother as an exemption if the other two waive such a claim on Form 2120. But the exemption cannot be divided.

Other points about exemptions:

—You may not claim an exemption for your spouse if you were divorced or legally separated during the year, regardless of support payments.

—You may take an exemption for a child born to you last year who died before the year ended. You may claim the child even if it lived for only a few seconds or minutes — but not if it was stillborn.

Next: Deductions

. . . Just Step On It And Let Her Go . . .

EDISON, N.J. (UPI) — The young motorist looked squarely at the state trooper and said proudly:

"There's nothing to driving — all you gotta do is step on it and steer."

It was the driver's first fling behind the wheel.

—The driver was only 12 years old.

—The car was stolen.

—The 90-mile-an-hour whirl wasn't nearly within the speed limit.

Trooper Edmund Dehaven caught up with the speeding car after a 10-mile chase in Galloway Twp. A 14-year-old boy was found with the younger one.

The youngsters, who were not identified by police, were returned here and held for juvenile court action.

Fox Hunting Country Folk Objecting To Power Lines

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A group of landowners in the Northern Virginia horse county is all booted and spurred—so to speak—ready to ride against plans of an electric utility company to run half-million volt transmission lines across good fox hunting territory.

The Virginia Electric and Power Co. sought to stay opposition by promising to build smaller than usual towers for the line and paint them brown, to blend with the landscape.

Landowners seem largely unsoothed by the proposal. They want the "view haloo" of the hunt reserved for a brown fox—not a brown tower.

"Our obligation to serve the public at reasonable rates requires that these lines be built along a practicable route," the utility said.

An early report said the line would cross Rattlesnake Mountain where President Kennedy is building a country retreat in Fauquier County. VEPCO said Monday, however, the lines wouldn't be visible from the Kennedy home.

Fauquier landowners protested that VEPCO's project would scatter unsightly transmission towers across the landscape and lower property values. VEPCO then promised more sightly towers.

Now from neighboring Clarke County comes word from Edward B. Lee, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, that the VEPCO proposal won't pacify the landowners at all.

The power company expects to complete the first leg of the line, from the Grant County, W. Va., coal field area to the suburbs of Washington, next year.

Claiming Proper Exemptions Can Save Income Tax

Tax Series—Part 3

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of five dispatches on how to make out your federal income tax return without paying more than you owe. Todays' subject: Exemptions.)

By United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—If you're eager to pay Uncle Sam more income tax than you actually owe, one way to do it is to fail to claim all exemptions to which you're entitled.

Exemptions are important because the government draws a distinction between your total income and your taxable income. You have to report the total income, but you aren't taxed on all of it.

Each exemption to which you are entitled reduces your income by $600 for tax purposes.

Every taxpayer automatically gets one exemption for himself. (That's why a single person with no dependents pays no tax if his income is $600 or less.)

A married person gets one exemption for himself and one for his wife — unless she is listed as a dependent on another person's return, such as a parent's, or unless she has filed a separate return of her own claiming herself as an exemption.

The rule is that a person can be a full dependent of only one taxpayer. This means that when a couple files separate individual returns, each must list himself and neither can claim the other. Both can be listed in a joint husband-wife return even if the wife (or husband) had no income in 1962.

Provide Exemption

There are special exemptions for old age and blindness. If you were 65 or older on or before Jan. 1, 1963, you get an extra $600 exemption. If you were blind on or before the last day of the year, you may take an extra $600 exemption regardless of your age. If you qualify on both counts, you may take two extra exemptions.

Suppose you turned 65 last year (or on Jan. 1, 1963) and your wife did, too. If you file a joint return you may take four deductions — the one apiece everyone is entitled to and one each on account of age. That means the first $2,400 of income reported is not taxable. If you and your wife file separate returns, you take two exemptions each.

You may take blindness and old age exemptions for a wife or husband who died last year.

But these special types of exemptions may not be claimed in any circumstances for a dependent other than a spouse. A parent, child or other dependent counts as only one exemption for you regardless of age or blindness.

Must Meet Test

To claim someone as a dependent, your relationship must meet these five tests:

1. You must have furnished more than half of his or her support in the past year.

2. The dependent's gross income must have been less than $600 for the year, unless the dependent if your child under 19 or a fulltime student. (Details on this exception below.)

3. The dependent must be closely related to you or, if not, must be a member of your household who has lived in your home for the entire year.

4. The dependent must be a citizen of the United States. If he is not, he must be a resident of this country, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone.

5. The dependent must not make a joint return with his or her wife or husband.

Here is the special exception the government makes for your children. A son or daughter who earns $600 or more may still be claimed as a dependent by a parent who provided more than half the youngster's support:

—If the youngster was under 19 at the end of the year.

—Or if he or she was a full-time student regardless of age.

To be legally a full-time student, a person must hve engaged in full-time study at a recognized school for at least five months of the year, or have been enrolled in one of several full-time on-the-farm training programs.

If Child Qualifies

Remember: Even if your child qualified under one of these special rules, you cannot claim him as a dependent unless you provided more than half his support.

Regardless of whether you claim him as a dependent, a child who earned $600 or more must file an income tax return of his own. He may claim his own personal exemption without affecting your right to claim him as a dependent.

If the child earned less than $600 and taxes were withheld—this applies to adults, too — he is entitled to get the taxes back. To do so, he must file a return.

A modest tax break is also provided in the law for persons who qualify as "heads of household." Usually, this means a person who is unmarried or legally separated, but who furnished for the entire year more than half the cost of maintaining a household for at least one relative. An example would be a single man who provides a home for an elderly mother.

A "head of household" is taxed at slightly lower rates than "single" taxpayers. If the relative he supported was an unmarried child, grandchild or stepchild who shared a home with the taxpayer, he need not qualify as a dependent. If the relative is a parent who qualifies as a dependent, the household you maintain for him need not be where you live.

Rule Modified

The rule which says you must furnish one-half of a person's support in order to claim him as a dependent is modified in the case of persons whose support is provided by several individuals.

If all other tests for claiming a dependent are met except the "support test," any person contributing more than 10 per cent of the dependent's support may make the claim. Other contributors of more than 10 per cent of support must make statements waiving their right to take an exemption for the dependent. They use Form 2120 to make this declaration. These forms are filed with the return of the person claiming the exemption.

Here's an example: an elderly mother is supported by two sons and a daughter, each of whom provides one-third of her support. One of the three may claim the mother as an exemption if the other two waive such a claim on Form 2120. But the exemption cannot be divided.

Other points about exemptions:

—You may not claim an exemption for your spouse if you were divorced or legally separated during the year, regardless of support payments.

—You may take an exemption for a child born to you last year who died before the year ended. You may claim the child even if it lived for only a few seconds or minutes — but not if it was stillborn.

Next: Deductions.

. . . Just Step On It And Let Her Go . . .

EDISON, N.J. (UPI) — The young motorist looked squarely at the state trooper and said proudly:

"There's nothing to driving — all you gotta do is step on it and steer."

It was the driver's first fling behind the wheel.

—The driver was only 12 years old.

—The car was stolen.

—The 90-mile-an-hour whirl wasn't nearly within the speed limit.

Trooper Edmund Dehaven caught up with the speeding car after a 10-mile chase in Galloway Twp. A 14-year-old boy was found with the younger one.

The youngsters, who were not identified by police, were returned here and held for juvenile court action.

Fox Hunting Country Folk Objecting To Power Lines

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A group of landowners in the Northern Virginia horse county is all booted and spurred—so to speak—ready to ride against plans of an electric utility company to run half-million volt transmission lines across good fox hunting territory.

The Virginia Electric and Power Co. sought to stay opposition by promising to build smaller than usual towers for the line and paint them brown, to blend with the landscape.

Landowners seem largely unsoothed by the proposal. They want the "view haloo" of the hunt reserved for a brown fox—not a brown tower.

"Our obligation to serve the public at reasonable rates requires that these lines be built along a practicable route," the utility said.

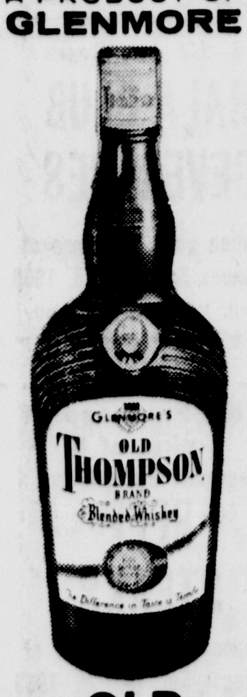

An early report said the line would cross Rattlesnake Mountain where President Kennedy is building a country retreat in Fauquier County. VEPCO said Monday, however, the lines wouldn't be visible from the Kennedy home.

Fauquier landowners protested that VEPCO's project would scatter unsightly transmission towers across the landscape and lower property values. VEPCO then promised more sightly towers.

Now from neighboring Clarke County comes word from Edward B. Lee, chairman of the County Board of Supervisors, that the VEPCO proposal won't pacify the landowners at all.

The power company expects to complete the first leg of the line, from the Grant County, W. Va., coal field area to the suburbs of Washington, next year.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You will be performing an invaluable service for the business world if you print this letter. It is about weeping women.

I am personnel director of a large office. Our company is proud of its excellent working conditions, superior equipment and the benefits we provide for our employes. Yet every day, without fail, at least one woman comes into my office and cries all over the upholstered furniture.

A female who accepts the challenge of the business world should expect criticism, competition and personality conflicts. She asked for the whole package when she left her comfortable home and went out after that paycheck.

I'd like to buy a full page ad in every newspaper in the country and say "WOMEN WHO WORK—GROW UP. Men cannot respect a woman who blubbers like a 4-year-old when things go wrong." I must sign off now. Here comes another one. — DAMP FURNITURE

DEAR DAMP FURNITURE: All right, girls, turn off the water works, you're runing the personnel director's shoe-shine.

And you, sir—keep those paper tissues handy because the gals are going to keep right on bawling.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have taught third graders in the public schools for many years. These youngsters are inclined to tell a teacher things older children would not. They are so helpless in family difficulties my heart goes out to them.

I know a father of 13 children who has not worked in almost two years. Another father of eight has been unemployed for a year. Aid to dependent children helps feed and house them but the damage to the personalities is irreparable. Youngsters should not grow up in a home where nobody works. They may become only too willing to go on welfare themselves when they grow up.

Obviously, some men can't find employment. But too many fathers prefer relief to working. I recommend closer surveillance of families on relief so that able-bodied men who CAN work, are not allowed to loaf and provide wretched examples for their children.—TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I abhor the notion that EVERYONE on relief is free-loading, but I agree the administration of our welfare programs can, in some areas, be improved.

As you so cogently pointed out, poor administration involves not only a waste of taxpayer's money, but, more importantly, human values which can demoralize future generations. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Joe and I are going to be married. This is an exciting time for us. His first wife died when his son was only five years old. The boy is nine now.

Joe and I have talked about every possible phase of our marriage which might be a problem. We agree on everything except one point. We decided to put the question to you. Do you think a nine-year-old boy should help his mother with the dishes?

I say yes. Joe says dishes are sissy stuff. He claims a boy should do yard work, run errands, empty the trash and so on, but he should not be expected to do anything in the kitchen. What you say goes.—IRENE

DEAR IRENE: There is nothing sissified about a boy helping his mother with the dishes. In fact, I hope you will teach him how to cook a little. It can be a useful hobby.

Some men are helpless when their wives have to be away for a few days. They can't make a pot of coffe or scramble an egg because their mothers never let them near the kitchen. For shame.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

DEAR DAMP FURNITURE: All right, girls, turn off the water works, you're runing the personnel director's shoe-shine.

And you, sir—keep those paper tissues handy because the gals are going to keep right on bawling.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have taught third graders in the public schools for many years. These youngsters are inclined to tell a teacher things older children would not. They are so helpless in family difficulties my heart goes out to them.

I know a father of 13 children who has not worked in almost two years. Another father of eight has been unemployed for a year. Aid to dependent children helps feed and house them but the damage to the personalities is irreparable. Youngsters should not grow up in a home where nobody works. They may become only too willing to go on welfare themselves when they grow up.

Obviously, some men can't find employment. But too many fathers prefer relief to working. I recommend closer surveillance of families on relief so that able-bodied men who CAN work, are not allowed to loaf and provide wretched examples for their children.—TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I abhor the notion that EVERYONE on relief is free-loading, but I agree the administration of our welfare programs can, in some areas, be improved.

As you so cogently pointed out, poor administration involves not only a waste of taxpayer's money, but, more importantly, human values which can demoralize future generations. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Joe and I are going to be married. This is an exciting time for us. His first wife died when his son was only five years old. The boy is nine now.

Joe and I have talked about every possible phase of our marriage which might be a problem. We agree on everything except one point. We decided to put the question to you. Do you think a nine-year-old boy should help his mother with the dishes?

I say yes. Joe says dishes are sissy stuff. He claims a boy should do yard work, run errands, empty the trash and so on, but he should not be expected to do anything in the kitchen. What you say goes.—IRENE

DEAR IRENE: There is nothing sissified about a boy helping his mother with the dishes. In fact, I hope you will teach him how to cook a little. It can be a useful hobby.

Some men are helpless when their wives have to be away for a few days. They can't make a pot of coffe or scramble an egg because their mothers never let them near the kitchen. For shame.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For the Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Do you throw your shoulders back for posture's sake? You shouldn't! Here's the right carriage.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Check Your Shoulder Line For Improved Posture

Consider the matter of how to carry your shoulders. (If you err in this, good posture is impossible; your figure will sprout faults and your health will suffer.) Of all the erroneous instructions bandied about on this subject, the one that is surest to cause trouble is to "throw your shoulders back—back as far as possible." That is not only wrong but sure to lead to postural difficulties.

Here's a test that will prove it: Stand in profile beside a mirror and pull your shoulders back as far as you can. Note how tense and awkward you look with arms hanging behind instead of alongside your body, shoulder blades crowding each other and your head jutting forward. Besides being ungainly, this position leads to a serious sway back or lordosis.

Now, rotate your shoulders forward and up to try to touch your ears. Hold for a moment, let them droop relaxed and inspect this new position. Does your shoulder joint, where your arm hinges to the body, fall slightly forward while your upper back lies flat? If so, you can be sure you'll never have round shoulders if you make this your habitual posture. This is the only natural and correct position for your shoulders.

But, if your upper back is rounded like a big C, you are afflicted with a true round-shouldered condition, stemming from hunching tactics. Perform this corrective exercise daily and your shoulders will assume the position described in the above paragraph:

Sit on the floor with your back against a wall, arms extending in front of you at shoulder level. Starting with the head, curl your spine until you can touch your ankles with your finger tips. Then gradually uncurl from the bottom of your spine trying to make every section of your back lie flat against the wall as you return to starting position.

Patents Sold

NEW YORK (UPI) — Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp said it has sold its patents on the process for making the principal chemical used in polyester films, to Mobil Chemical Co. Mobil bought the patents because it wished to make polymer grade terephthalic acid, isophthalic acid and some related products and sell them on a world wide scale, Olin Vice-President C. W. Smith said.

Avco Gets Contract

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force has awarded a $4,500,000 contract to Avco Corp. at Wilmington, Mass., for further work on the Minuteman re-entry vehicle. The announcement was made jointly by Sens. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who said the contract boosts to $32,670,680 the amount awarded the firm for the work.

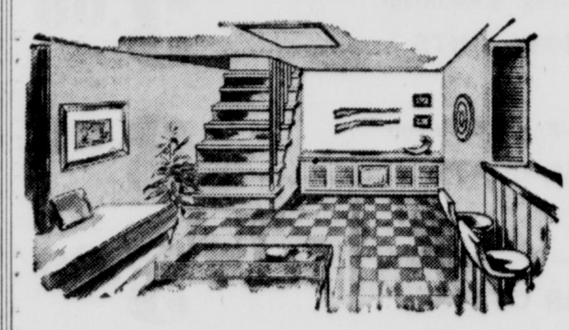

Plant Planned

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interior Department's Office of Saline Water has awarded Struthers Scientific and International Corp. of New York a $1.23 million contract to design and build a new water de-salting plant at Wrightsville Beach, N.C. The plant will employ the Struthers Umano freezing process to produce 200,000 gallons of fresh water daily from sea water.

Triumph Over Polio An Important Advancement By Medical Science

By AL KUETTNER

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI)—Medical science has few victories that can stand alongside the spectacular triumph over polio.

Last year the total polio cases in the United States dropped below the 1,000 mark for the first time since records were kept. In 1952, a total of 57,879 cases had been recorded.

The victory comes on the 25th anniversary of a project known to a generation of Americans as "The March of Dimes."

That voluntary outpouring of dimes from school children, the change from restaurant checks and the leftovers from housewives' cookie jar banks largely financed the research that produced revolutionary new treatment for victims and finally the immunization of the Salk and Sabin vaccines.

Skirmishes And Strategists

The fight against polio had many skirmishes and many strategists.

There was Miami Beach hotelman Henry L. Doherty, who conceived the idea of holding $1 admission dances in every town in the country on the birthday of then President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a polio victim.

There was comedian Eddie Cantor, the man credited with coining the phrase, "The March of Dimes."

There was Basil O'Connor, a New York lawyer who became the brains of the fund - raising drive that would pay for the battle.

And there was FDR. Those who knew him in the early days of the polio struggle recalled that the President was the means of giving dignity to polio sufferers for the first time. Roosevelt had a deep love for Warm Springs whose 88-degree water he believed had special beneficial effects. He had a "Little White House" there and died in it in 1945.

First Birthday Balls

On Jan. 30, 1934, in an old abandoned Civilian Conservation Corps building across the highway from the Foundation and in plush ballrooms around the nation, bands struck up melodies and socially - prominent ladies manned the ticket counters for the first birthday balls.

That year about $1 million was raised and $100,000 was earmarked for the first research program "to stimulate and further the meritorious work being done in the field of infantile paralysis."

Research brought changes in treatment. The standard for polio patients had been extreme immobilization in plaster casts followed, after many months, with exercise. By then changes had taken place in muscles and joints, making recovery difficult.

Rigid splits were eliminated and apparatus was developed that would allow the patient to exercise early. Muscle re-education became a major phase of treatment.

"We learned to walk the tight rope between rest and activity," said Dr. Robert L. Bennett, executive director of the Foundation and chairman of the department of physical medicine in Atlanta's Emory University.

Blessing In Disguise

The medical scientists like Bennett, polio actually became something of a blessing in disguise.

"Polio was God given to teach us how to care for far more difficult problems," Bennett said.

"Through polio treatment, we have learned much about arthritis, broken backs and necks, the progressive crippling diseases, paraplegia (immobilization of lower extremities) and quadriplegia (all extremities)."

There were those who thought that, with the end of polio, Warm Springs would have served its purpose. A tour through the place shows that nothing is further from the fact.

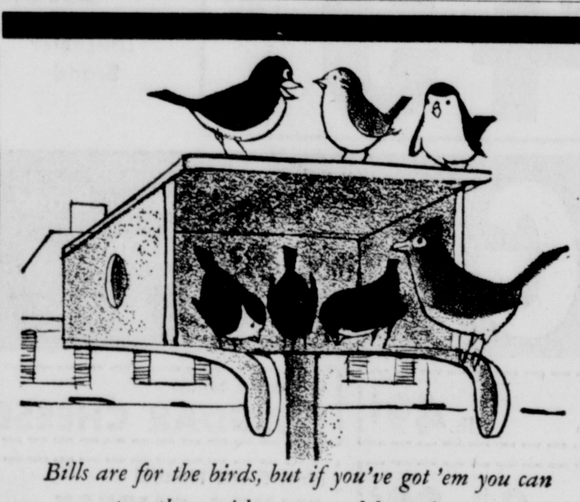

Today the foundation is treating and rehabilitating a wide variety of immobilizing ailments and is operating a graduate training program in therapy for doctors and nurses. Georgia is building a rehabilitation center on Foundation-deeded property.

The big job here today, as in the past, is to return a patient to normal pursuits, trained to compensate for partial disability.

Magic Peace

ROME (UPI) — Vittorio Scifio, 25, who calls himself a soothsayer and operates under the name "The Wizard of Tobruk," said on Tuesday he had written Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for permission to hold a convention of 10,000 wizards in Moscow to use their "magic" in the interests of peace. He said Khrushchev had not replied.

Triumph Over Polio An Important Advancement By Medical Science

By AL KUETTNER

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI)—Medical science has few victories that can stand alongside the spectacular triumph over polio.

Last year the total polio cases in the United States dropped below the 1,000 mark for the first time since records were kept. In 1952, a total of 57,879 cases had been recorded.

The victory comes on the 25th anniversary of a project known to a generation of Americans as "The March of Dimes."

That voluntary outpouring of dimes from school children, the change from restaurant checks and the leftovers from housewives' cookie jar banks largely financed the research that produced revolutionary new treatment for victims and finally the immunization of the Salk and Sabin vaccines.

Skirmishes And Strategists

The fight against polio had many skirmishes and many strategists.

There was Miami Beach hotelman Henry L. Doherty, who conceived the idea of holding $1 admission dances in every town in the country on the birthday of then President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a polio victim.

There was comedian Eddie Cantor, the man credited with coining the phrase, "The March of Dimes."

There was Basil O'Connor, a New York lawyer who became the brains of the fund - raising drive that would pay for the battle.

And there was FDR. Those who knew him in the early days of the polio struggle recalled that the President was the means of giving dignity to polio sufferers for the first time. Roosevelt had a deep love for Warm Springs whose 88-degree water he believed had special beneficial effects. He had a "Little White House" there and died in it in 1945.

First Birthday Balls

On Jan. 30, 1934, in an old abandoned Civilian Conservation Corps building across the highway from the Foundation and in plush ballrooms around the nation, bands struck up melodies and socially - prominent ladies manned the ticket counters for the first birthday balls.

Men's New Shoe Styles Offer Variety

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — American men's shoe manufacturers are using so much hand stitching on the spring shoes this year they are running out of people who know how to do hand stitching and have been forced to conduct courses in the ancient art.

The pace - setters are lightweight moccasin style— Hand-sewn, of course—either in slipons or blucher ties but made of lighter leathers which wear as well as the heavier. This is achieved by retanning the leather with bark after it has been tanned in the usual way with chrome salts.

The hand-sewn moccasin was the most popular shown for spring but there were new styles in smooth, grain and brushed leather, ranging from newer versions of the dress brogue to casuals in waxed or brushed leather and chukka boots in grained and brushed leathers.

The hand-sewn shoe has moved out of the informal category into the ranks of style leaders and is shown in highly polished black and brown leather or finely grained antiqued brown and olive.

The old classics are back and up-dated but there also are a lot of new gimmicks. Some manufacturers show jumbo-size perforations, straps and buckles and exaggerated stiching on wingtips.

The general shape tends toward a long, slim look to wear with narrower trousers. Ties are often placed high up to make the foot look slimmer.

Black continues to outpace all other colors but there is strong competition with new brown shades and cordovan, either real or fake. In summer shoes the old black and white classic is seen in some lines but casuals tend toward a natural color.

Some of the shoes shown by the Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America include a slipon, five-tie plain toe blucher and a wingtip in light California saddle leather by Bates and a plain toe three-tie in perforated dark brown charcoal by American Gentleman.

Freeman's Perfinos is in glove leather with "mudguard construction"—the sole comes up on the side where it is joined with very fine stitching to the upper.

Over at the National Shoe Institute there were these highlights:

A formal looking shoe by Bostonian with a very shiny plain calf toe but a pebble-grained upper with five ties; a pebble slipon by Jarman with almost a matte finish; a coarse grain blucher by Freeman with tie and tassels in dark brown with a black sole. British Walker showed a two-tie with tassels in pebble grain with natural crepe sole.

Hush Puppies showed a fawn-colored, very light three-tie leisure shoe with perforations on the top of the toe and the upper. For real leisure Wellco showed a shoe with stretch woven sides and a plain toe and a hot weather shoe with a nylon mesh toe and woven elasticized sides. Most casual was Jaunter's wrap around boot of soft leather which sort of folds around the foot. And for a teen-ager who wants button shoes Pedwin showed a sharp and shiny slipon with three buttons on one side and a gore on the other.

An offer of Arthur W. German and associates to operate the port was withdrawn. Warren R. Mullenax, former port operator, also submitted a proposal to the commission Tuesday.

$30 Is Reported Taken At West Side School

Intruders broke into the West Side Elementary School early yesterday and stole $30 in cash.

City Police were notified of the breaking and entering shortly after 7 a. m. by an employe of the school.

Det. Royce Clayton said the intruder entered the building by an unlocked window and then forced a door at the cafeteria office. The cash was stolen from the office.

Police today also received a complaint of $45 in quarters being taken from a parked automobile on Louisiana Avenue.

Lloyd Wilfong, of 526 Louisiana Avenue, informed Det. Clayton that the money was in a case on the backseat of his car. The vehicle apparently wasn't locked.

Border Violations

JERUSALEM, Israel (UPI)— The Jordan-Israeli mixed armistice commission began studying complaints from each side alleging border violations arising from farming operations along the frontier. Jordan also complained that Israel sent planes over Baitiksa, in the Jerusalem area, and allowed tractors to plow in no man's land near Latroun.

ABL Plant Sets New Safety Record

Workers at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory have established a new safety record for Hercules Powder Company and its Explosives Department.

ABL officials yesterday said that 8,415,077 manhours have been worked without a tabulable lost-time accident.

Hercules and Piedmont officials joined in praising ABLers for their outstanding achievement and continued attitude toward safety. They especially lauded each employe for taking upon himself the responsibility for preventing accidents on the job.

The ABL Safety Department issued this statement to employes:

"The Safety Department wishes to congratulate every ABL employee for his part in setting a new Explosives Department and company safety record. We feel that the Safety Department's efforts are to help our supervisors fulfill their responsibility for the safety of the employees under their supervision, to try to continually stimulate safety interest, and to advise and keep management informed of our progress.

"We would particularly like to cite all levels of supervision for having successfully developed the required "Safety Attitude" in our employees. This attitude must be continually demanded of every worker. Let us set our sights on a 10,000,000 man-hour target, which could be realized by spring or early summer.

"The real value of these records, however, is the realization that we have all been able to carry out our daily tasks without suffering grief or pain to ourselves or our families. This, in itself, rewards all efforts for safety.

"Let's continue to be injury-free in '63."

Besides breaking the all-time high Explosives Department and company safety record, previously held by Radford Ordnance Plant, ABL may also have won the Aerospace Section safety contest sponsored by the National Safety Council.

Although not officially confirmed, the Safety Department said there is a strong chance that ABL will receive the award since the plant was leading the Research and Development Group at the end of the year. ABL was on top in the year-long competition with a zero frequency rate.

The next goal of ABL employes is winning the fifth general manager's safety prize, which has a target date of February 9. As of last midnight, ABLers had worked 512 days of injury-free work with 18 more days to go before qualifying for safety prize.

ABL is also striving to break the plant's standing 21-month period safety record which will take another six months of accident-free work to accomplish. This record was set at ABL from August 22, 1957, to May 24, 1959.

When the 21-month period is surpassed, ABLers will have worked 10,000,000 man-hours, a new all-time high for the industry, officials said.

Creating a lighthouse service was one of the early acts of the U.S. Congress, which established the Bureau of Lighthouses in 1789. Since 1939, it has been administered as part of the Coast Guard.

DMV, Police Support Drunk Driving Bills

By GORDON BEARD

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Bills designed to reduce the number of drinking motorists on Maryland highways were supported Wednesday by State Police and Department of Motor Vehicles.

"This is a tremendous problem which requires tremendous action in all areas that can bring any influence on it," said Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of State Police.

Jarman reminded members of the House Judiciary Committee that Maryland's highway death toll reached a near-record 587 last year.

"During a recent 28 - week study," he said, "it was shown that alcohol was a contributing factor in 41 per cent of the 340 deaths investigated."

Since both the automobile and alcohol are deeply imbedded in the American way of life, Jarman said, means must be found to live with them in safety.

Jarman and Commissioner John R. Jewell of the Department of Motor Vehicles said they favored making willingness to submit to drunkenness tests a condition upon which a driver's license is granted.

This idea is encompassed in bill introduced by Dels. Edgar P. Silver, D-Balto 5th, and Hervey G. Machen, D-Prince Georges. They would suspend the license of a motorist who refused to take a drunkenness test after being charged with operating a car under the influence of alcohol. The suspension would remain in effect until the case is settled.

Silver's bill includes the right of appeal and is considered more inclusive. It was modeled after a uniform code suggested for introduction at various state legislatures.

Under the present law, a motorist may refuse to take the Breatholizer test—under which a person is considered drunk if the alcoholic content of his blood reaches 15 per cent. Backed by testimony of an expert, this information could be used in evidence.

Jarman said 227 persons—16 per cent of 1,408—refused to take the test when it was offered in 1961. The percentage of refusals jumped to 21 per cent last year.

Of those who did take the test in 1962, Jarman said, the alcoholic content of 77 per cent was at or above the 15 per cent level.

Jewell said habitual drinkers, once convicted, usually refuse to take the test when arrested a second time.

Del. Thomas Hunter Lowe, D-Talbot, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, indicated committee action on the bills would be taken Thursday.

A native of Cleveland, he is a graduate of Case Institute of Technology, where he received his B.S., M.S., and Phd. degrees in chemical engineering.

He joined Hercules in 1958 as a research associate at ABL. Since that time, Dr. Schaefer has held a number of important positions at ABL including senior research engineer, supervisor of the design research group, and assistant superintendent of the rocket research department.

Before coming to ABL he was employed by the Dow Chemical Company, and his previous industrial experience includes polymerization processing and fabrication of synthetic fibers, plastic foam, plastic films, vinyl latex lacquers for film and paper coatings, and some experience in glass manufacturing and textile operations.

Dr. Schaefer is a World War II Army veteran and is a member of the American Rocket Society, American Ordnance Association, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Chemical Society, American Society of Metals, Cumberland Country Club, and the Knights of Columbus.

Cash Taken In Entry Of School Here

Two breaking and enterings, and several thefts and vandalism reports were being investigated yesterday by the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department.

The West Side School was broken into and several articles and cash with a total value of $27 taken.

Police were told yesterday that a door leading to the school cafeteria was forced and the loot taken from the kitchen. Entry was gained through an unlocked window on the south side of the building, police were told.

The Ray C. Lapp plumbing and heating firm reported its quarters at Quebec and Blackiston streets was entered by an intruder who broke a glass in the door and reached inside to unlock the door leading to the shop. About $7 was taken from a desk drawer.

Lloyd Wilfong, 526 Louisiana Avenue, reported someone stole about $45 from his unlocked car parked at the rear of his home. The glove compartment was also broken open and ransacked, he said.

Johns Linked With Three Robberies

The FBI said yesterday the armed robber of a federal savings and loan association bank in Cleveland, Ohio, from which over $10,000 was stolen September 21, 1961, has been identified as Lawrence Johns, now deceased, formerly of Harrisburg, Pa.

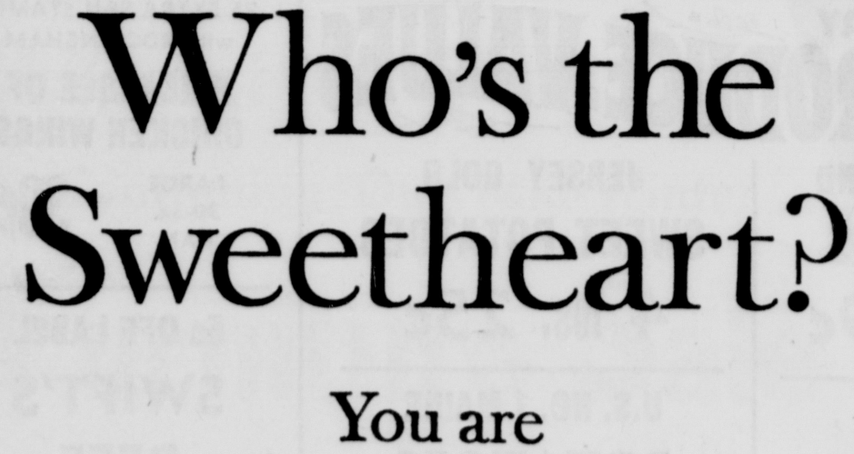

Johns killed himself with a bullet in the head last August 20. Cpl. Robert D. Kirby was arresting two of Johns companions near Hancock for burglarizing a telephone booth when Johns drove up and shot and wounded the officer. Johns fled into some woods on Sideling Mountain where he was found dead by a searching party.

An FBI agent said an investigation revealed that Johns robbed the bank and also participated in two other bank robberies at Pittsburgh and Washington, D. C.

He was linked to the Cleveland robbery by matching handwriting used when he opened a bank account at the branch — under the alias of Joseph Harrison — with that of other documents. He was linked to the Washington robbery through fingerprints.

DMV, Police Support Drunk Driving Bills

By GORDON BEARD

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Bills designed to reduce the number of drinking motorists on Maryland highways were supported Wednesday by State Police and Department of Motor Vehicles.

"This is a tremendous problem which requires tremendous action in all areas that can bring any influence on it," said Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of State Police.

Jarman reminded members of the House Judiciary Committee that Maryland's highway death toll reached a near-record 587 last year.

"During a recent 28 - week study," he said, "it was shown that alcohol was a contributing factor in 41 per cent of the 340 deaths investigated."

Since both the automobile and alcohol are deeply imbedded in the American way of life, Jarman said, means must be found to live with them in safety.

Jarman and Commissioner John R. Jewell of the Department of Motor Vehicles said they favored making willingness to submit to drunkenness tests a condition upon which a driver's license is granted.

This idea is encompassed in bill introduced by Dels. Edgar P. Silver, D-Balto 5th, and Hervey G. Machen, D-Prince Georges. They would suspend the license of a motorist who refused to take a drunkenness test after being charged with operating a car under the influence of alcohol. The suspension would remain in effect unti' the case is settled.

Silver's bill includes the right of appeal and is considered more inclusive. It was modeled after a uniform code suggested for introduction at various state legislatures.

Under the present law, a motorist may refuse to take the Breatholizer test—under which a person is considered drunk if the alcoholic content of his blood reaches 15 per cent. Backed by testimony of an expert, this information could be used in evidence.

Jarman said 227 persons—16 per cent of 1,408—refused to take the test when it was offered in 1961. The percentage of refusals jumped to 21 per cent last year.

Of those who did take the test in 1962, Jarman said, the alcoholic content of 77 per cent was at or above the 15 per cent level.

Jewell said habitual drinkers, once convicted, usually refuse to take the test when arrested a second time.

Del. Thomas Hunter Lowe, D-Talbot, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, indicated committee action on the bills would be taken Thursday.

Cash Taken In Entry Of School Here

Two breaking and enterings, and several thefts and vandalism reports were being investigated yesterday by the Detective Bureau of the Cumberland Police Department.

The West Side School was broken into and several articles and cash with a total value of $27 taken.

Police were told yesterday that a door leading to the school cafeteria was forced and the loot taken from the kitchen. Entry was gained through an unlocked window on the south side of the building, police were told.

The Ray C. Lapp plumbing and heating firm reported its quarters at Quebec and Blackiston streets was entered by an intruder who broke a glass in the door and reached inside to unlock the door leading to the shop. About $7 was taken from a desk drawer.

Lloyd Wilfong, 526 Louisiana Avenue, reported someone stole about $45 from his unlocked car parked at the rear of his home. The glove compartment was also broken open and ransacked, he said.

Johns Linked With Three Robberies

The FBI said yesterday the armed robber of a federal savings and loan association bank in Cleveland, Ohio, from which over $10,000 was stolen September 21, 1961, has been identified as Lawrence Johns, now deceased, formerly of Harrisburg, Pa.

Johns killed himself with a bullet in the head last August 20. Cpl. Robert D. Kirby was arresting two of Johns companions near Hancock for burglarizing a telephone booth when Johns drove up and shot and wounded the officer. Johns fled into some woods on Sideling Mountain where he was found dead by a searching party.

An FBI agent said an investigation revealed that Johns robbed the bank and also participated in two other bank robberies at Pittsburgh and Washington, D. C.

He was linked to the Cleveland robbery by matching handwriting used when he opened a bank account at the branch — under the alias of Joseph Harrison — with that of other documents. He was linked to the Washington robbery through fingerprints.

Twisted Statistics In The Cold War

Statisticians and economists have become generals in the cold war. With the realization by Moscow that the sword has become the certain path to destruction for Communism, words and figures have become primary weapons in the drive to influence peoples and nations.

Consistent with its third-rate position in the consumer world, the Soviet Union is proud of any improvement in the living standard of its deprived citizens. It brags openly and loudly about each one, and frequently adds a few flourishes.

There are those who would deny that television sets, telephones and washing machines add materially to a standard of living, but it is usually in such items that progress is measured. It is somewhat startling for an American to learn his country possesses more telephones than bathtubs, but because he has more of each than any other country he can write it off as one of the eccentricities of opulence.

Pravda would have Americans believe their communications, at least, are endangered by the rapid rise of Communist industry. In 1961, didn't the number of new telephones in Russia increase by 19 per cent, while U.S. additions went up only 4.1 per cent? But the Russian housewife still doesn't have two phones in her family's one-room abode.

Russian telephones now total 5.1 million, or slightly more than those in use in New York City. The U.S. has more than 77 million. And that 19 per cent increase represented only 800,000 new phones, while the more modest 4.1 per cent rise in U.S. phones accounted for 3.1 million new instruments.

Percentages of change are not too impressive in a have nation, but they effectively cover up many a deficiency in a have-not country. Of one thing the Russians can be proud. Their economists and statisticians are not bothered by nearly the number of telephone calls U.S. cold war generals are subjected to every time the Kremlin lets loose another barrage of percentage points.

Kennedy, Labor Leaders Neglect Duty To Speak Out On Strikes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This column is written by a newsman who holds the 25-year badge as one of the first-year members of the Newspaper Guild and who is also a member of the American Federation of Radio and TV Artists. The first is a CIO union; the second AF of L.

The column is written for the purpose of diagnosing what's wrong with both labor and the Kennedy Administration in the wave of strikes which for one month crippled the shipping of the nation and for even longer stifled the freedom of the press in our major city.

The root trouble, in my opinion, is expressed in that famous Listerine ad — "Even your best friends won't tell you."

John F. Kennedy as a Senator wrote the minimum wage act, battled against the Landrum-Griffin Bill, had asked Senate leaders to place him on the Senate Labor and Education Committee in order to become a champion of labor. Yet as a friend of labor he has not accepted the obligation of friendship — to tell a friend when he is wrong.

George Meany is not only a friend of labor but, as president of the AFL-CIO, has spent his life protecting the hard-won gains of labor. Privately, Meany has expressed concern for the poor image labor is getting from the recent strikes; fears a rash of anti-labor legislaiton. But he hasn't exercised the obligation of friendship — criticism of your own friends and colleagues.

Elmer Brown is president of the International Typographical Union whose local has precipitated the crippling and prolonged strike and shutdown of New York newspapers. Mr. Brown knows that the shutdowns may well put some newspapers out of business, are turning the public sour on labor, and are causing great hardship among other workers in the publishing business.

He also knows that Bertram Powers, local head of the Printers Union, has been highhanded, has ignored the interests of other unions, and that the New York strike will result in such rapid trend toward automation all over the country that printers may become as rare as whooping cranes.

Nevertheless Mr. Brown has not exercised the obligation of responsible friendship.

The Anti-Labor Label

The reason why Mr. Brown, Mr. John F. Kennedy, and Mr. Meany have not spoken out is the fear of being called "anti-labor." Labor, during long years of hardship, when John L. Lewis's coal miners had to battle U. S. troops in Mingo County, W. Va., and when Phil Murray's steelworkers had to battle company polic in the Chicago massacre of Easter, 1937, have built up "anti-labor" as a dirty word. It was self-protection —necessary self-protection—at a time when labor was down and needed help on the way up.

But labor is up now. It is so high up, so much on top that it can bring stagnation to the ports of the nation and cause more upheaval in the fruit-shipping countries of Central America than Fidel Castro. It has even undone one whole year's work of the Alliance for Progress in the banana-shipping republics of Central America.

In the course of building itself up, labor has become the greatest state's rights organization in the USA. Mississippi is mild compared with the local rights demanded and taken by unions. That's another reason why Elmer Brown, George Meany et al don't reprove the highhanded tactics of local printers' czar powers in New York. They don't want to invade the state's rights territory of a local leader any more than the Attorney General of the United States, prior to Bob Kennedy, wanted to tangle with state authorities in Mississippi.

However, it's the friends and leaders of labor who have to refute the Listerine Ad and tell off the independent labor satraps who are blocking the rest of labor. If not, Congress will tell them off in the form of the toughest anti-labor legislation in history.

Cooperation Not Strikes

The old-time labor leaders such as Arthur Goldberg, now on the Supreme Court, David Dubinsky of the International Ladies Garment Workers, the late Sidney Hillman and Jake Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, all worked on the policy that it was labor's job, once the union got recognition, to help and cooperate with the industry of which it was a part. That's why the garment workers have so often lent money to factory owners.

Once they were recognized, they weren't interested in strikes, but in the right of well-being.

This is what some of the new satraps of labor, who haven't been through the turmoil, the heartaches and headaches of the past, don't appreciate. The right to strike in some industries, such as the dockworkers, is actually striking against the state. It nullifies our policies of foreign aid, of the Alliance for Progress, and plays into the hands of Castro. And the right to strike in the newspaper industry can be a strike against the Constitution, against freedom of the press, the right of people to be informed.

That's the opinion of one who has championed labor during many long years when it was down, but who believes labor can't be immune from criticism when it is up.

I know I'll be called anti-labor for writing this, but I've been called names by presidents and I might as well make it unanimous.

Khrushchev Charts New Course In Cold War

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Nikita S. Khrushchev's new course may now be charted with some confidence. For we now have rather complete data on how he means to deal with the Chinese, with the Berlin crisis, and last but not least, with President Kennedy.

After the brutal comedy enacted at the East German Communist Party Congress, there is no longer any doubt at all that Khrushchev is entirely ready for, and perhaps even eager for, a final rupture with his former Chinese Communist comrades-in-arms. He would like them to make the break, but this preference is purely tactical.

At the Berlin rally, Khrushchev's speech momentarily deceived a few observers. His suave call for unity of the Communist camp got less attention than his total intransigence on every question of substance in dispute between Moscow and Peking.

But the true state of affairs was soon revealed when the Chinese delegate, Wu Hsiu-chan, was publicly subjected to organized humiliation. The cat calls and Bronx cheers that drowned out Wu Hsiu-chan, beyond doubt by Khrushchev's own order, were an open and insulting invitation to Mao Tse-tung to proceed to a final rupture without further delay. Even if the invitation is not accepted, the rupture now seems eventually certain.

In his Berlin speech, Khrushchev also disposed of the Berlin crisis, at least for the time being, in a much more decisive way than most people have grasped. He said that when the Berlin wall was erected on Aug. 13, the Communist state in East Germany "obtained that which is indispensable to any sovereign state," wherefore, he continued, "the conclusion of a German peace treaty is no longer the problem" it had been before the erection of the wall.

Thus the second Berlin crisis was, in effect, declared at an end. Just as the lifting of Stalin's blockade gave no insurance against the second crisis, so the termination of the second crisis gives no insurance against a third. A favorable shift in the balance of power or, much more probably, galloping disunity among the Western allies, will at once invite a third crisis.

At least the second crisis is over an done with, however, in the sense that there is no likelihood of an early renewal of Khrushchev's attempt to change the Berlin situation by threats and unilateral actions. Yet this does not mean an end to all discussion of Berlin. On the contrary, Khrushchev's recent dealings with President Kennedy are thought, by all the wisest American experts, to look forward to a resumption of talks about Berlin.

This is one of the several meanings seen here in Khrushchev's critically significant move to bring the nuclear test ban talks back to life. Khrushchev is believed to want an agreement with the U. S. on some other subject, namely nuclear tests—as preparation for later Berlin negotiation.

If this is correct, Khrushchev wants to prove to his own people that equal agreements with the U. S. are feasible, as a preliminary to making the concessions he will obviously have to offer in any fruitful talks about Berlin. But preparing the way for later Berlin discussions is obviously only one motive of the Khrushchev initiative on nuclear tests.

Another motive, for the U. S. as well as for Khrushchev, is the fact that the time is daily drawing closer when Chinese Communist atomic tests have to be expected. In fact, the revival of the nuclear test talks by Khrushchev's quite unexpected letter to the President on Dec. 19 was an event of the utmost significance.

It is being treated as such by President Kennedy. A vital change has already been made in the former American policy, which included the provision that no test ban could be agreed to unless extension of the inspection system to Chinese territory offered safeguards against Soviet cheating on allied soil. A test ban without Communist China is now regarded as a reasonable calculated risk because of the bitter Sino-Soviet row.

In addition, the President has taken personal charge of the test ban negotiations. This means that the U. S. disarmament negotiator, William C. Foster, will be acting under the President's direct supervision. And it also means, no doubt, that part of the work of negotiations will be done in further correspondence between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

Whether agreement will result is anyone's guess. One bad sign is Khrushchev's choice of Semyon Tsarapkin as his chief negotiator. But a test ban is now about an even bet. With the second Berlin crisis at an end, with the Soviet break with China all but certain, and with a test ban agreement at even odds, a new era is clearly opening.

These Days

A New Arithmetic

They are teaching something called the "new arithmetic" in the schools. The new arithmetic begins by introducing algebraic symbols into simple problems of addition and subtraction. The idea behind this is to get fifth-grade students to think about the realities of balanced equations instead of learning addition and subtraction by rote. When you say two plus "x" equals four, you have to figure out the meaning of addition for yourself.

Maybe, if the new arithmetic takes hold, the politicians of 20 years hence won't be able to pull the wool over people's eyes when they toss grandiose budget and tax figures around. The politicos may even learn not to delude themselves. But at the present moment, when everybody talks arithmetic like parrots, few people in Washington seem to understand the principles of balancing an equation when it comes to making programs for tax cuts and budget increases.

The illusions fostered by present arithmetical nonsense begin with President Kennedy, who must have worked for a spell in Macy's basement in his youth. In Macy's basement they learn that a $1.98 price tag on something sounds a lot cheaper than a $2 price tag. With a subtle recourse to department store psychology, the President has put a $98.8 billion price tag on his budget instead of a flat $100 billion.

But two cents saved on a Macy's basement bargain won't even buy a useful postage stamp in 1963, and $1.2 billion saved on a federal budget can be wiped out in a jiffy by a Congressional deficiency appropriation.

What is wrong with tax and budget figures as used in current discussion is that they ignore cash flow. To begin with, the only reality for the 1963 Congress, which can't commit its successors, is the first phase of the President's proposal for a three-fold bite. For 1963 President Kennedy hopes to get a tax cut of $6 billion. This money would be left in people's pockets to spend and invest.

But when we balance out the national cash-flow equation in terms of the realistic new fifth-grade arithmetic, we quickly see that the President has no intention of leaving $6 billion to jingle in people's pockets. In the first place, the social security whack at our paychecks went up on January 1—and some people we know have already cut down on their household help to avoid paying out the required increase to servants. Secondly, postal rates have already gone up. One realistic fiscal expert, Eliot Janeway, has estimated that the government's increased take for social security and five cent stamps will deftly remove more than $2.5 billion from the people's pockets in 1963. This means that only $3.5 billion of Kennedy's proposed $6 billion tax cut will have any power to flush the economy.

Well, $3.5 billion is a sizeable sum. But, with a proposed budget deficit of $12 billion, it will not be a sum that can be reckoned in hard dollars. When a government goes into the red, it pays its bills with I.O.U. slips, which are used by the banking system as a basis for inflationary credit. So the $3.5 billion in tax savings will be a "rotting" or a "melting" sum.

Putting all the fol-de-rol into fifth-grade algebraic form, as taught by the realistic "new" mathematicians, we get a meaningful statement. On one side of the equation we place the proposed 1963 tax cut of $6 billion. On the other and "balancing" side, we begin with the extra social security and post office bite of $2.5 billion, add to it an "x" to cover the depreciation of the currency resulting from the $12 billion budget deficit, add a "y" to account for lower depreciation allowances to oil and gas and mining companies, add a "z" to cover the fact that businessmen are being scared by the tax collector into ordering the $1.98 blue plate special for their clients at lunch instead of the $4.50 steak, and the fakery of the promised tax "relief" comes clear. It ain't a-goin' to amount to much. If industry continues to boom in 1963, as may well be the case, it will be because it finds new ways to cut costs and increase volume on its own.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

REPUBLICANS — Congress has returned to Washington and has brought back with it the time-tested two-party political tradition. For more than two months — from last election day to the present — the Kennedy administration has dominated the nation's policy development, with barely an audible dissent from the Republican opposition.

President Kennedy and his aides have made sweeping decisions on Cuba, the Congo, the India-Red China border war, tax cuts, international and domestic trade and business matters. And through most of this, Republicans have been silent, giving at least the outward indication of assent.

Of course, this is not the case. It's just that the Republican minority hasn't been able to find an appropriate forum to express its views and convictions. The Senate and House have now provided the missing ingredient.

For the next few months debate over the myriad issues that confront the nation will be earnest and furious. Republicans are geared up to avoid losing any political opportunity by default as some believe has been the case since the end of last fall's political campaigns.

It isn't only that the Republican Party needs to reassert its beliefs in the minds of the voters, either. Many GOP members in Congress are convinced that the outcome of the next presidential election in 1964 will hinge on their ability to counter the Kennedy program and "sell" their own substitutes as something better, less expensive and more workable.

There's nothing altruistic about their position, however. Republican and Democratic legislators know that the political future of many of them depends on the popularity of their presidential candidate and party in a presidential election year. They know the victory they're fighting for may be their own.

American Women

By John Crosby

PARIS

One of the great ways to take our country's pulse, to find out what's bothering people, is to go on a lecture tour. The other way is to read the Gallup Poll, but ever since Dr. Gallup elected Thomas E. Dewey President of the United States I've distrusted this sort of opinion sample as fundamentally unsound and I'll tell you why.

Let's say you're a housewife and the doorbell peals. You go to it and there's a little man who says: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Kennedy is handling his job as President?" "Oh, he's doing a great job," you mutter hurriedly. "Now, if you'll pardon me, I've got the upstairs to do." (76 percent of Americans Approve of the Way Kennedy Does Job, reported Gallup the other day and that's how he found out.)

Now you take the same housewife, getting up in the morning, dressing to the nines, laying down two dollars, and rushing off to hear you lecture. She's there on her own time, as it were, not on Dr. Gallup's. She's there because she wants to be. When at the end of the lecture, she waves her hot little hand, stands up and asks: "What's Kennedy doing about Cuba?" then you know Cuba is something that is bothering her, not just bothering Gallup.

The other day Ginette Spanier, of Balmain, got back in town from a lecture tour in the United States and I hurried right around to ask her what's bothering the people.

"Not one single woman asked me a single question aobut Jacqueline Kennedy!" said Ginette.

Here is the woman who is on the cover of every third magazine every second week. All the other magazines whose cover she isn't on contain something inside about her — her recipes, her opinions, or maybe just her picture.

"You mean the women of America don't care about Jackie Kennedy?" I asked.

"No, I think they care about her. But I think there's absolutely nothing they don't know about her. They can't think of a single question to ask."

The two women the lecture audiences still want to know about first — Elizabeth Taylor and the Duchess of Windsor.

"Those two women are almost as written about as Jackie Kennedy," I said. "What do they want to know about them?"

"What they are really like."

"Back when I was lecturing, the audience used to ask me, 'What is Jack Paar really like?'"

"What did you tell them Jack Paar was really like?"

"I said he was neurotic but very talented at it. What do you tell them the Duchess of Windsor is really like?"

"I say she's very charming."

"Well, that's certainly sidestepping the question. What else are the American women interested in this year?"

"Should they take their gloves off at a cocktail party when they're having a cocktail?"

"If they take their gloves off, they'll get drunk," I suggested. "Tell them that."

The question agitating American women more than any other at the moment, said Miss Spanier, is whether she should wear furs in the morning. If that's not a reflection of the affluent society, I don't know one when I see one.

"I tell them I wear my mink in the morning, in the afternoon, and sometimes I drape it over my feet at night," said Miss Spanier. "Another question is: how do American women compare with Frenchwomen? I tell them: 'Your white gloves are whiter because you throw them away after one wearing, like facial tissues, I told them in Europe we sometimes even use the facial tissue twice and that we're so backward in Europe that, when we want to know if it's cold outside, we don't turn on the radio, we open the window.

"But what a wonderful way to find out about America — lecturing! Who besides me do you know who has stayed at McClure's Hotel in Wheeling, West Virginia?"

"Me," I said. "I played Wheeling, too."

"Or the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver?"

"I never played Denver. Tell me about the Brown Palace Hotel."

"Marvelous hotel. They give you personalized writing paper. A half-hour after I got there, they slipped under my door stationery with 'Ginette Spanier — The Brown Palace Hotel' printed on it. Only in America could such a thing happen."

"Maybe only in Denver," I said.

Never Too Late To Take Stock Of Health Habits

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many persons feel guilty when they do not eat properly, use stimulants, work too hard, or overindulge in sex. Our ancestors were bothered by the same problems and, in all probability, future generations will follow suit. These digressions from normal usually take care of themselves with the passing years and worrying about them is their most harmful feature.

There are numerous other habits that shorten life but receive too little attention. It may sound trite at this time to warn against overweight but statistics show that obesity initiates or aggravates various diseases. Many people realize, after losing weight that they feel better and have much more pep and energy. Reducing also lessens the load on the heart and decreases the chance of developing heart attacks. According to Dr. Irvine H. Page, we eat less in the hope that we will live longer to eat more.

Much of the hullabaloo about tobacco centers about the heavy cigaret smoker. He smokes more than one package a day and his respiratory membranes are feeling the full irritating effects of the smoke. The light smoker is more likely to escape, provided he can remain a light smoker. This is not easy to do unless the individual learns early in life to discipline himself. It is here that moderation enters the picture.

Over the years I have studied the habits of many oldsters and moderation seems to be the common trait among them. Many practice this kind of common sense in all ways. Others have one or two bad habits and love to give them credit for their longevity.

A widely known example is, "To what do you attribute your long life?" The oldster replies, "To smoking 20 cigars a day" or "To drinking whisky since I was 9 years old." There are exceptions to all rules but it is better to bet on the regulars than to take a chance on the longshots.

It is important also to take stock of our habits every year or so and make the necessary corrections. In some respects, it is never too late to do this, but good judgment tells us the sooner the better. But don't go overboard to the extent that you forget how to live in order to prolong life.

NAIL SHEDDING

Mrs. P. writes: What would cause a woman of 60 to start losing her finger and toe nails?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are ringworm and other infections, poor circulation, injury, and exposure to caustic substances. In other instances, the health of the nail is affected by a generalized condition such as diabetes. In alopecia areata totalis, the nails are shed along with the hair.

APPLE SAUCE

R. A. writes: Does apple sauce act as a binder or a laxative? Some neighbors say one thing, some another.

REPLY

This food has neither effect upon most of us. Apples contain pectin, which is used occasionally in treating diarrhea, but the amount in apple sauce is too small to have a constipating effect.

INFECTED BONE

H. P. L. writes: What is done for abscess of a bone?

REPLY

Surgical drainage plus antibiotics. Drainage is necessary to prevent spread of the pus into other parts of the bone or to the surface of the body.

GASTRITIS FROM BEER

Mrs. J. writes: Could a lot of beer drinking cause chroic gastritis?

REPLY

Yes. Too much alcohol irritates the lining of the stomach

SIGMOID EXAM

J. L. writes: Is a sigmoidoscopic examination an office procedure or is it done in the hospital under an anesthetic?

REPLY

An anesthetic is not needed and the procedure can be done in the physician's office or at the hospital.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

A whimsical reader of TASM who signs himself "Elisha J. Unlikely," submits the story of a cowboy who brought his shy, young wife to Chicago for a vacation. She had read a great deal about kidnappers before they arrived, and was afraid to be left alone in their hotel room. So when the cowboy left to look up some old pals, he locked her in the room, and took the key with him.

Hours later, after a delightful—and liquid — get-together with his friends, he suddenly remembered his wife. "Holy cow," he cried, jumping to his feet. "You gotta excuse me, boys. I done left Sally Lou locked in a room all night and I ain't neither fed nor watered her!"

Once after Lord Moyniham, a great British surgeon, had brought to a successful conclusion a very difficult operation before a gallery full of visiting doctors, he was asked how he could function so smoothly with such a crowd in attendance. He answered, "You see, there are just three people in the operating room when I operate: the patient and myself."

"But that's only two," noted the questioner. "Who is the third?" "The third," said Lord Moynihan, "is God."

Alan King has a neighbor who's so hen-pecked, he got a divorce from his wife four months ago, and still hasn't summoned the nerve to tell her about it.

Twisted Statistics In The Cold War

Statisticians and economists have become generals in the cold war. With the realization by Moscow that the sword has become the certain path to destruction for Communism, words and figures have become primary weapons in the drive to influence peoples and nations.

Consistent with its third-rate position in the consumer world, the Soviet Union is proud of any improvement in the living standard of its deprived citizens. It brags openly and loudly about each one, and frequently adds a few flourishes.

There are those who would deny that television sets, telephones and washing machines add materially to a standard of living, but it is usually in such items that progress is measured. It is somewhat startling for an American to learn his country possesses more telephones than bathtubs, but because he has more of each than any other country he can write it off as one of the eccentricities of opulence.

Pravda would have Americans believe their communications, at least, are endangered by the rapid rise of Communist industry. In 1961, didn't the number of new telephones in Russia increase by 19 per cent, while U.S. additions went up only 4.1 per cent? But the Russian housewife still doesn't have two phones in her family's one-room abode.

Russian telephones now total 5.1 million, or slightly more than those in use in New York City. The U.S. has more than 77 million. And that 19 per cent increase represented only 800,000 new phones, while the more modest 4.1 per cent rise in U.S. phones accounted for 3.1 million new instruments.

Percentages of change are not too impressive in a have nation, but they effectively cover up many a deficiency in a have-not country. Of one thing the Russians can be proud. Their economists and statisticians are not bothered by nearly the number of telephone calls U.S. cold war generals are subjected to every time the Kremlin lets loose another barrage of percentage points.

Kennedy, Labor Leaders Neglect Duty To Speak Out On Strikes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — This column is written by a newsman who holds the 25-year badge as one of the first-year members of the Newspaper Guild and who is also a member of the American Federation of Radio and TV Artists. The first is a CIO union; the second AF of L.

The column is written for the purpose of diagnosing what's wrong with both labor and the Kennedy Administration in the wave of strikes which for one month crippled the shipping of the nation and for even longer stifled the freedom of the press in our major city.

The root trouble, in my opinion, is expressed in that famous Listerine ad — "Even your best friends won't tell you."

John F. Kennedy as a Senator wrote the minimum wage act, battled against the Landrum-Griffin Bill, had asked Senate leaders to place him on the Senate Labor and Education Committee in order to become a champion of labor. Yet as a friend of labor he has not accepted the obligation of friendship — to tell a friend when he is wrong.

George Meany is not only a friend of labor but, as president of the AFL-CIO, has spent his life protecting the hard-won gains of labor. Privately, Meany has expressed concern for the poor image labor is getting from the recent strikes; fears a rash of anti-labor legislaiton. But he hasn't exercised the obligation of friendship — criticism of your own friends and colleagues.

Elmer Brown is president of the International Typographical Union whose local has precipitated the crippling and prolonged strike and shutdown of New York newspapers. Mr. Brown knows that the shutdowns may well put some newspapers out of business, are turning the public sour on labor, and are causing great hardship among other workers in the publishing business.

He also knows that Bertram Powers, local head of the Printers Union, has been highhanded, has ignored the interests of other unions, and that the New York strike will result in such rapid trend toward automation all over the country that printers may become as rare as whooping cranes.

Nevertheless Mr. Brown has not exercised the obligation of responsible friendship.

The Anti-Labor Label

The reason why Mr. Brown, Mr. John F. Kennedy, and Mr. Meany have not spoken out is the fear of being called "anti-labor." Labor, during long years of hardship, when John L. Lewis's coal miners had to battle U. S. troops in Mingo County, W. Va., and when Phil Murray's steelworkers had to battle company polic in the Chicago massacre of Easter, 1937, have built up "anti-labor" as a dirty word. It was self-protection —necessary self-protection—at a time when labor was down and needed help on the way up.

But labor is up now. It is so high up, so much on top that it can bring stagnation to the ports of the nation and cause more upheaval in the fruit-shipping countries of Central America than Fidel Castro. It has even undone one whole year's work of the Alliance for Progress in the banana-shipping republics of Central America.

In the course of building itself up, labor has become the greatest state's rights organization in the USA. Mississippi is mild compared with the local rights demanded and taken by unions. That's another reason why Elmer Brown, George Meany et al don't reprove the highhanded tactics of local printers' czar powers in New York. They don't want to invade the state's rights territory of a local leader any more than the Attorney General of the United States, prior to Bob Kennedy, wanted to tangle with state authorities in Mississippi.

However, it's the friends and leaders of labor who have to refute the Listerine Ad and tell off the independent labor satraps who are blocking the rest of labor. If not, Congress will tell them off in the form of the toughest anti-labor legislation in history.

Cooperation Not Strikes

The old-time labor leaders such as Arthur Goldberg, now on the Supreme Court, David Dubinsky of the International Ladies Garment Workers, the late Sidney Hillman and Jake Potofsky of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, all worked on the policy that it was labor's job, once the union got recognition, to help and cooperate with the industry of which it was a part. That's why the garment workers have so often lent money to factory owners.

Once they were recognized, they weren't interested in strikes, but in the right of well-being.

This is what some of the new satraps of labor, who haven't been through the turmoil, the heartaches and headaches of the past, don't appreciate. The right to strike in some industries, such as the dockworkers, is actually striking against the state. It nullifies our policies of foreign aid, of the Alliance for Progress, and plays into the hands of Castro. And the right to strike in the newspaper industry can be a strike against the Constitution, against freedom of the press, the right of people to be informed.

That's the opinion of one who has championed labor during many long years when it was down, but who believes labor can't be immune from criticism when it is up.

I know I'll be called anti-labor for writing this, but I've been called names by presidents and I might as well make it unanimous.

Khrushchev Charts New Course In Cold War

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Nikita S. Khrushchev's new course may now be charted with some confidence. For we now have rather complete data on how he means to deal with the Chinese, with the Berlin crisis, and last but not least, with President Kennedy.

After the brutal comedy enacted at the East German Communist Party Congress, there is no longer any doubt at all that Khrushchev is entirely ready for, and perhaps even eager for, a final rupture with his former Chinese Communist comrades-in-arms. He would like them to make the break, but this preference is purely tactical.

At the Berlin rally, Khrushchev's speech momentarily deceived a few observers. His suave call for unity of the Communist camp got less attention than his total intransigence on every question of substance in dispute between Moscow and Peking.

But the true state of affairs was soon revealed when the Chinese delegate, Wu Hsiu-chan, was publicly subjected to organized humiliation. The cat calls and Bronx cheers that drowned out Wu Hsiu-chan, beyond doubt by Khrushchev's own order, were an open and insulting invitation to Mao Tse-tung to proceed to a final rupture without further delay. Even if the invitation is not accepted, the rupture now seems eventually certain.

In his Berlin speech, Khrushchev also disposed of the Berlin crisis, at least for the time being, in a much more decisive way than most people have grasped. He said that when the Berlin wall was erected on Aug. 13, the Communist state in East Germany "obtained that which is indispensable to any sovereign state," wherefore, he continued, "the conclusion of a German peace treaty is no longer the problem" it had been before the erection of the wall.

Thus the second Berlin crisis was, in effect, declared at an end. Just as the lifting of Stalin's blockade gave no insurance against the second crisis, so the termination of the second crisis gives no insurance against a third. A favorable shift in the balance of power or, much more probably, galloping disunity among the Western allies, will at once invite a third crisis.

At least the second crisis is over an done with, however, in the sense that there is no likelihood of an early renewal of Khrushchev's attempt to change the Berlin situation by threats and unilateral actions. Yet this does not mean an end to all discussion of Berlin. On the contrary, Khrushchev's recent dealings with President Kennedy are thought, by all the wisest American experts, to look forward to a resumption of talks about Berlin.

This is one of the several meanings seen here in Khrushchev's critically significant move to bring the nuclear test ban talks back to life. Khrushchev is believed to want an agreement with the U. S. on some other subject, namely nuclear tests—as preparation for later Berlin negotiation.

If this is correct, Khrushchev wants to prove to his own people that equal agreements with the U. S. are feasible, as a preliminary to making the concessions he will obviously have to offer in any fruitful talks about Berlin. But preparing the way for later Berlin discussions is obviously only one motive of the Khrushchev initiative on nuclear tests.

Another motive, for the U. S. as well as for Khrushchev, is the fact that the time is daily drawing closer when Chinese Communist atomic tests have to be expected. In fact, the revival of the nuclear test talks by Khrushchev's quite unexpected letter to the President on Dec. 19 was an event of the utmost significance.

It is being treated as such by President Kennedy. A vital change has already been made in the former American policy, which included the provision that no test ban could be agreed to unless extension of the inspection system to Chinese territory offered safeguards against Soviet cheating on allied soil. A test ban without Communist China is now regarded as a reasonable calculated risk because of the bitter Sino-Soviet row.

In addition, the President has taken personal charge of the test ban negotiations. This means that the U. S. disarmament negotiator, William C. Foster, will be acting under the President's direct supervision. And it also means, no doubt, that part of the work of negotiations will be done in further correspondence between Kennedy and Khrushchev.

Whether agreement will result is anyone's guess. One bad sign is Khrushchev's choice of Semyon Tsarapkin as his chief negotiator. But a test ban is now about an even bet. With the second Berlin crisis at an end, with the Soviet break with China all but certain, and with a test ban agreement at even odds, a new era is clearly opening.

These Days

A New Arithmetic

They are teaching something called the "new arithmetic" in the schools. The new arithmetic begins by introducing algebraic symbols into simple problems of addition and subtraction. The idea behind this is to get fifth-grade students to think about the realities of balanced equations instead of learning addition and subtraction by rote. When you say two plus "x" equals four, you have to figure out the meaning of addition for yourself.

Maybe, if the new arithmetic takes hold, the politicians of 20 years hence won't be able to pull the wool over people's eyes when they toss grandiose budget and tax figures around. The politicos may even learn not to delude themselves. But at the present moment, when everybody talks arithmetic like parrots, few people in Washington seem to understand the principles of balancing an equation when it comes to making programs for tax cuts and budget increases.

The illusions fostered by present arithmetical nonsense begin with President Kennedy, who must have worked for a spell in Macy's basement in his youth. In Macy's basement they learn that a $1.98 price tag on something sounds a lot cheaper than a $2 price tag. With a subtle recourse to department store psychology, the President has put a $98.8 billion price tag on his budget instead of a flat $100 billion.

But two cents saved on a Macy's basement bargain won't even buy a useful postage stamp in 1963, and $1.2 billion saved on a federal budget can be wiped out in a jiffy by a Congressional deficiency appropriation.

What is wrong with tax and budget figures as used in current discussion is that they ignore cash flow. To begin with, the only reality for the 1963 Congress, which can't commit its successors, is the first phase of the President's proposal for a three-fold bite. For 1963 President Kennedy hopes to get a tax cut of $6 billion. This money would be left in people's pockets to spend and invest.

But when we balance out the national cash-flow equation in terms of the realistic new fifth-grade arithmetic, we quickly see that the President has no intention of leaving $6 billion to jingle in people's pockets. In the first place, the social security whack at our paychecks went up on January 1—and some people we know have already cut down on their household help to avoid paying out the required increase to servants. Secondly, postal rates have already gone up. One realistic fiscal expert, Eliot Janeway, has estimated that the government's increased take for social security and five cent stamps will deftly remove more than $2.5 billion from the people's pockets in 1963. This means that only $3.5 billion of Kennedy's proposed $6 billion tax cut will have any power to flush the economy.

Well, $3.5 billion is a sizeable sum. But, with a proposed budget deficit of $12 billion, it will not be a sum that can be reckoned in hard dollars. When a government goes into the red, it pays its bills with I.O.U. slips, which are used by the banking system as a basis for inflationary credit. So the $3.5 billion in tax savings will be a "rotting" or a "melting" sum.

Putting all the fol-de-rol into fifth-grade algebraic form, as taught by the realistic "new" mathematicians, we get a meaningful statement. On one side of the equation we place the proposed 1963 tax cut of $6 billion. On the other and "balancing" side, we begin with the extra social security and post office bite of $2.5 billion, add to it an "x" to cover the depreciation of the currency resulting from the $12 billion budget deficit, add a "y" to account for lower depreciation allowances to oil and gas and mining companies, add a "z" to cover the fact that businessmen are being scared by the tax collector into ordering the $1.98 blue plate special for their clients at lunch instead of the $4.50 steak, and the fakery of the promised tax "relief" comes clear. It ain't a-goin' to amount to much. If industry continues to boom in 1963, as may well be the case, it will be because it finds new ways to cut costs and increase volume on its own.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

REPUBLICANS — Congress has returned to Washington and has brought back with it the time-tested two-party political tradition. For more than two months — from last election day to the present — the Kennedy administration has dominated the nation's policy development, with barely an audible dissent from the Republican opposition.

President Kennedy and his aides have made sweeping decisions on Cuba, the Congo, the India-Red China border war, tax cuts, international and domestic trade and business matters. And through most of this, Republicans have been silent, giving at least the outward indication of assent.

Of course, this is not the case. It's just that the Republican minority hasn't been able to find an appropriate forum to express its views and convictions. The Senate and House have now provided the missing ingredient.

For the next few months debate over the myriad issues that confront the nation will be earnest and furious. Republicans are geared up to avoid losing any political opportunity by default as some believe has been the case since the end of last fall's political campaigns.

It isn't only that the Republican Party needs to reassert its beliefs in the minds of the voters, either. Many GOP members in Congress are convinced that the outcome of the next presidential election in 1964 will hinge on their ability to counter the Kennedy program and "sell" their own substitutes as something better, less expensive and more workable.

There's nothing altruistic about their position, however. Republican and Democratic legislators know that the political future of many of them depends on the popularity of their presidential candidate and party in a presidential election year. They know the victory they're fighting for may be their own.

American Women

By John Crosby

PARIS

One of the great ways to take our country's pulse, to find out what's bothering people, is to go on a lecture tour. The other way is to read the Gallup Poll, but ever since Dr. Gallup elected Thomas E. Dewey President of the United States I've distrusted this sort of opinion sample as fundamentally unsound and I'll tell you why.

Let's say you're a housewife and the doorbell peals. You go to it and there's a little man who says: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Kennedy is handling his job as President?" "Oh, he's doing a great job," you mutter hurriedly. "Now, if you'll pardon me, I've got the upstairs to do." (76 percent of Americans Approve of the Way Kennedy Does Job, reported Gallup the other day and that's how he found out.)

Now you take the same housewife, getting up in the morning, dressing to the nines, laying down two dollars, and rushing off to hear you lecture. She's there on her own time, as it were, not on Dr. Gallup's. She's there because she wants to be. When at the end of the lecture, she waves her hot little hand, stands up and asks: "What's Kennedy doing about Cuba?" then you know Cuba is something that is bothering her, not just bothering Gallup.

The other day Ginette Spanier, of Balmain, got back in town from a lecture tour in the United States and I hurried right around to ask her what's bothering the people.

"Not one single woman asked me a single question aobut Jacqueline Kennedy!" said Ginette.

Here is the woman who is on the cover of every third magazine every second week. All the other magazines whose cover she isn't on contain something inside about her — her recipes, her opinions, or maybe just her picture.

"You mean the women of America don't care about Jackie Kennedy?" I asked.

"No, I think they care about her. But I think there's absolutely nothing they don't know about her. They can't think of a single question to ask."

The two women the lecture audiences still want to know about first — Elizabeth Taylor and the Duchess of Windsor.

"Those two women are almost as written about as Jackie Kennedy," I said. "What do they want to know about them?"

"What they are really like."

"Back when I was lecturing, the audience used to ask me, 'What is Jack Paar really like?'"

"What did you tell them Jack Paar was really like?"

"I said he was neurotic but very talented at it. What do you tell them the Duchess of Windsor is really like?"

"I say she's very charming."

"Should they take their gloves off at a cocktail party when they're having a cocktail?"

The question agitating American women more than any other at the moment, said Miss Spanier, is whether she should wear furs in the morning. If that's not a reflection of the affluent society, I don't know one when I see one.

"I tell them I wear my mink in the morning, in the afternoon, and sometimes I drape it over my feet at night," said Miss Spanier. "Another question is: how do American women compare with Frenchwomen? I tell them: 'Your white gloves are whiter because you throw them away after one wearing, like facial tissues. I told them in Europe we sometimes even use the facial tissue twice and that we're so backward in Europe that, when we want to know if it's cold outside, we don't turn on the radio, we open the window.

"But what a wonderful way to find out about America — lecturing! Who besides me do you know who has stayed at McClure's Hotel in Wheeling, West Virginia?"

"Me," I said. "I played Wheeling, too."

"Or the Brown Palace Hotel in Denver?"

"I never played Denver. Tell me about the Brown Palace Hotel."

"Marvelous hotel. They give you personalized writing paper. A half-hour after I got there, they slipped under my door stationery with 'Ginette Spanier — The Brown Palace Hotel' printed on it. Only in America could such a thing happen."

"Maybe only in Denver," I said.

So when the cowboy left to look up some old pals, he locked her in the room, and took the key with him.

Hours later, after a delightful—and liquid — get-together with his friends, he suddenly remembered his wife. "Holy cow," he cried, jumping to his feet. "You gotta excuse me, boys. I done left Sally Lou locked in a room all night and I ain't neither fed nor watered her!"

Once after Lord Moyniham, a great British surgeon, had brought to a successful conclusion a very difficult operation before a gallery full of visiting doctors, he was asked how he could function so smoothly with such a crowd in attendance. He answered, "You see, there are just three people in the operating room when I operate: the patient and myself."

"But that's only two," noted the questioner. "Who is the third?" "The third," said Lord Moynihan, "is God."

Alan King has a neighbor who's so hen-pecked, he got a divorce from his wife four months ago, and still hasn't summoned the nerve to tell her about it.

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

Data beamed back to the U. S. by the Mariner II spacecraft indicate the Sun rises in the West instead of the East on Venus. Sounds like our younger sister planet may be just a crazy, mixed-up kid!

That Toronto librarian who inherited $1.5 million has a whole new set of books in her care—the bank variety.

The world's largest eagle is the eagle hawk — Factographs. Must be the biggest hawk, too—isn't it?

It may be a paradox, but we've noted the fellow who makes the most racket at a party is usually well-oiled!

Soviet scientists claim they've given a dog a second heart and an extra pair of lungs. Guess they figured one set of teeth is enough for any pooch.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Oh, Mr. Fix-it!"

Canned cream of chicken soup takes kindly to the influence of sherry and a spoonful of chutney sauce. Stir a bit of sherry into other cream soups for surprising fine flavor.

Crumble slices of fruit cake, moisten lightly with port and use to stuff apples for baking. Baste the apples with equal parts port and cider during baking for rich flavor.

Orange-Prune Coffee Ring

Is anything more pleasure to eat than a spankin' fresh coffee cake cut in generous wedges and accompanied by cups of fragrant coffee! It's a refreshment to put cheer into any soul . . . and especially if the coffee cake is this Orange-Prune Coffee Ring.

It bakes high and light textured. It is fruity . . . meaty little pieces of tart-sweet prunes thick through it take care of that. It has the nut-like taste of whole bran cereal. Then there's the pungency of orange juice and rind, topped off with the sweetness of a sugar icing. From first forkful to last, this coffee ring sings with flavor.

You may at times extravagantly spread it with butter . . . although this coffee cake can go it alone in fine style. But with butter, or without, you'll enjoy its fruity richness and moist freshness . . . for neighborly morning coffee get-togethers, for afternoon pickups, for late evening snacks, or just to have handy as something good to eat for any moment of family relaxation. The making's easy, the baking's brief:

Orange-Prune Coffee Ring

1 cup whole bran cereal
¾ cup orange juice
1 egg
¼ cup shortening
1½ teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
1 cup chopped plumped* prunes

Combine bran cereal and orange juice; let stand until most of the juice is absorbed. Add egg, shortening and orange rind; beat well. Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and sugar. Add to first mixture together with prunes, stirring only until combined. Fill greased 8¼-inch ring mold about ⅔ full. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees about 25 minutes. Remove from ring mold; cool.

Icing:

1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
½ tablespoons hot milk or light cream

Combine sugar and milk, stirring until of spreading consistency. Spread at once over coffee cake. If desired, sprinkle icing with grated orange rind and decorate with walnut halves.

Makes 8-10 servings.

*To plump prunes soak overnight in cold water — 1 quart water to 1 pound prunes. Or — prunes just as they come from the package.

Chipped Beef Breakfast

Chipped beef and scrambled eggs make a real winter morning breakfast. Lightly brown the chipped beef, then add beaten egg and milk mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally. Serve with hot biscuits or muffins and jam.

Good Breakfasts

The extra minutes of shut-eye do not make up for the "black coffee menu, only" at the breakfast table. It's smarter to start the day with a nutritionally sound, high protein meal that will satisfy those hunger pangs until lunch.

Add Meat To Make Hearty Soup

Hot soup is certain to take an important spot in your family lunches during the winter season. An excellent way to add hearty goodness to soups is to include meat.

You can find many ways to incorporate a variety of meats. Use the less demanded meat cuts, the bone from a baked ham, or cubes of leftover meat. Bacon is tasty in potato soup, and ham hocks will combine well with split pea soup. A quick way to add meat to soup is to include canned luncheon cubes, frankfurters, or canned smoked tongue.

Here's a savory meal-in-one vegetable soup. Cross-cut beef shanks are simmered until tender, then cut into small pieces.

Meal-In-One-Soup

3 to 4 pounds cross-cut beef shanks
2 teaspoons salt
2 medium onions, chopped
1 bay leaf
1 cup chopped celery
½ teaspoon pepper
½ cup rice
1 medium potato, diced
3 medium carrots, diced
¼ cup minced parsley
1 can (1 pound 4 ounces) tomatoes
Water

Cover meat with water. Add salt, onion, bay leaf, celery and pepper. Cover tightly and simmer for 2 to 3 hours. Add rice, potato and carrots and continue cooking for about 1 hour. Remove shank bones and cut meat into small pieces. Return meat to soup. Add parsley, tomatoes and enough water to make 1 gallon of soup. Continue cooking for 15 to 20 minutes. Add seasoning, if desired. 8 servings.

Lamb Riblets Are Given Tropic Flavor

For the homemakers who may not be acquainted with lamb riblets, a home economist explains that they are prepared from a lamb breast. The meat retailer removes the breast bone, then cuts between the ribs with the resulting meaty riblets.

Lamb riblets may either be braised or cooked in liquid. In this recipe they are braised. The exotic cooking liquid with pineapple and lemon juices, molasses and soy sauce does give the riblets a tropical air.

After cooking, the lamb mixture is thickened with cornstarch. This dish is delicious served on white rice or Chinese noodles.

Tropical Lamb Riblets

- 3 pounds lamb riblets
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1½ cups diced celery
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups pineapple juice
- ½ cup water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon bead molasses
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons water

Brown the lamb riblets in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add onion, celery, salt, pepper, pineapple juice, ½ cup water, lemon juice, molasses and soy sauce. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Mix cornstarch with 3 tablespoons of water. Add cornstarch mixture to riblets and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. 4 to 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Center Cut Pork Loin Roast.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is a roast from the loin section. It contains the tenderloin and back muscles as well as rib bones.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting. Have the market man loosen the chine bone from the ribs. After roasting, remove the backbone to make carving easier. The meat is placed fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. A meat thermometer is inserted so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part. The roast is not covered and no water is added. It is roasted in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the meat thermometer registers 185° F. Allow about 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

At the beginning of every Session of Congress, one of the milestones of the year is the discharge of the President's constitutional duty to report to the Congress on the State of the Union. During the past week, President Kennedy performed this duty by coming to Capitol Hill in person and giving a report which reflected not only his opinion as to the present condition of the Country but also some of his plans for the future. It is this area, this projection of things to come that I would like to discuss a little bit with you today.

The most significant change that the President recommended was a need for tax reform in which I wholely concur. The means to achieve this tax reform is not quite as clear as the overall need, nor is there quite the same general agreement. The President proposes that there should be a thirteen and one-half billion dollar tax cut spaced over a period of three years. He further proposes that the individual tax rates which now range between twenty percent and ninety-one percent should be adjusted to range from fourteen percent to sixty-five percent of income, and he suggests a change in corporate tax rates from fifty-two percent to forty-seven percent. All these adjustments seem to be in line with the advice of the economists and with the desire of our business community. They seem to be adjustments which could stimulate greater economic growth.

At the time of the enactment of the Trade Expansion Program we observed that the foreign trade of this Nation could only be adjusted favorably if we put our businessmen into competition with foreign countries not only in the matter of tariff adjustments, but also tax reform and certain other vital factors in our economy. To this extent, I pledge my support to the President in the objectives that he has laid out in the State of the Union message. In the determinations of means there will be, of course, many disagreements and to resolve them will be the function of the Congress. This function becomes the finding of means to achieve a successful and satisfactory tax reform without damaging the vital interests of America.

What do we mean by the vital interests of America? Certainly they include a program of sound fiscal policy on the part of the Federal Government. Tax reform which means a deficit, a substantial deficit, even a temporary substantial deficit, is one which has got to be watched very carefully. For this reason we must adjust our domestic spending very prudently if we are to achieve the transition to a new kind of tax structure. The Congress will have a grave responsibility in enacting new programs during the coming year so that we do not overspend and make it impossible to achieve the kind of tax reform that we all agree is necessary.

There are some instances in which this is going to be very difficult. One example, is the Federal payroll which has been growing by leaps and bounds during the past two years. The President has indicated that he would like to have "last year's Federal pay raise absorbed by personnel." When he elaborates on this remark it may mean that he is going to reverse the policy of his Administration and start to reduce instead of increase the number of people on the Federal payroll. While the President was outlining his plans for the future, Congress was not asleep. In the same copy of the Congressional Record which records the State of the Union Message, it is noted that H. R. 1847 has been introduced for the attention of the House of Representatives. This means that 1847 bills were already offered by Members of the House of Representatives for the consideration of their colleagues. There is indeed a great deal going on in Washington today and I look forward to discussing it with you throughout the year.

Ham Cranberry Sandwich

Combine a plentiful fruit with meat for an unusual open faced sandwich. Place a lettuce leaf and two "boiled" ham slices on toasted bread. Then spread each sandwich with a mixture of 2 tablespoons whole cranberry sauce and 1 teaspoon mayonnaise.

Economy Cuts

Many economical less-demanded meat cuts can be found on your meat counter for budget-wise January meals. These cuts are just as high in nutritive value as the more demanded cuts. Remember . . . any meat can be made tender by the proper cooking methods.

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup

Into the making of Old-Fashioned Bean Soup with its heart-warming goodness goes Idaho's plump perfect large white beans cooked with a ham bone not too bare of meat. Please don't bother to put the beans through a sieve. Let them hobnob with the carrot cubes, the diced ham, the cut celery of the finished dish. The trick of the soup's not separating, an all-too-common fault with the average recipe, is the addition of mashed potato. Could be leftover or instant.

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup, Idaho Style

(makes 10 generous servings)

- 2⅓ cups (1 pound) Idaho Beans
- 12 cups (3 quarts) water meaty ham bone
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1 small bay leaf
- 2 cloves garlic, minced

Soak washed beans in measured amount of water overnight or place over high heat; bring to boiling point and boil rapidly 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Cover. Allow to stand 1 hour. The beans are then ready to cook. Add ingredients as listed to beans and the soaking water. Bring water to boiling point. Reduce heat, cover tightly, and allow to simmer for about 2 hours, or until beans are almost tender. In the meantime, prepare these ingredients.

- 1 cup mashed potatoes, leftover or cooked instant
- 1 cup thin-sliced celery
- 1 cup diced raw carrots salt pepper as desired

Add to beans and ham bone. Taste for seasoning. Cover and simmer 1 hour longer. Remove ham bone and cut off the meat. Dice it and add to soup. Reheat to just boiling, stirring carefully to avoid breaking beans. Makes 10 hearty servings.

To serve: One-half cup heavy cream or undiluted evaporated milk may be stirred into the soup just before serving. Garnish top with snipped parsley and chives combined. Or a dusting of cheese — grated Parmesan or shredded Cheddar. Or, if little or no meat on the ham bone, put thin-sliced frankfurters over top of soup. Or crumbled broiled bacon bits. Or tiny bread cubes browned in butter.

Sandwich Switch

For a switch in hot open-face sandwiches, substitute toasted shredded wheat biscuits for bread. Brush them with melted butter or margarine and place in shallow pan in pre-heated 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve with topping of creamed ham and mushrooms.

Wife Preservers

Your broom can serve double duty as a supply reacher if you screw a hook in the end of the handle. Then use it to pull down unbreakable groceries from your shelves, or retrieve window shade pulls, etc.

Light Dessert

Lime apricot cream is a light fruit dessert. In a mixing bowl, combine 1 cup of instant nonfat dry milk with 2 (4¾-ounce) jars of strained apricots, well chilled. Whip 3 to 4 minutes, or until soft peaks form. Add ¼ cup of lime juice and continue whipping 3 to 4 minutes longer, until stiff peaks form. Gradually add 2 tablespoons of sugar. Serves 4.

Chutney Relish

Banana chutney relish tastes great with ham, chicken, pork or curries. Dice 2 medium bananas. Toss lightly with 1 medium apple, cored and chopped, 4 preserved kumquats, seeded and chopped, ¼ cup of chopped celery, ½ cup of dried apricots cut in small pieces, 3 tablespoons of cider vinegar and salt to taste. Makes 3 cups.

Lamb Riblets Are Given Tropic Flavor

For the homemakers who may not be acquainted with lamb riblets, a home economist explains that they are prepared from a lamb breast. The meat retailer removes the breast bone, then cuts between the ribs with the resulting meaty riblets.

Lamb riblets may either be braised or cooked in liquid. In this recipe they are braised. The exotic cooking liquid with pineapple and lemon juices, molasses and soy sauce does give the riblets a tropical air.

After cooking, the lamb mixture is thickened with cornstarch. This dish is delicious served on white rice or Chinese noodles.

Tropical Lamb Riblets

- 3 pounds lamb riblets
- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1½ cups diced celery
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1½ cups pineapple juice
- ½ cup water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon bead molasses
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3 tablespoons water

Brown the lamb riblets in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add onion, celery, salt, pepper, pineapple juice, ½ cup water, lemon juice, molasses and soy sauce. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Mix cornstarch with 3 tablespoons of water. Add cornstarch mixture to riblets and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. 4 to 6 servings.

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. Center Cut Pork Loin Roast.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. It is a roast from the loin section. It contains the tenderloin and back muscles as well as rib bones.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting. Have the market man loosen the chine bone from the ribs. After roasting, remove the backbone to make carving easier. The meat is placed fat side up on a rack in an open roasting pan. A meat thermometer is inserted so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part. The roast is not covered and no water is added. It is roasted in a moderate oven (350° F.) until the meat thermometer registers 185° F. Allow about 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Capitol Comment

by Rep. Charles Mathias

At the beginning of every Session of Congress, one of the milestones of the year is the discharge of the President's constitutional duty to report to the Congress on the State of the Union. During the past week, President Kennedy performed this duty by coming to Capitol Hill in person and giving a report which reflected not only his opinion as to the present condition of the Country but also some of his plans for the future. It is this area, this projection of things to come that I would like to discuss a little bit with you today.

The most significant change that the President recommended was a need for tax reform in which I wholely concur. The means to achieve this tax reform is not quite as clear as the overall need, nor is there quite the same general agreement. The President proposes that there should be a thirteen and one-half billion dollar tax cut spaced over a period of three years. He further proposes that the individual tax rates which now range between twenty percent and ninety-one percent should be adjusted to range from fourteen percent to sixty-five percent of income, and he suggests a change in corporate tax rates from fifty-two percent to forty-seven percent. All these adjustments seem to be in line with the advice of the economists and with the desire of our business community. They seem to be adjustments which could stimulate greater economic growth.

At the time of the enactment of the Trade Expansion Program we observed that the foreign trade of this Nation could only be adjusted favorably if we put our businessmen into competition with foreign countries not only in the matter of tariff adjustments, but also tax reform and certain other vital factors in our economy. To this extent, I pledge my support to the President in the objectives that he has laid out in the State of the Union message. In the determinations of means there will be, of course, many disagreements and to resolve them will be the function of the Congress. This function becomes the finding of means to achieve a successful and satisfactory tax reform without damaging the vital interests of America.

What do we mean by the vital interests of America? Certainly they include a program of sound fiscal policy on the part of the Federal Government. Tax reform which means a deficit, a substantial deficit, even a temporary substantial deficit, is one which has got to be watched very carefully. For this reason we must adjust our domestic spending very prudently if we are to achieve the transition to a new kind of tax structure. The Congress will have a grave responsibility in enacting new programs during the coming year so that we do not overspend and make it impossible to achieve the kind of tax reform that we all agree is necessary.

There are some instances in which this is going to be very difficult. One example, is the Federal payroll which has been growing by leaps and bounds during the past two years. The President has indicated that he would like to have "last year's Federal pay raise absorbed by personnel." When he elaborates on this remark it may mean that he is going to reverse the policy of his Administration and start to reduce instead of increase the number of people on the Federal payroll. While the President was outlining his plans for the future, Congress was not asleep. In the same copy of the Congressional Record which records the State of the Union Message, it is noted that H. R. 1847 has been introduced for the attention of the House of Representatives. This means that 1847 bills were already offered by Members of the House of Representatives for the consideration of their colleagues. There is indeed a great deal going on in Washington today and I look forward to discussing it with you throughout the year.

Ham Cranberry Sandwich

Combine a plentiful fruit with meat for an unusual open faced sandwich. Place a lettuce leaf and two "boiled" ham slices on toasted bread. Then spread each sandwich with a mixture of 2 tablespoons whole cranberry sauce and 1 teaspoon mayonnaise.

Economy Cuts

Many economical less-demanded meat cuts can be found on your meat counter for budget-wise January meals. These cuts are just as high in nutritive value as the more demanded cuts. Remember . . . any meat can be made tender by the proper cooking methods.

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup

Into the making of Old-Fashioned Bean Soup with its heart-warming goodness goes Idaho's plump perfect large white beans cooked with a ham bone not too bare of meat. Please don't bother to put the beans through a sieve. Let them hobnob with the carrot cubes, the diced ham, the cut celery of the finished dish. The trick of the soup's not separating, an all-too-common fault with the average recipe, is the addition of mashed potato. Could be leftover or instant.

Old-Fashioned Bean Soup, Idaho Style

(makes 10 generous servings)

- 2⅓ cups (1 pound) Idaho Beans
- 12 cups (3 quarts) water meaty ham bone
- 1 large onion, finely chopped
- 1 small bay leaf
- 2 cloves garlic, minced

Soak washed beans in measured amount of water overnight or place over high heat; bring to boiling point and boil rapidly 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Cover. Allow to stand 1 hour. The beans are then ready to cook. Add ingredients as listed to beans and the soaking water. Bring water to boiling point. Reduce heat, cover tightly, and allow to simmer for about 2 hours, or until beans are almost tender. In the meantime, prepare these ingredients.

- 1 cup mashed potatoes, leftover or cooked instant
- 1 cup thin-sliced celery
- 1 cup diced raw carrots salt pepper as desired

Add to beans and ham bone. Taste for seasoning. Cover and simmer 1 hour longer. Remove ham bone and cut off the meat. Dice it and add to soup. Reheat to just boiling, stirring carefully to avoid breaking beans. Makes 10 hearty servings.

To serve: One-half cup heavy cream or undiluted evaporated milk may be stirred into the soup just before serving. Garnish top with snipped parsley and chives combined. Or a dusting of cheese — grated Parmesan or shredded Cheddar. Or, if little or no meat on the ham bone, put thin-sliced frankfurters over top of soup. Or crumbled broiled bacon bits. Or tiny bread cubes browned in butter.

Sandwich Switch

For a switch in hot open-face sandwiches, substitute toasted shredded wheat biscuits for bread. Brush them with melted butter or margarine and place in shallow pan in pre-heated 350-degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve with topping of creamed ham and mushrooms.

Wife Preservers

Your broom can serve double duty as a supply reacher if you screw a hook in the end of the handle. Then use it to pull down unbreakable groceries from your shelves, or retrieve window shade pulls, etc.

Light Dessert

Lime apricot cream is a light fruit dessert. In a mixing bowl, combine 1 cup of instant nonfat dry milk with 2 (4¾-ounce) jars of strained apricots, well chilled. Whip 3 to 4 minutes, or until soft peaks form. Add ¼ cup of lime juice and continue whipping 3 to 4 minutes longer, until stiff peaks form. Gradually add 2 tablespoons of sugar. Serves 4.

Chutney Relish

Banana chutney relish tastes great with ham, chicken, pork or curries. Dice 2 medium bananas. Toss lightly with 1 medium apple, cored and chopped, 4 preserved kumquats, seeded and chopped, ¼ cup of chopped celery, ½ cup of dried apricots cut in small pieces, 3 tablespoons of cider vinegar and salt to taste. Makes 3 cups.

Money-Saving Main Dish

Hearty hot frankfurter potato salad is an ideal main dish for warm weather menus. The beauty of this salad is that the whole thing is prepared in one skillet—starting with the raw potatoes!

Cubed raw potatoes and onion are first cooked gently in the bacon drippings until the edges begin to look transparent. Then comes the beginning of the built-in salad dressing, for water and double-rich evaporated milk are added and the potatoes are cooked until tender. By that time the liquid has thickened to creamy smoothness, and with the mere addition of vinegar, prepared mustard and seasonings, there's the salad dressing.

Hot Frankfurter Potato Salad

- 3 slices bacon
- 6 frankfurters
- 4 cup cubed raw potatoes (about ¾ inch cubes)
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 tall can evaporated milk (1⅔ cups)
- ¼ cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Fry bacon in a large skillet over low heat until crisp. Remove and set aside to drain. Add frankfurters, which have been cut in inch chunks, to bacon fat and cook over low heat, stirring frequently until lightly browned. Remove and set aside to drain. Add cubed raw potatoes and onion to becon fat in skillet, and cook and stir over low heat until most of fat is absorbed and onion is transparent, about 3 to 4 minutes. Add water and evaporated milk, and continue cooking over low heat until potatoes are tender and sauce starts to thicken, about 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend vinegar with mustard, salt and pepper. Add frankfurters to potatoes, then slowly stir in vinegar mixture, blending thoroughly. Remove from heat and crumble bacon on top. Serve hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cranmallow Fluff

- 32 regular marshmallows
- 1 cup Cranberry Juice Cocktail
- Dash salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Heat marshmallows, cranberry juice and salt in saucepan over low heat, until melted, stirring constantly. Stir in lemon juice. Chill until thickened. Beat vigorously until pink and smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Serve over sponge, pound or angel cake. Makes 2 cups.

Fruit Glazed Stuffed Chicken Breasts

- 4 whole chicken breasts
- 2 tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. pepper

FRUIT GLAZE

- 2 medium size ripe bananas
- ½ cup tangerine juice (frozen)
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- ½ cup dark corn syrup
- ¼ tsp. salt

STUFFING

- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 1 cup chopped peacans
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. pepper
- ¼ cup melted butter
- ¼ cup white raisins

Mix above ingredients for stuffing and toss lightly.

Crack keel breast bone of chicken breast and remove as much bone as possible without tearing breast in half. Lay breast out flat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Fill ½ of each breast with stuffing. Fold over other half and fasten with tooth picks. Arrange chicken breasts on shallow greased baking pan. Brush with fruit glaze. Place chicken in a 375 degree oven, brushing with the glaze every 15 minutes. Cook until tender. About 1 hour. Remove picks, serve hot, garnish with pickled fruits and parsley.

Easy And Cheesy

Use potato soup mix as the basis for creamy cheese sauce. Empty 1 (3 ounce) envelope of potato soup mix into a sauce-pan. Slowly stir in 1 cup of water. Add a dash of cayenne pepper. Cover and simmer 7 minutes. Add 2-3 cup of grated cheese. Stir until cheese melts. Stir in 1 cup of milk and heat well but do not boil. Makes 2½ cups.

When par-boiling or boiling onions that are to be stuffed, leave the root ends untrimmed during preliminary peeling so that the onions will stay whole.

Picadillo

Make a flavorful hash with any leftover meat, turkey or chicken this Spanish way: saute a cupful of chopped onion and ¼ cup chopped green pepper or pimiento in ¼ cup Spanish olive oil until tender, add 1½ cups chopped meat or poultry and 2 tablespoons catsup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper from shaker. Add ¼ cup water, cover, cook over low heat about 15 minutes. Serve in buns for a luncheon sandwich or over rice for an entree.

One very pleasant way to get more milk into Small Fry (and their elders) is to blend to a froth milk and baby food prune puree, half n' half. As a special treat, top each tall glassful with a dab of whipped cream or a small scoop of vanilla ice cream. Milk and prune juice is good given this treatment, too.

Sandwiches For A Crowd

A menu of barbecued beef on buns, potato chips, relishes, cole slaw and frosted cake squares with coffee is first choice for chairmen planning church suppers and socials. This easily prepared meal may be altered slightly to fit other group affairs.

Thrifty pot roast is an ideal choice for "barbecuing" and serving sandwich-style to a crowd. The meat can be cooked to juicy doneness in a tightly covered pan early in the day. Before the supper is to be served, the meat may be sliced thinly and reheated in a tangy barbecue sauce for service on crusty rolls. This spicy entree also may be spooned over fluffy rice or buttered noodles.

Beef chuck steak, rump roast, round steak or sirloin tip roast are excellent meat cuts to choose for the barbecued entree. A boneless cut may be preferred, for the meat is then easily sliced and the yield is more accurately determined. Pork, lamb and veal also may be used for the barbecued entree.

Easy Fixings

Macaroni-chicken skillet is an easy one-dish meal. Dredge 1 (2-pound) frying chicken, cut into serving pieces, with flour, salt and pepper. Lightly brown in ½ cup of melted butter or margarine.

Add 1 (1-quart 14-ounce) can of tomato juice. Bring to boil. Add gradually 2 cups (8 ounces) of elbow macaroni, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper and ¼ teaspoon of oregano. Cook, stirring occasionally, about 50 minutes, or until chicken and macaroni are tender. Serves 4.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Last Monday the President delivered the annual "State Of The Union" address to a joint session of the two Houses of Congress. The bit of pageantry associated with this part of the opening of Congress each January serves to remind the packed galleries, the press and the television viewers across the nation that the convening of a United States Congress is something solemn and portentous. The joint sessions are always held in the House of Representatives for the prosaic and practical reason that there is more seating space in the House than in the Senate Chamber. Virtually every seat in the galleries is occupied — the wives of Embassy Row and the wives of Senators and Representatives and other favored guests are all seated — when the arrival of the Senators is announced and they are ushered in, after having marched over two-by-two from the Senate side of the Capitol. The Vice President, who is the presiding officer of the Senate, takes his place beside the Speaker of the House at the podium. The Ambassadors and Plenipotentiaries from foreign lands, some in colorful attire, march in together and are seated. Then come the President's Cabinet, headed by the Secretary of State. Next, the United States Supreme Court Justices. And then there is the reminder that another branch of government is waiting outside: the First Lady and members of the President's family slip unostentatiously into their special gallery seats — but rarely without notice and polite applause. The reminder is made official, quaint though it is, when a bipartisan committee of Senators and Representatives is named to go out and notify the President that a quorum of each House of Congress has been assembled and is ready to receive any communication he may wish to address to them. The President is escorted in by the special committee, with everyone on the Floor of the Chamber and in the galleries standing and applauding. After the briefest introduction ever heard—"The President of the United States"—the President proceds to deliver his "State Of The Union" address.

This business was really begun in that hot summer of 1787 when James Madison rattled to Philadelphia in the "American Flyer" stagecoach and presented to the Constitutional Convention the plan of "checks and balances" which, ever since, has given the United States good government — and, some would say, not too much or too overpowering government, though there is at present real concern over this point because of recent trends toward increasing government power.

As a family must plan for the future, we in the Congress of the United States must look ahead and adjust our thinking to a changing world. By 1980, we are told, more than four-fifths of all United States citizens will be living in metropolitan areas, solid stretches of urban settlement on the East Coast, on the West Coast, and in the Midwest. In another 17 years after that, or before the turn of the century, our population will be double what it is today. On the East Coast, one solid city stretching from Boston to Washington, with no breaks or dividing lines, is visualized. The 88th Congress must, of course, give attention to defense requirements and today's economy and the other problems of the present which rightfully belong in the province of the Federal government, but I feel that we should look further ahead. For one specific thing, I think we should provide better research staffs for our Congressional committees to the end that we might clear the road blocks for dealing with increasingly complex problems for future living.

This planning for the future must be a combined effort on the part of Federal, state and local governments, working with industry, private enterprise, and civic groups. "Checks and balances", so admired by James Madison, should keep Federal solutions from being the only solutions. Much can be done, both to improve the nation and to prepare for the future, through state and local enterprise.

We the people of the United States, through city planning, cultural achievements, improved transportation, just possibly can make giant-city life "livable".

I have introduced a bill for the establishment of the C. & O. Canal National Historic Park to extend from Washington, D. C. to Cumberland, Maryland. I hope to get this measure through the 88th Congress. The benefits of this park will accrue to the millions of people residing within a radius of 150 miles, and furthermore, this scenic and historical area will become a recreational site for the other millions of Americans who visit Washington every year.

U. S.-supported forces in Vietnam in Southeast Asia suffered a bad defeat recently at the hands of Communist guerrillas. Our forces numbered 2,000; Communists numbered only 200. However, the outnumbered guerrilla force managed to kill 65 South Vietnamese troops and wounded 100 more, and shoot down 5 U. S.-manned helicopters and damage 6 others. In the wake of this disasterous battle, the United States must face up to the military and political aspects of its relations with South Vietnam. Observers see the problem not so much as a matter of training, but rather a matter of providing adequate motivation. It is reliably reported that President Diem places primary emphasis on loyalty to him personally rather than national loyalty. Whereas the United States is committed to helping the Vietnamese win a war against the Communists, President Diem's regime seems committed first and foremost to its own preservation. Until Washington and Saigon can agree on the order of priorities, there seems little chance of progress for our side in the war in Vietnam.

One often hears our American education system disparaged — compared unfavorably with European systems. In a recent issue of U. S. News & World Report, there is a table showing the percentages of young people in various countries who get at least 12 years' schooling and those who get some college work, and the figures are favorable from our standpoint. While 64% of the young people in the United States get at least 12 years' schooling, the figure is only 12% for Britain, 17% for Sweden, 31% for France, and 12% for Switzerland. While 34% of our youth go to college, it's only 9% in Britain, 9% in Sweden, 8% in France, and 5% in Switzerland.

It has been said that the new national budget will put us in the red some 13 billion dollars if the tax reduction suggested by the President is put into effect. In the "State Of The Union" address we were informed that things are in good shape, that total employment is at an all-time high. In such times, we certainly should make ends meet and pay something on our debt. In all the talk about "good times" and tax reduction, why haven't we heard something about reducing our national debt, on which we now must pay One Million Dollars an hour interest. In honesty — and simple arithmetic — should we not cut the spending proposed in the budget enough to balance the budget PLUS a reasonable payment on the national debt?

You've heard of the movement for Moral Rearmament. We need "Fiscal Rearmament" too.

Today's kids and yesterday's kids don't speak the same language. This is illustrated by a tot's reaction recently when informed that his daddy was going around the world. With quickened interest, he asked, "How many times?"

It's nice to re reporting to you again each week. The Senate is not doing any business yet; it's tied up in a discussion of Senate rules. This should be resolved before my next weekly letter. We can then begin reporting to you on the controversial measures which will be introduced.

Prune Stuffing For Duck

Fry 1 cup chopped onion in ½ cup butter until onions are delicate brown. Add 4 cups bread cubes, 1 cup chopped prunes, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning. Mix well. This is enough stuffing to fill one duck.

The new moisturized prunes are already soft. To "chop", simply snip the meat from the pit with scissors.

When a recipe calls for 1⅓ cups condensed milk, you'll find a 15-ounce can holds the equivalent. Remember that condensed milk is the sweetened variety.

Money-Saving Main Dish

Hearty hot frankfurter potato salad is an ideal main dish for warm weather menus. The beauty of this salad is that the whole thing is prepared in one skillet—starting with the raw potatoes!

Cubed raw potatoes and onion are first cooked gently in the bacon drippings until the edges begin to look transparent. Then comes the beginning of the built-in salad dressing, for water and double-rich evaporated milk are added and the potatoes are cooked until tender. By that time the liquid has thickened to creamy smoothness, and with the mere addition of vinegar, prepared mustard and seasonings, there's the salad dressing.

Hot Frankfurter Potato Salad

- 3 slices bacon
- 6 frankfurters
- 4 cup cubed raw potatoes (about ¾ inch cubes)
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 tall can evaporated milk (1⅔ cups)
- ¼ cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper

Fry bacon in a large skillet over low heat until crisp. Remove and set aside to drain. Add frankfurters, which have been cut in inch chunks, to bacon fat and cook over low heat, stirring frequently until lightly browned. Remove and set aside to drain. Add cubed raw potatoes and onion to becon fat in skillet, and cook and stir over low heat until most of fat is absorbed and onion is transparent, about 3 to 4 minutes. Add water and evaporated milk, and continue cooking over low heat until potatoes are tender and sauce starts to thicken, about 20 to 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend vinegar with mustard, salt and pepper. Add frankfurters to potatoes, then slowly stir in vinegar mixture, blending thoroughly. Remove from heat and crumble bacon on top. Serve hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Cranmallow Fluff

- 32 regular marshmallows
- 1 cup Cranberry Juice Cocktail
- Dash salt
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ cup whipping cream, whipped

Heat marshmallows, cranberry juice and salt in saucepan over low heat, until melted, stirring constantly. Stir in lemon juice. Chill until thickened. Beat vigorously until pink and smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Serve over sponge, pound or angel cake. Makes 2 cups.

Fruit Glazed Stuffed Chicken Breasts

- 4 whole chicken breasts
- 2 tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. pepper

FRUIT GLAZE

- 2 medium size ripe bananas
- ½ cup tangerine juice (frozen)
- 2 tbsp. lemon juice
- ½ cup dark corn syrup
- ¼ tsp. salt

STUFFING

- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 1 cup chopped peacans
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ⅛ tsp. pepper
- ¼ cup melted butter
- ¼ cup white raisins

Mix above ingredients for stuffing and toss lightly.

Crack keel breast bone of chicken breast and remove as much bone as possible without tearing breast in half. Lay breast out flat and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Fill ½ of each breast with stuffing. Fold over other half and fasten with tooth picks. Arrange chicken breasts on shallow greased baking pan. Brush with fruit glaze. Place chicken in a 375 degree oven, brushing with the glaze every 15 minutes. Cook until tender. About 1 hour. Remove picks, serve hot, garnish with pickled fruits and parsley.

Easy And Cheesy

Use potato soup mix as the basis for creamy cheese sauce. Empty 1 (3 ounce) envelope of potato soup mix into a sauce-pan. Slowly stir in 1 cup of water. Add a dash of cayenne pepper. Cover and simmer 7 minutes. Add 2-3 cup of grated cheese. Stir until cheese melts. Stir in 1 cup of milk and heat well but do not boil. Makes 2½ cups.

When par-boiling or boiling onions that are to be stuffed, leave the root ends untrimmed during preliminary peeling so that the onions will stay whole.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Last Monday the President delivered the annual "State Of The Union" address to a joint session of the two Houses of Congress. The bit of pageantry associated with this part of the opening of Congress each January serves to remind the packed galleries, the press and the television viewers across the nation that the convening of a United States Congress is something solemn and portentous. The joint sessions are always held in the House of Representatives for the prosaic and practical reason that there is more seating space in the House than in the Senate Chamber. Virtually every seat in the galleries is occupied — the wives of Embassy Row and the wives of Senators and Representatives and other favored guests are all seated — when the arrival of the Senators is announced and they are ushered in, after having marched over two-by-two from the Senate side of the Capitol. The Vice President, who is the presiding officer of the Senate, takes his place beside the Speaker of the House at the podium. The Ambassadors and Plenipotentiaries from foreign lands, some in colorful attire, march in together and are seated. Then come the President's Cabinet, headed by the Secretary of State. Next, the United States Supreme Court Justices. And then there is the reminder that another branch of government is waiting outside: the First Lady and members of the President's family slip unostentatiously into their special gallery seats — but rarely without notice and polite applause. The reminder is made official, quaint though it is, when a bipartisan committee of Senators and Representatives is named to go out and notify the President that a quorum of each House of Congress has been assembled and is ready to receive any communication he may wish to address to them. The President is escorted in by the special committee, with everyone on the Floor of the Chamber and in the galleries standing and applauding. After the briefest introduction ever heard—"The President of the United States"—the President proceds to deliver his "State Of The Union" address.

This business was really begun in that hot summer of 1787 when James Madison rattled to Philadelphia in the "American Flyer" stagecoach and presented to the Constitutional Convention the plan of "checks and balances" which, ever since, has given the United States good government — and, some would say, not too much or too overpowering government, though there is at present real concern over this point because of recent trends toward increasing government power.

As a family must plan for the future, we in the Congress of the United States must look ahead and adjust our thinking to a changing world. By 1980, we are told, more than four-fifths of all United States citizens will be living in metropolitan areas, solid stretches of urban settlement on the East Coast, on the West Coast, and in the Midwest. In another 17 years after that, or before the turn of the century, our population will be double what it is today. On the East Coast, one solid city stretching from Boston to Washington, with no breaks or dividing lines, is visualized. The 88th Congress must, of course, give attention to defense requirements and today's economy and the other problems of the present which rightfully belong in the province of the Federal government, but I feel that we should look further ahead. For one specific thing, I think we should provide better research staffs for our Congressional committees to the end that we might clear the road blocks for dealing with increasingly complex problems for future living.

This planning for the future must be a combined effort on the part of Federal, state and local governments, working with industry, private enterprise, and civic groups. "Checks and balances", so admired by James Madison, should keep Federal solutions from being the only solutions. Much can be done, both to improve the nation and to prepare for the future, through state and local enterprise.

We the people of the United States, through city planning, cultural achievements, improved transportation, just possibly can make giant-city life "livable".

I have introduced a bill for the establishment of the C. & O. Canal National Historic Park to extend from Washington, D. C. to Cumberland, Maryland. I hope to get this measure through the 88th Congress. The benefits of this park will accrue to the millions of people residing within a radius of 150 miles, and furthermore, this scenic and historical area will become a recreational site for the other millions of Americans who visit Washington every year.

U. S.-supported forces in Vietnam in Southeast Asia suffered a bad defeat recently at the hands of Communist guerrillas. Our forces numbered 2,000; Communists numbered only 200. However, the outnumbered guerrilla force managed to kill 65 South Vietnamese troops and wounded 100 more, and shoot down 5 U. S.-manned helicopters and damage 6 others. In the wake of this disasterous battle, the United States must face up to the military and political aspects of its relations with South Vietnam. Observers see the problem not so much as a matter of training, but rather a matter of providing adequate motivation. It is reliably reported that President Diem places primary emphasis on loyalty to him personally rather than national loyalty. Whereas the United States is committed to helping the Vietnamese win a war against the Communists, President Diem's regime seems committed first and foremost to its own preservation. Until Washington and Saigon can agree on the order of priorities, there seems little chance of progress for our side in the war in Vietnam.

One often hears our American education system disparaged — compared unfavorably with European systems. In a recent issue of U. S. News & World Report, there is a table showing the percentages of young people in various countries who get at least 12 years' schooling and those who get some college work, and the figures are favorable from our standpoint. While 64% of the young people in the United States get at least 12 years' schooling, the figure is only 12% for Britain, 17% for Sweden, 31% for France, and 12% for Switzerland. While 34% of our youth go to college, it's only 9% in Britain, 9% in Sweden, 8% in France, and 5% in Switzerland.

It has been said that the new national budget will put us in the red some 13 billion dollars if the tax reduction suggested by the President is put into effect. In the "State Of The Union" address we were informed that things are in good shape, that total employment is at an all-time high. In such times, we certainly should make ends meet and pay something on our debt. In all the talk about "good times" and tax reduction, why haven't we heard something about reducing our national debt, on which we now must pay One Million Dollars an hour interest. In honesty — and simple arithmetic — should we not cut the spending proposed in the budget enough to balance the budget PLUS a reasonable payment on the national debt?

You've heard of the movement for Moral Rearmament. We need "Fiscal Rearmament" too.

Today's kids and yesterday's kids don't speak the same language. This is illustrated by a tot's reaction recently when informed that his daddy was going around the world. With quickened interest, he asked, "How many times?"

It's nice to re reporting to you again each week. The Senate is not doing any business yet; it's tied up in a discussion of Senate rules. This should be resolved before my next weekly letter. We can then begin reporting to you on the controversial measures which will be introduced.

Prune Stuffing For Duck

Fry 1 cup chopped onion in ½ cup butter until onions are delicate brown. Add 4 cups bread cubes, 1 cup chopped prunes, 1 cup chopped celery, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 teaspoons poultry seasoning. Mix well. This is enough stuffing to fill one duck.

The new moisturized prunes are already soft. To "chop", simply snip the meat from the pit with scissors.

When a recipe calls for 1⅓ cups condensed milk, you'll find a 15-ounce can holds the equivalent. Remember that condensed milk is the sweetened variety.

Picadillo

Make a flavorful hash with any leftover meat, turkey or chicken this Spanish way: saute a cupful of chopped onion and ¼ cup chopped green pepper or pimiento in ¼ cup Spanish olive oil until tender, add 1½ cups chopped meat or poultry and 2 tablespoons catsup. Sprinkle with salt and pepper from shaker. Add ¼ cup water, cover, cook over low heat about 15 minutes. Serve in buns for a luncheon sandwich or over rice for an entree.

One very pleasant way to get more milk into Small Fry (and their elders) is to blend to a froth milk and baby food prune puree, half n' half. As a special treat, top each tall glassful with a dab of whipped cream or a small scoop of vanilla ice cream. Milk and prune juice is good given this treatment, too.

Sandwiches For A Crowd

A menu of barbecued beef on buns, potato chips, relishes, cole slaw and frosted cake squares with coffee is first choice for chairmen planning church suppers and socials. This easily prepared meal may be altered slightly to fit other group affairs.

Thrifty pot roast is an ideal choice for "barbecuing" and serving sandwich-style to a crowd. The meat can be cooked to juicy doneness in a tightly covered pan early in the day. Before the supper is to be served, the meat may be sliced thinly and reheated in a tangy barbecue sauce for service on crusty rolls. This spicy entree also may be spooned over fluffy rice or buttered noodles.

Beef chuck steak, rump roast, round steak or sirloin tip roast are excellent meat cuts to choose for the barbecued entree. A boneless cut may be preferred, for the meat is then easily sliced and the yield is more accurately determined. Pork, lamb and veal also may be used for the barbecued entree.

Easy Fixings

Macaroni-chicken skillet is an easy one-dish meal. Dredge 1 (2-pound) frying chicken, cut into serving pieces, with flour, salt and pepper. Lightly brown in ⅓ cup of melted butter or margarine.

Add 1 (1-quart 14-ounce) can of tomato juice. Bring to boil. Add gradually 2 cups (8 ounces) of elbow macaroni, ⅛ teaspoon of pepper and ¼ teaspoon of oregano. Cook, stirring occasionally, about 50 minutes, or until chicken and macaroni are tender. Serves 4.

Washington's Pie

Serve Washington's pie, cherry of course, on February 22. A pie is only as good as its crust, so remember to use lard as the shortening. Lard is noted for its ability to create the most tender, flaky pie crusts.

Jiffy Meals

What can you prepare for quick, hurry-up dinners? Try a variety of main dishes using frankfurters. Here are a few suggestions . . . slice them for casseroles or salads, bake wrapped in biscuit dough, or split lengthwise and broil topped with mashed potatoes. Frankfurters come ready to eat. They need only to be heated when you want to serve them hot.

Peanut Crunch Topping

Here's a crunchy topping for a smoked 1-inch thick ham slice. Spread ¼ cup peanut butter over ham slice. Mix ⅓ cup crushed corn flakes, ¼ cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, and 1 tablespoon vinegar. Spread over peanut butter. Bake for 1 hour at 300 degrees F.

Valentine Meat Loaves

Give your family a Valentine's Day greeting with individual meat loaves baked in heart-shaped salad molds. Bake them for 20 to 25 minutes at 350 degrees F. When baked, unmold the hearts and top them with pimiento "arrows".

Catsup Dress-Up For Vegetables And Salad

Daily dilemma for many women is the problem of dreaming-up different salads and vegetables to keep the family interested. The seasonal selection is always somewhat limiting, but let's give it a new face!

Always available glass-packed string beans, waxed beans, beets, and asparagus are popular possibilities to marinade in this fashion. They're ready without cooking, too. For an unusual salad idea, try this dressing on pimentos topped with julienne sausage, cheese or ham all resting on a bed of lettuce.

With this delectable new pickle-catsup marinade, any greens and vegetables will perk-up the taste buds, tempt the palate, and intrigue the family into having more. This recipe makes about three-and-a-half cups of dressing to store in the refrigerator in a reusable glass jar with a handy "Twist-Off" cap.

Catsup-Pickle Marinade Or Dressing

1 cup catsup
⅔ cup salad oil
½ cup wine vinegar
½ cup drained pickle relish or chopped sweet pickles
⅓ cup thinly sliced onion (about 2 small)
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 dashes Tabasco sauce
⅓ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon garlic powder
1 bay leaf
5 to 6 whole cloves

Combine ingredients, in the order listed, in a quart jar with tight cap. Shake well. Use as a marinade for vegetables cooked tender-crisp, Chinese style, or as a dressing for crisp vegetable salads. Yield: About 3½ cups marinade or dressing.

Cooking In Liquid

Here are some easy directions for better results when cooking meat in liquid. (1) Brown meat on all sides in own fat or lard. Some larger cuts, such as cured pork, corned beef and fresh or cured tongue, are not browned before adding liquid. (2) Season with salt and pepper unless meat is cured. (3) Cover with liquid, cover pan, and simmer (cook below boiling point) until tender. (4) Add vegetables just long enough before end of cooking time to be cooked.

Good Gravy

Don't throw away the appealing flavor found in the drippings from roasts. These drippings make delicious pan or cream gravies, and the nutrients found in gravy contribute to the food value of your meal.

Week's Food Economies

Variety is one of the keys to successful meal planning. The seafood counter offerings will provide favorably priced selections, says Virginia L. McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland department of markets.

The best buys in small whole fish are butterfish and sea bass. Butterfish are small, usually less than one pound, and ideal for pan-frying or broiling. Sea bass is a fish that is marketed from one half to four pounds. Those around one pound each are ideal for pan-frying. Larger sea bass may be split and broiled or stuffed and baked. When purchasing whole fish the skin should be shiny with color unfaded. The eyes of the fish should be bright, clear and full and transparent.

The scales should ahere tightly and the flesh be firm and elastic in fresh fish. Allow one pound per person of whole fish before dressing when purchasing.

Flounder is in liberal supply. Flounders range in size from three-quarters to 12 pounds. Often the flounder is sold in fillet form or you can have the whole fish filleted for you at the seafood counter. Allow one-third to one-half pound per serving when buying fillets.

Swordfish is the steak type fish on the best buy list. The swordfish is a very large fish and slices are cut so that a cross section of backbone is usually the only bone in the steak. Swordfish is a fat fish, which allows you to broil it without the addition of more fat. It cooks white and is in an economy because there is so little waste to this fish. Crab meat is in good supply. Oysters are seasonal but in higher price brackets, as they have been this season.

Other items on the best buy list are fryer chickens, carrots and onions. Supplies of canned and frozen vegetables are generous.

Crispy Topping

Here's a tasty main dish with a crispy topping. Brown ground beef and combine with cooked macaroni and a medium thick cheese sauce. Place in a baking dish. Sprinkle the top with a mixture of one cup bran flakes browned in melted butter and lightly mixed with ¼ cup grated cheese.

Beef Rolls

Here's one more use for leftover roast beef. Cut it into thin slices and top each with a mound of mashed potatoes, seasoned with onion. Roll up and fasten with wooden picks. Brush rolls with meat drippings, butter or margarine and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Shopping Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Since recent freezes have limited the supply of tender vegetables and winter fruit, the best buys are to be found in root vegetables, apples, pears, and avocados and pork and beef cuts.

This weekend shoppers will have their choices of ample supplies of cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes, and potatoes.

Those with a taste for fruit will find apples, avocados, pears, and canned red tart cherries reasonable enough to satisfy their needs.

There will be abundant supplies of beef roasts and steaks as well as pork chops and roasts. Broiler-fryers are reasonable and in very good supply.

Eggs and dairy products are good buys.

Meat Patty Casserole

Serve meat patties in this casserole combination. In a baking dish, first arrange a layer of sliced raw potatoes, then a layer of canned or frozen whole kernel corn. Top with meat patties which have been lightly browned. Add a can of diluted condensed tomato soup and bake in a 300° F. oven for 1 hour.

Crispy Topping

Here's a tasty main dish with a crispy topping. Brown ground beef and combine with cooked macaroni and a medium thick cheese sauce. Place in a baking dish. Sprinkle the top with a mixture of one cup bran flakes browned in melted butter and lightly mixed with ¼ cup grated cheese.

Beef Rolls

Here's one more use for leftover roast beef. Cut it into thin slices and top each with a mound of mashed potatoes, seasoned with onion. Roll up and fasten with wooden picks. Brush rolls with meat drippings, butter or margarine and bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes.

Shopping Guide

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Since recent freezes have limited the supply of tender vegetables and winter fruit, the best buys are to be found in root vegetables, apples, pears, and avocados and pork and beef cuts.

This weekend shoppers will have their choices of ample supplies of cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes, and potatoes.

Those with a taste for fruit will find apples, avocados, pears, and canned red tart cherries reasonable enough to satisfy their needs.

There will be abundant supplies of beef roasts and steaks as well as pork chops and roasts. Broiler-fryers are reasonable and in very good supply.

Eggs and dairy products are good buys.

Meat Patty Casserole

Serve meat patties in this casserole combination. In a baking dish, first arrange a layer of sliced raw potatoes, then a layer of canned or frozen whole kernel corn. Top with meat patties which have been lightly browned. Add a can of diluted condensed tomato soup and bake in a 300° F. oven for 1 hour.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Before he left for Italy, Brett Halsey called to say that not only will he make two movies in Rome, but he will be married to Debbie Power Loew there in December. Should keep him pretty busy during '63.

"Debbie comes over soon to join me in Italy," Brett told me, "and we'll be married in December when my divorce from Luciana Paluzzi is final in California." These two have had a more or less stormy romance but now all seems rosy.

Brett tells me both of his pictures are for Panda Film Co., the first being "The Life of Cellini," made years ago starring Fredric March. Since bowing out of his TV series, "Follow The Sun," this grand-nephew of our famed Admiral Halsey has been coming up the movie ladder fast.

That attractive couple strolling through the grounds of the Hotel Del Coronado hand in hand and looking like happy honeymooners are Lana Turner and Fred May! I suppose the cynical might call them the "happy divorced"—because Lana and Fred came to an end of their marriage last summer—or were supposed to have called it off.

Recently they have been spotted around town together. Last weekend they drove to the Coronado for a few days and liked it so well they've stayed on for a week. Fred never did want a divorce from Lana, he's still in love with her, and maybe she has thought it over and decided a nice man is hard to find.

Shelley Winters checked into Paramount to play one of the top roles in "Wives and Lovers," formerly titled "The First Wife." Shelley called me just after she arrived in town from New York and told me that Joe Levine was on the plane with her. He told Shelley he is going to make two pictures out of "The Carpetbaggers," and he wants her to star in the second film.

The three girls in "Wives and Lovers" are Janet Leigh, Martha Hyer and Shelley. This is the picture that Shirley MacLaine refused to make, saying her contract was up. Hal Wallis is still contesting Shirley's refusal. I must say she looked very pretty and well when I talked with her at a recent get-together.

When that former girl tuba player from Van Nuys shows up on the Warner lot to star in "Mary Mary" she'll find things a lot different from those days several years ago when the studio let her go rather than up her salary to $150 per week.

Oh, yes, Miss Debbie Reynolds will notice quite a change. Both director Mervyn Leroy and headman Jack Warner want ex-tuba player Debbie to be very happy indeed while she's making the movie of Jean Kerr's Broadway hit. She'll have a four-room dressing room suite, a stand-by car and chauffeur to haul her to the set, in short "the works." The only thing Debbie has asked for is that her brother Bill, who is a make-up man, be with her on "Mary Mary."

Nothing could be less surprising than word that Frank Sinatra is going to repeat that highly successful trip around the world which he did last year for the benefit of underprivileged children.

It's not only how much good Frank did for others — it is how much good the jaunt did for him. He says some of his most indelible memories are of these contacts he made with children the world over.

So determined is Frank to see that nothing interferes, he has already notified the State Department that he will start the jaunt in early summer immediately after finishing his next film, "Robin and the Seven Hoods."

Somebody's feelings at MGM got hurt when I printed that the studio was "dusty" for lack of movie making. Just by way of proving they are not only dusted off but rarin' to go I received a copy of the master shooting schedule on the Culver City lot—plus a letter:

"In the past five months we have completed Elvis Presley's 'It Happened at the World's Fair,' 'The Courtship of Eddie's Father,' 'Flipper' and 'Attong'; we are readying 'Moonwalk' and in addition to the five TV shows we have shooting, five new pilots are going into work," growls the upset Leo the Lion. "You can see we are not a graveyard peopled by ghosts!" Sorry, old boy.

All of the various features of relief are found in Asia, but in general the continent consists of a series of plateaus flanked by high mountains.

West acquitted himself nobly in both the bidding and defense of today's four spade contract, but in the end he was obliged to submit to a declarer who exhibited flawless technique.

Altho the nine of diamonds would have been a damaging lead, West's choice of the deuce of hearts is not open to serious criticism. With five trumps it does not appear that he should be especially anxious to obtain ruffs.

Declarer played dummy's ace of hearts and followed this up by leading the three of clubs. East rose with the ace and fired back the queen of hearts. South discarded a diamond as he permitted the trick to ride around to the king. The three of spades was led and declarer got the bad news when East discarded a heart.

The outlook was bleak for, with a club still to be ruffed in dummy, it appeared that South would have to concede two trump tricks and a diamond in addition to the ace of clubs. The only hope was to somehow lump together two losers late in the play.

After playing the ace of spades from his hand on the initial trump lead, South cashed the king and queen of clubs, discarding a diamond from the dummy. Proceeding cautiously, he led a diamond to the ace and trumped out North's last heart. Now he led the eight of clubs for a ruff.

West was down to one heart and the Q-9-8-6 of spades. If he discarded his heart, he saw that he could be forced to ruff away his partner's high diamond on the next round, and then made to lead away from his queen of spades. He therefore ruffed the club with the six of spades which North overruffed with the ten.

On a diamond lead, East was in as West threw his heart. Both the declarer and West had three trumps left at this point. South ruffed East's return at trick 11 with the seven of spades. West overruffed, but he had to surrender the last two tricks to the king-jack of trumps.

Hog Cholera Reported Here

For the first time in many years several cases of hog cholera have been found in Allegany County, according to Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent.

The contagious disease has been found on only one farm. Steger said hog raisers should have swine of any age treated with modified live virus and serum immediately.

Serum should be used alone on small pigs and pregnant sows, Steger stated. The advice of local veterinarians should be sought in regard to this problem, he added.

Hogs known to have been exposed to the disease and not vaccinated should be slaughtered immediately, Steger said. Small pigs should be treated as soon as possible by the veterinarian because if there is any delay until cholera appears in herds vaccination may be of no value, he concluded.

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Saudi Premier Prince Faisal told 100,000 demonstrators in Riyadh that U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser is an "impostor, opportunist and aggressor," Mecca Radio reported Tuesday. The demonstration denounced alleged U.A.R. air raids on Saudi Arabia from Yemen.

Exemptions On Taxes Predicted

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's 1963 Legislature will exempt groceries and prescription drugs from the 3 per cent consumers sales tax, the News-Register predicted Wednesday.

The News-Register said it learned that behind-the-scenes maneuvering in Charleston had led to a compromise that set the stage for such action.

The compromise also calls for shelving of a proposal backed by labor unions to enact a corporate net income tax, the newspaper said.

The sales tax, in effect since 1933, is now 3 per cent but is scheduled to revert to 2 per cent June 30. However, the Legislature is expected to remove the expiration date and make the 3 per cent rate permanent.

Chief opponent of the sales tax has been the state Labor Federation and other unions. They have also backed, at the current session, a proposed corporate income tax to replace part of the business and occupation privilege tax.

The News-Register said former Senate President Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, was instrumental in paving the way for the compromise at meetings in the capitol Tuesday.

At the 3 per cent rate, the sales tax yields about $43 million a year, including about $13 million from grocery sales.

Bean's position is that part of the lost revenue could be made up by economies in government and by increased gross sales tax collections resulting from an increase in business by West Virginia grocery firms, resulting in turn from exemption of their sales from the consumers sales tax.

Westernport Gets Report On Water Work

WESTERNPORT — Carl Shaffer, president of the Franklin Water Company, Inc., appeared at the meeting of the mayor and commissioners Monday night and received an extension of time on a contract with the town of Westernport. The contract previously had been set to go into effect February 1.

Mr. Shaffer outlined the work of laying new water lines in the Brophytown area, which included a four-inch line with two fire hydrants and two inch branch lines. Forty meters were installed Wednesday.

Completion of the new water system in the Franklin area has been delayed because of the bad weather, and a four-inch line crossing under the railroad and the State highway still has to be installed along with 2,000 feet through Franklin, with two branch lines and two fire hydrants.

Calvin Shingler, director of the water company was present at the meeting. The representatives stated the contract for the construction was let to the Orrie Sensenbaugh Contractors, Cumberland.

Three serious water leaks on Church Street have been repaired, according to Robert Kalbaugh, water commissioner. It was revealed two of the leaks accounted for approximately 80,000 gallons of water in a 24 hour period, which is equivalent to three feet of water in the reservoir.

The surveying of the water system, temporarily suspended during the emergency created when the Savage River Dam was emptied, was resumed Monday night.

Attending were Rena Brundige, Martha Wilson, Ionna Wilson, Margaret Shaw, Sally Moran, Gerry Rinard, Lora Linkswiler, and the assistant leader, Mrs. Peggy Shaw. These Scouts are compliting work for their first class badge.

KEYSER—Judge David E. Cuppett Jr., will attend the Ohio Valley Seminar for State Trial Judges in Cincinnati today through Saturday.

The seminar is being conducted by the National Conference of State Trial Judges, the Joint Committee for the Effective Administration of Justice, and the University of Cincinnati College of Law.

Invitations to attend have been extended to 100 Judges of trial courts of general jurisdiction in Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia.

The purpose is to enable representative judges from those states to spend two and a half days discussing current problems of common interest.

Each topic will be discussed by two experienced trial judges; assisted by an eminent legal scholar, who will act as reporter.

Similar regional seminars have been held in the Southeast, the Southwest, and in New England and several have been conducted in individual states.

Ten trial judges from West Virginia will attend this seminar.

Thomas C. Clark, associate justice, Supreme Court of the United States, will be the Friday evening speaker.

8-Year-Old Girl Is Killed By Car

KEARNEYSVILLE, W.Va. (AP) Eight-year-old Donna Jean Myers was killed Wednesday when she was struck by an automobile driven by Julian J. Gess, of Martinsburg, W. Va.

State Police said the child darted into the path of the oncoming car. The accident happened on West Virginia 9 in Kearneysville, in Jefferson County.

The victim was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myers.

Students Pledged To Sororities

A woman student from Hancock and three from neighboring Pennsylvania are among over 500 women students at Pennsylvania State University who have been pledged by the 27 sororities as formal sorority rushing ended.

Carole L. Ritz of Hancock was pledged to Delta Delta Delta; Betty A. Hunsicker of Bedford, Kappa Alpha Theta; Eleanor Madore, also of Bedford, Gamma Phi Beta; and Patricia A. Merrill, Berlin, Delta Zeta.

Exemptions On Taxes Predicted

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia's 1963 Legislature will exempt groceries and prescription drugs from the 3 per cent consumers sales tax, the News-Register predicted Wednesday.

The News-Register said it learned that behind-the-scenes maneuvering in Charleston had led to a compromise that set the stage for such action.

The compromise also calls for shelving of a proposal backed by labor unions to enact a corporate net income tax, the newspaper said.

The sales tax, in effect since 1933, is now 3 per cent but is scheduled to revert to 2 per cent June 30. However, the Legislature is expected to remove the expiration date and make the 3 per cent rate permanent.

Chief opponent of the sales tax has been the state Labor Federation and other unions. They have also backed, at the current session, a proposed corporate income tax to replace part of the business and occupation privilege tax.

The News-Register said former Senate President Ralph J. Bean, Moorefield, was instrumental in paving the way for the compromise at meetings in the capitol Tuesday.

At the 3 per cent rate, the sales tax yields about $43 million a year, including about $13 million from grocery sales.

Bean's position is that part of the lost revenue could be made up by economies in government and by increased gross sales tax collections resulting from an increase in business by West Virginia grocery firms, resulting in turn from exemption of their sales from the consumers sales tax.

Westernport Gets Report On Water Work

WESTERNPORT — Carl Shaffer, president of the Franklin Water Company, Inc., appeared at the meeting of the mayor and commissioners Monday night and received an extension of time on a contract with the town of Westernport. The contract previously had been set to go into effect February 1.

Mr. Shaffer outlined the work of laying new water lines in the Brophytown area, which included a four-inch line with two fire hydrants and two inch branch lines. Forty meters were installed Wednesday.

Completion of the new water system in the Franklin area has been delayed because of the bad weather, and a four-inch line crossing under the railroad and the State highway still has to be installed along with 2,000 feet through Franklin, with two branch lines and two fire hydrants.

Calvin Shingler, director of the water company was present at the meeting. The representatives stated the contract for the construction was let to the Orrie Sensenbaugh Contractors, Cumberland.

Three serious water leaks on Church Street have been repaired, according to Robert Kalbaugh, water commissioner. It was revealed two of the leaks accounted for approximately 80,000 gallons of water in a 24 hour period, which is equivalent to three feet of water in the reservoir.

The surveying of the water system, temporarily suspended during the emergency created when the Savage River Dam was emptied, was resumed Monday night.

Attending were Rena Brundige, Martha Wilson, Ionna Wilson, Margaret Shaw, Sally Moran, Gerry Rinard, Lora Linkswiler, and the assistant leader, Mrs. Peggy Shaw. These Scouts are compiting work for their first class badge.

Sled riding on Roosevelt and Central streets was discussed. Mayor Wilt stated he hopes they can provide better facilities for the sport next year.

Ample Snowfall Promised For Ski Festival

DAVIS, W. Va. (UPI)—Alpine Festival officials watched delightedly Wednesday as heavy snow began falling on ski slopes near here.

Moderate temperatures earlier this week had caused some apprehension that the festival, one of the first big attractions of West Virginia's Centennial Celebration, would be ruined.

With plenty of snow promised by the week end, officials expected a large turnout and topflight competition for the skiing and ice skating trophies.

SPEAKER—Dr. Corma Mowrey, associate director of lay relations of the National Education Association, will be guest speaker when the Mineral County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations meet at the Burlington Elementary School on Monday, February 4, at 7:30 p. m. Her topic will be "Modern Trends in Education."

Homemakers Plan 19th Anniversary

WESTERNPORT—The Westernport Homemakers Club will observe its 19th anniversary with a dinner meeting Friday, at 6 p. m. at Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont.

Mrs. Donald Hines, home management chairman, will speak on "Mrs. Consumer Looks to the Future" and a book review will be presented by Mrs. Frank Dayton, county reading chairman.

Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent, will be present at the meeting.

Vote Set

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Attendants at the three service stations on the West Virginia Turnpike will vote Jan. 30 on whether they want to be represented by the Teamster Union or no union. The stations are located near Morton, Beckley and Bluestone.

Dies Fighting Fire

HAMLIN, W. Va. (UPI)—A 70-year-old retired farmer died Tuesday of an apparent heart attack while helping a forest protection crew fight a brush fire near his home near Little Harts Creek. He was identified as Charles Thompson.

Firemen Plan Supper

The Patterson Creek Volunteer Fire Company will sponsor a steak and ham supper on Saturday from 5 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. in the fire hall. The public is invited.

Travel Abroad Has Been Made Easier For Americans

By MURRAY J. BROWN

"American" and "traveler" have become virtually synonymous throughout the world, particularly since the advent of the jet air age.

Last year alone, about 2 million U.S. citizens—more than the combined populations of Vermont, Delaware, Wyoming, Nevada and Alaska—traveled overseas, mainly for pleasure.

For many tourists, it was their first trip abroad and their initial experience with such formalities as passports, visas, tourist and travel cards and customs. But travel overseas is big business—Americans spent an estimated $2.8 billion in 1962—and everyone from travel agents to governments has been making it as easy as possible for the tourist.

Red tape has been cut to a minimum both here and abroad. Entry and exit procedures have been streamlined and restrictions eased. A number of countries no longer require passports or visas of U.S. tourists. But the State Department recommends that all American citizens who travel overseas should carry a passport as the best documentary proof of identity and nationality.

A personal letter from the secretary of state is no longer necessary and obtaining a passport is a cinch for most native-born citizens. All that is usually necessary is $10 (passport fee is $9, execution fee generally another $1; two black-and-white or color photographs, and a birth certificate or other certifed documentary proof of place and date of birth. The applicant must also establish his identity through such documents as driver's license, etc.

Applications may be made before a clerk of a federal or state court authorized to accept the same, or before an agent of the U.S. passport office. There are passport agencies in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Washington, D.C. and Honolulu.

Most of the countries in the Americas and the Caribbean do not require either a passport or visa from the U.S. tourist. In most cases, all that is necessary is a tourist or travel card. Fees for the card vary.

A visa usually is a stamped notation in the passport indicating that the bearer is to be permitted to enter the counry for a specific purpose and length of time. Generally, visas must be obtained from consular officials of the countries to be visited before departure from the United States.

Visas are waived for U.S. tourists by most of the countries of West Europe. Most of the other countries which do require them issue visas free of charge.

The Soviet Union, for example, grants visas without charge to U. S. citizens who can make the necessary arrangements for travel there. On the other hand, it will cost a tourist to the new African state of Gabon $10 for a visa valid for three months.

U.S. passports currently are not valid for travel to Cuba, Communist China or Albania.

Last year alone, about 2 million U.S. citizens—more than the combined populations of Vermont, Delaware, Wyoming, Nevada and Alaska—traveled overseas, mainly for pleasure.

For many tourists, it was their first trip abroad and their initial experience with such formalities as passports, visas, tourist and travel cards and customs. But travel overseas is big business—Americans spent an estimated $2.8 billion in 1962—and everyone from travel agents to governments has been making it as easy as possible for the tourist.

Red tape has been cut to a minimum both here and abroad. Entry and exit procedures have been streamlined and restrictions eased. A number of countries no longer require passports or visas of U.S. tourists. But the State Department recommends that all American citizens who travel overseas should carry a passport as the best documentary proof of identity and nationality.

A personal letter from the secretary of state is no longer necessary and obtaining a passport is a cinch for most native-born citizens. All that is usually necessary is $10 (passport fee is $9, execution fee generally another $1; two black-and-white or color photographs, and a birth certificate or other certifed documentary proof of place and date of birth. The applicant must also establish his identity through such documents as driver's license, etc.

Applications may be made before a clerk of a federal or state court authorized to accept the same, or before an agent of the U.S. passport office. There are passport agencies in Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles, Miami, New Orleans, New York, San Francisco, Seattle, Washington, D.C. and Honolulu.

Most of the countries in the Americas and the Caribbean do not require either a passport or visa from the U.S. tourist. In most cases, all that is necessary is a tourist or travel card. Fees for the card vary.

A visa usually is a stamped notation in the passport indicating that the bearer is to be permitted to enter the counry for a specific purpose and length of time. Generally, visas must be obtained from consular officials of the countries to be visited before departure from the United States.

Visas are waived for U.S. tourists by most of the countries of West Europe. Most of the other countries which do require them issue visas free of charge.

The Soviet Union, for example, grants visas without charge to U. S. citizens who can make the necessary arrangements for travel there. On the other hand, it will cost a tourist to the new African state of Gabon $10 for a visa valid for three months.

U.S. passports currently are not valid for travel to Cuba, Communist China or Albania.

Herman Ball Dismissed By Baltimore Colts As Assistant Coach

Former Allegany Mentor Fired After 7 Years

No Reason Given For Action; Age Could Be Factor

BALTIMORE (AP) — Herman Ball, an assistant coach on the Baltimore Colts staff since 1956, has been notified that he will not be retained by the new head coach, Don Shula.

No reason was given for the dismissal of Ball, but age may have been a factor. Shula, who replaced Weeb Ewbank as head coach two weeks ago, is 33 and Ball is 52.

Shula has rehired two other Ewbank assistants — end coach Don McCafferty and line coach John Sandusky. No disposition has yet been made in the case of defensive backfield coach Charlie Winner.

Colt owner Carroll Rosenbloom, when he fired Ewbank and hired Shula, said any of Ewbank's assistants that were not retained would be taken care of financially through the 1963 season.

Ball, who came to the Colts from Pittsburgh, has been talking with three other National Football League clubs, but has held off making any decision until he learned of his fate here.

He was head coach of the Washington Redskins from 1949 through 1951.

Shula still has three spots on his staff to fill — two if he retains Winner. One or two of those posts could be filled by a player-coach.

Gino Marchetti, captain and All-Pro defensive end, and middle linebacker Bill Pellington have been mentioned as player-coach possibilities.

After serving one year as head coach at Ridgeley High, he succeeded Bert Harbert at Allegany in the fall of 1936. During Ball's first season, the Campers won nine games, lost none and were tied once.

From 1936 until 1952, Herman directed Allegany to 54 wins, 13 losses and one tie in 68 games. His 1941 and '42 teams both went undefeated in nine contests.

Walter L. (Bill) Bowers took over in 1943, and Allegany defeated Somerset in its season opener. The 19 consecutive victories, 18 of them fashioned by Ball-coached teams, still stands as a record.

Ball, a native of Elkins (W. Va.), is still extremely popular in the Cumberland area. He spent part of the recent Christmas holidays here.

CANNED BY COLTS — Herman Ball, former Ridgeley and Allegany High School football coach who had served as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts since 1956, was dismissed by the NFL club yesterday. Don Shula, who recently succeeded Weeb Ewbank as head coach of the Hosses, declined to give any reason for the action, although it is believed that age was a factor. Ball is 52, and Shula is 33.

Randall Leads Seniors Golf

BELLAIR, Fla. (UPI) — Tourney medalist Ed Randall of Miami beat R. H. Guelich of Kenmore, N.Y., two-up here Wednesday in the second round of match play in the 29th American Seniors Golf Championship.

Randall, who won the event in 1955 and 1958, scored a par on the final hole to clinch the victory.

In a match involving two former champions, Egon Quittner of Rydal, Pa., beat Leon Sikes Sr., of Palm Beach 6 and 5. Quittner won the event in 1960 and Sikes, who was second in this year's qualifying rounds, won in 1957 and 1959.

Another former winner Jack Russell of Clearwater, who took the title in 1961, beat Glen Norville of Oklahoma City 2 and 1.

Dr. John Mercer, of Fitchburg, Mass., who upset defending champion John Roberts of Chicago Tuesday, was the victim of an upset Wednesday losing to Bradford Oxnard of Providence, R. I., 4 and 3.

In other matches, George Haggarty of Detroit beat George Abrams of Clearwater 6 and 5; Bruce Coffin of Marblehead, Mass., beat Dick Owen of Dunedin 2 and 1; Francis Francis of Nassau, beat Ray Hansbury of Boston 3 and 2; and Dexter Daniels of Winter Haven beat C. T. McCarthy of Danvers, Mass., 4 and 2.

Thursday's matches have Oxnard vs. Haggarty; Quittner vs. Coffin; Randall vs. Russell; and Francis vs. Daniels.

Contracts For Return Title Bout Should Be Signed This Week

Promoters Claim All Points Have Been Agreed On

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Promoters and advisors have agreed on all points and formal contracts are expected to be signed later this week for the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship fight here April 4, it was reported Wednesday.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor who has been demanding the $207,000 withheld from Liston's purse after the first fight in Chicago last September, said the matter had been resolved.

Nilon asked $85,000 cash in hand and the remainder in escrow before signing contracts for the April 4 re-match.

"We have agreed on all points," Nilon said. "I will select a training site before Sonny comes down to go into training, next month."

He said contracts are being prepared by Garland (Bill) Cherry, Liston's attorney, and will be ready for presentation to the Miami Beach Boxing Commission by the end of this week.

"Everything has been reduced to the drawing up of contracts and their submission to the boxing commission for approval," said Al Bolan, vice-president of Championship Sports, Inc., which will promote the fight.

Bolan said the contracts will be drawn to include a 15-point list of proposals the boxing commission laid down Monday night.

"There are no more minor details to be worked out," Bolan added.

Patterson chose Miami Beach for the fight and Julius November, his attorney, said the former champion was expected to arrive here four or five weeks before the April date.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

RADIO AND TV have opened up a field for baseball stars when they come to the end of their playing days and more and more are following this script to become commentators and play-by-play announcers.

It's not a bad deal, at that, for the major leaguers can talk with authority and know whereof they speak. Additionally they do a very good job and draw good pay while doing it.

Latest to join the "voice" line is Richie Ashburn, former Philly star whose skill was good enough to hit .306 for the Mets last year. Ashburn, who has had some experience, will do the Philly games, feeling that it was time to quit because he's now in his 36th year.

Probably the first to start a second career, as a baseball announcer, was Harry Heilmann, the old Tiger star who ended his playing career in 1932. Two others followed, Waite Hoyt, the old Yankee pitching star, and Jack Graney, Cleveland outfielder, and Hoyt still does the Cincinnati games.

Since that time many others have followed suit, including such big names as Dizzy Dean, George Kell, Phil Rizzuto, Lou Boudreau, Charlie Grimm, Frankie Frisch, Pie Traynor, Buddy Blattner, and Joe Garagiola. Umpires got into the act, too, and so did baseball writers, several of whom found new careers in this field.

• • •

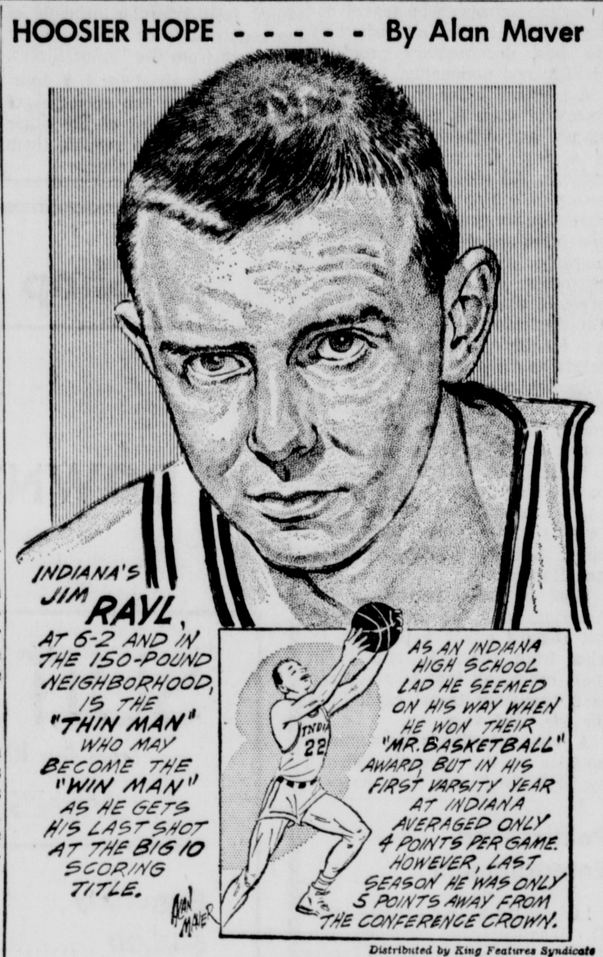

RADIO AND TELEVISION have been a big boon to baseball, although it has hurt the minor leagues. Through it millions are permitted to see and hear many games, both in and out-of-town, such features as the All-Star game and the World Series. And, financially, they have helped keep many ball clubs in the black.

Baseball historians tell us that it all started 42 years ago, in 1921, when Graham McNamee broadcast the eight games of the Yankee-Giant World Series. It was a dozen years later before sponsors moved in and in 1934 Ford signed a four-year contract at $100,000 a year to air the Series.

First of the clubs to have daily broadcasts was Chicago, and this started in 1924.

Fifteen Marks Broken In ACC During 1962

Terps' Brown Set One And Tied Two

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The 1962 football season put 15 Atlantic Coast Conference records on the books and saw 10 others equaled, with the foursome of Donnie Frederick of Wake Forest, Bob Lacey of North Carolina, Bill Reynolds of Duke and Tom Brown of Maryland accounting for 13 of the 25 alterations and additions to ACC standards.

Frederick set four records in kickoff returning. Lacey and Reynolds each set two new records and tied a third. Brown set one and tied two others.

Brown, who led the ACC both in catching his own team's passes and the enemy's as well, erased one of the oldest records on the books with six interceptions during the season. This raised his career total to 17, five more than Duke's Jerry Barger posted when he bowed out after the '54 campaign.

The Terp halfback, who last spring set a conference batting average record in baseball, also tied two records. His 47 receptions equaled the single-season mark set in '58 and his 100-yard interception return against Virginia tied the record set by Maryland's Dickie Lewis in 1956.

Maryland halfback Len Chiaverini wrote a new individual record for most rushes in a single contest. He carried 33 times against South Carolina.

Dick Stanfel Gets California Post

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Dick Stanfel, former University of San Francisco and Detroit Lion offensive line star, was named Wednesday as offensive line coach of the University of California football team.

Stanfel, 35, a San Francisco native and protege of Joe Kuharich, will return to California next month to take over the new assignment. He has been at Notre Dame under Kuharich since 1959.

Stanfel played under Kuharich at the University of San Francisco, then joined the Lions in 1952. After being voted the Lions' most outstanding lineman three times and most valuable player once, he went to the Washington Redskins under Khuarich in 1956. An injury ended his pro career in 1958.

Most homemakers agree that easy maintenance is of prime importance in a basement recreation room. An attractive and practical woodgrain recreation room can be planned by specifying planks, which have a washable plastic surface. In addition to being so easy to clean, the plastic-surfaced hardboard planks never need refinishing.

COACH, TOO—They've got Yogi Berra signed up again with the Yanks and this time Yogi is listed as a player-coach. Yogi reportedly signed for $45,000.

Troy Ruttman's Brother Hurt

SAN JON, N.M. (UPI) — Joe Ruttman, 21, of Dearborn, Mich., brother of race car driver Troy Ruttman, suffered head injuries and an $8,000 stock racing car was demolished Wednesday in an automobile accident on U.S. 66.

Also injured were two passengers in another car driven by Jerry G. Whitehead, 20, of Coquille, Ore., who was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Ruttman was a passenger in an automobile driven by his mechanic, Regis C. Micrina, 18, of Detroit. Their automobile was towing the racer—a 1962 Mercury driven by young Ruttman last weekend in a race at Riverside, Calif.

Ruttman finished 10th in the race, his first as a professional driver. Troy Ruttman, a former Indianapolis 500 winner, placed third in the same race. He was en route to Tucumcari to visit his brother, who was hospitalized for observation.

Clay Meets Powell Tonight In Ten-Rounder At Pittsburgh

Both Heavyweights Are Confident Of Winning By KO

By DICK FONTANA
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Cassius Clay lays his high ranking on the line Thursday night in a 10-round bout with former professional football player Charlie Powell who has vowed to "make it big" in boxing on his second chance.

The two combatants, who have exchanged a flurry of not-so-complimentary remarks in the past five days, went into seclusion Wednesday night.

Although the fight has generated a great deal of excitement, there has been little or no betting here. Local bookmakers say the action is very limited.

For Clay, the bout is of extreme importance since a loss could cost him his rating as the third ranking contender for the heavyweight crown held by champion Sonny Liston.

For Powell, a victory would boost him into the prominence he held after kayoing Nino Valdez, then the number two ranked contender, in 1958.

Both Clay and Powell have played to standing-room-only audiences while training in a downtown hotel. And both have issued predictions of victory, Clay in a now well-known poetic vein and Powell in an almost perfunctory attitude.

Powell figures to have a five to 10 pound advantage when they enter the ring. He expects to scale 210. Clay will probably go about 202.

Both scored victories in their last outings, Powell decisioning Dave Furch in 10 rounds and Clay knocking out Archie Moore in four. And both figure Thursday night's meeting will end in a kayo.

"If anybody goes, it will be Clay," Powell said. "All I need is one punch."

"All clowns in three rounds," is the way Cassius puts it.

Powell, who just turned 29, has had 32 fights since turning professional in 1953. He has won 23, 17 of those by knockouts, while losing six and drawing three. He has been kayoed five times.

Clay, 21-year-old from Louisville has won 16 without a loss. He has scored 13 knockouts.

Ft. Ashby Cops Upset Win Over Beall, 64-60

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles pulled a Potomac Valley Conference surprise last night by turning back the Beall Mountaineers, 64-60, at Fort Ashby.

Prior to last light, the Eagles had lost eight of 13 games and had been beaten by Beall earlier in the season by the margin of 53-42.

Yesterday's contest was a slambang affair all the way. The score was knotted seven times. The last deadlock was at 54-all, when Tim Beverlin canned a free throw to put Fort Ashby in the lead for good.

Gary Mangus and Donnie Wagoner were the heroes of the Eagles' fourth period splurge, in which they outscored the visitors 22-17.

Mangus finished as high man for Fort Ashby with 13 points, while Dick Lark and Gerald Baldwin collected a dozen apiece, and Beverlin had ten.

Agler Offered Job With Saskatchewan

WESTERVILLE (UPI) — Robert (Moe) Agler, athletic director and head football coach at Otterbein College, confirmed Wednesday he has been offered the post of head backfield coach with the Saskatchewan Rough Riders at Regina, Canada.

Saskatchewan is a member of the Western Division of the Canadian Professional Football League, in which Agler starred while playing for Calgary in 1951.

Agler said he is still considering the offer extended by head coach Bob Shaw, an All-American at Ohio State. He is a former teammate of Shaw with the Los Angeles Rams and Calgary.

Agler has coached at Otterbein since 1953 and has been head coach since 1955. His record is the best ever achieved by one coach at Otterbein, winning 42 against 25 losses and three ties.

He said he intends to take his time in deciding on whether to take the offer.

After serving one year as head coach at Ridgeley High, he succeeded Bert Harbert at Allegany in the fall of 1936. During Ball's first season, the Campers won nine games, lost none and were tied once.

From 1936 until 1952, Herman directed Allegany to 54 wins, 13 losses and one tie in 68 games. His 1941 and '42 teams both went undefeated in nine contests.

Walter L. (Bill) Bowers took over in 1943, and Allegany defeated Somerset in its season opener. The 19 consecutive victories, 18 of them fashioned by Ball-coached teams, still stands as a record.

Ball, a native of Elkins (W. Va.), is still extremely popular in the Cumberland area. He spent part of the recent Christmas holidays here.

CANNED BY COLTS — Herman Ball, former Ridgeley and Allegany High School football coach who had served as an assistant coach with the Baltimore Colts since 1956, was dismissed by the NFL club yesterday. Don Shula, who recently succeeded Weeb Ewbank as head coach of the Hosses, declined to give any reason for the action, although it is believed that age was a factor. Ball is 52, and Shula is 33.

Randall Leads Seniors Golf

BELLAIR, Fla. (UPI) — Tourney medalist Ed Randall of Miami beat R. H. Guelich of Kenmore, N.Y., two-up here Wednesday in the second round of match play in the 29th American Seniors Golf Championship.

Randall, who won the event in 1955 and 1958, scored a par on the final hole to clinch the victory.

In a match involving two former champions, Egon Quittner of Rydal, Pa., beat Leon Sikes Sr., of Palm Beach 6 and 5. Quittner won the event in 1960 and Sikes, who was second in this year's qualifying rounds, won in 1957 and 1959.

Another former winner Jack Russell of Clearwater, who took the title in 1961, beat Glen Norville of Oklahoma City 2 and 1.

Dr. John Mercer, of Fitchburg, Mass., who upset defending champion John Roberts of Chicago Tuesday, was the victim of an upset Wednesday losing to Bradford Oxnard of Providence, R. I., 4 and 3.

In other matches, George Haggarty of Detroit beat George Abrams of Clearwater 6 and 5; Bruce Coffin of Marblehead, Mass., beat Dick Owen of Dunedin 2 and 1; Francis Francis of Nassau, beat Ray Hansbury of Boston 3 and 2; and Dexter Daniels of Winter Haven beat C. T. McCarthy of Danvers, Mass., 4 and 2.

Thursday's matches have Oxnard vs. Haggarty; Quittner vs. Coffin; Randall vs. Russell; and Francis vs. Daniels.

Contracts For Return Title Bout Should Be Signed This Week

Promoters Claim All Points Have Been Agreed On

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Promoters and advisors have agreed on all points and formal contracts are expected to be signed later this week for the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson heavyweight championship fight here April 4, it was reported Wednesday.

Jack Nilon, Liston's advisor who has been demanding the $207,000 withheld from Liston's purse after the first fight in Chicago last September, said the matter had been resolved.

Nilon asked $85,000 cash in hand and the remainder in escrow before signing contracts for the April 4 re-match.

"We have agreed on all points," Nilon said. "I will select a training site before Sonny comes down to go into training, next month."

He said contracts are being prepared by Garland (Bill) Cherry, Liston's attorney, and will be ready for presentation to the Miami Beach Boxing Commission by the end of this week.

"Everything has been reduced to the drawing up of contracts and their submission to the boxing commission for approval," said Al Bolan, vice-president of Championship Sports, Inc., which will promote the fight.

Bolan said the contracts will be drawn to include a 15-point list of proposals the boxing commission laid down Monday night.

"There are no more minor details to be worked out," Bolan added.

Patterson chose Miami Beach for the fight and Julius November, his attorney, said the former champion was expected to arrive here four or five weeks before the April date.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

RADIO AND TV have opened up a field for baseball stars when they come to the end of their playing days and more and more are following this script to become commentators and play-by-play announcers.

It's not a bad deal, at that, for the major leaguers can talk with authority and know whereof they speak. Additionally they do a very good job and draw good pay while doing it.

Latest to join the "voice" line is Richie Ashburn, former Philly star who still was good enough to hit .306 for the Mets last year. Ashburn, who has had some experience, will do the Philly games, feeling that it was time to quit because he's now in his 36th year.

Probably the first to start a second career, as a baseball announcer, was Harry Heilmann, the old Tiger star who ended his playing career in 1932. Two others followed, Waite Hoyt, the old Yankee pitching star, and Jack Graney, Cleveland outfielder, and Hoyt still does the Cincinnati games.

Since that time many others have followed suit, including such big names as Dizzy Dean, George Kell, Phil Rizzuto, Lou Boudreau, Charlie Grimm, Frankie Frisch, Pie Traynor, Buddy Blattner, and Joe Garagiola. Umpires got into the act, too, and so did baseball writers, several of whom found new careers in this field.

• • •

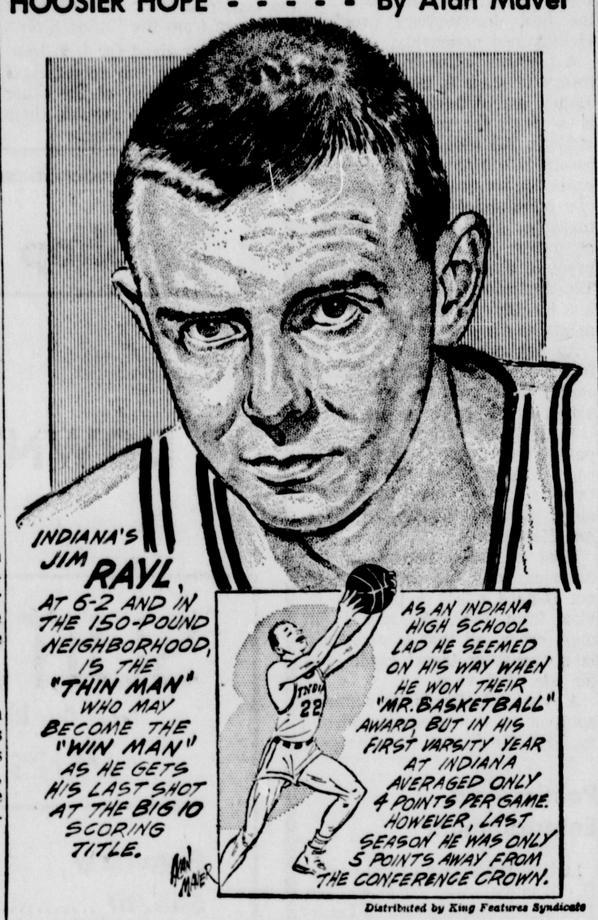

RADIO AND TELEVISION have been a big boon to baseball, although it has hurt the minor leagues. Through it millions are permitted to see and hear many games, both in and out-of-town, such features as the All-Star game and the World Series. And, financially, they have helped keep many ball clubs in the black.

Baseball historians tell us that it all started 42 years ago, in 1921, when Graham McNamee broadcast the eight games of the Yankee-Giant World Series. It was a dozen years later before sponsors moved in and in 1934 Ford signed a four-year contract at $100,000 a year to air the Series.

First of the clubs to have daily broadcasts was Chicago, and this started in 1924.

Fifteen Marks Broken In ACC During 1962

Terps' Brown Set One And Tied Two

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The 1962 football season put 15 Atlantic Coast Conference records on the books and saw 10 others equaled, with the foursome of Donnie Frederick of Wake Forest, Bob Lacey of North Carolina, Bill Reynolds of Duke and Tom Brown of Maryland accounting for 13 of the 25 alterations and additions to ACC standards.

Frederick set four records in kickoff returning. Lacey and Reynolds each set two new records and tied a third. Brown set one and tied two others.

Brown, who led the ACC both in catching his own team's passes and the enemy's as well, erased one of the oldest records on the books with six interceptions during the season. This raised his career total to 17, five more than Duke's Jerry Barger posted when he bowed out after the '54 campaign.

The Terp halfback, who last spring set a conference batting average record in baseball, also tied two records. His 47 receptions equaled the single-season mark set in '58 and his 100-yard interception return against Virginia tied the record set by Maryland's Dickie Lewis in 1956.

Maryland halfback Len Chiaverini wrote a new individual record for most rushes in a single contest. He carried 33 times against South Carolina.

Dick Stanfel Gets California Post

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Dick Stanfel, former University of San Francisco and Detroit Lion offensive line star, was named Wednesday as offensive line coach of the University of California football team.

Stanfel, 35, a San Francisco native and protege of Joe Kuharich, will return to California next month to take over the new assignment. He has been at Notre Dame under Kuharich since 1959.

Stanfel played under Kuharich at the University of San Francisco, then joined the Lions in 1952. After being voted the Lions' most outstanding lineman three times and most valuable player once, he went to the Washington Redskins under Khuarich in 1956. An injury ended his pro career in 1958.

Most homemakers agree that easy maintenance is of prime importance in a basement recreation room. An attractive and practical woodgrain recreation room can be planned by specifying planks, which have a washable plastic surface. In addition to being so easy to clean, the plastic-surfaced hardboard planks never need refinishing.

COACH, TOO—They've got Yogi Berra signed up again with the Yanks and this time Yogi is listed as a player-coach. Yogi reportedly signed for $45,000.

Troy Ruttman's Brother Hurt

SAN JON, N.M. (UPI) — Joe Ruttman, 21, of Dearborn, Mich., brother of race car driver Troy Ruttman, suffered head injuries and an $8,000 stock racing car was demolished Wednesday in an automobile accident on U.S. 66.

Also injured were two passengers in another car driven by Jerry G. Whitehead, 20, of Coquille, Ore., who was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road.

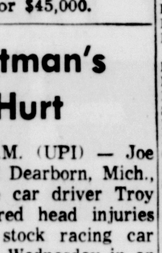

Ruttman was a passenger in an automobile driven by his mechanic, Regis C. Micrina, 18, of Detroit. Their automobile was towing the racer—a 1962 Mercury driven by young Ruttman last weekend in a race at Riverside, Calif.

Ruttman finished 10th in the race, his first as a professional driver. Troy Ruttman, a former Indianapolis 500 winner, placed third in the same race. He was en route to Tucumcari to visit his brother, who was hospitalized for observation.

Clay Meets Powell Tonight In Ten-Rounder At Pittsburgh

Both Heavyweights Are Confident Of Winning By KO

By DICK FONTANA
United Press International

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Cassius Clay lays his high ranking on the line Thursday night in a 10-round bout with former professional football player Charlie Powell who has vowed to "make it big" in boxing on his second chance.

The two combatants, who have exchanged a flurry of not-so-complimentary remarks in the past five days, went into seclusion Wednesday night.

Although the fight has generated a great deal of excitement, there has been little or no betting here. Local bookmakers say the action is very limited.

For Clay, the bout is of extreme importance since a loss could cost him his rating as the third ranking contender for the heavyweight crown held by champion Sonny Liston.

For Powell, a victory would boost him into the prominence he held after kayoing Nino Valdez, then the number two ranked contender, in 1958.

Both Clay and Powell have played to standing-room-only audiences while training in a downtown hotel. And both have issued predictions of victory, Clay in a now well-known poetic vein and Powell in an almost perfunctory attitude.

Powell figures to have a five to 10 pound advantage when they enter the ring. He expects to scale 210. Clay will probably go about 202.

Both scored victories in their last outings, Powell decisioning Dave Furch in 10 rounds and Clay knocking out Archie Moore in four. And both figure Thursday night's meeting will end in a kayo.

"If anybody goes, it will be Clay," Powell said. "All I need is one punch."

"All clowns in three rounds," is the way Cassius puts it.

Powell, who just turned 29, has had 32 fights since turning professional in 1953. He has won 23, 17 of those by knockouts, while losing six and drawing three. He has been kayoed five times.

Clay, 21-year-old from Louisville has won 16 without a loss. He has scored 13 knockouts.

Ft. Ashby Cops Upset Win Over Beall, 64-60

Fort Ashby's Golden Eagles pulled a Potomac Valley Conference surprise last night by turning back the Beall Mountaineers, 64-60, at Fort Ashby.

Prior to last light, the Eagles had lost eight of 13 games and had been beaten by Beall earlier in the season by the margin of 53-42.

Yesterday's contest was a slambang affair all the way. The score was knotted seven times. The last deadlock was at 54-all, when Tim Beverlin canned a free throw to put Fort Ashby in the lead for good.

Gary Mangus and Donnie Wagoner were the heroes of the Eagles' fourth period splurge, in which they outscored the visitors 22-17.

Mangus finished as high man for Fort Ashby with 13 points, while Dick Lark and Gerald Baldwin collected a dozen apiece, and Beverlin had ten.

Agler Offered Job With Saskatchewan

WESTERVILLE (UPI) — Robert (Moe) Agler, athletic director and head football coach at Otterbein College, confirmed Wednesday he has been offered the post of head backfield coach with the Saskatchewan Rough Riders at Regina, Canada.

Saskatchewan is a member of the Western Division of the Canadian Professional Football League, in which Agler starred while playing for Calgary in 1951.

Agler said he is still considering the offer extended by head coach Bob Shaw, an All-American at Ohio State. He is a former teammate of Shaw with the Los Angeles Rams and Calgary.

Agler has coached at Otterbein since 1953 and has been head coach since 1955. His record is the best ever achieved by one coach at Otterbein, winning 42 against 25 losses and three ties.

He said he intends to take his time in deciding on whether to take the offer.

Allegany To Compete In Indoor Track Meet At Baltimore Saturday

National Guard Of Maryland Sponsors Event

Coach Schwarz Plans To Enter 15 Alco Athletes

Allegany High School will send 15 atheletes to Baltimore Saturday to participate in a National Guard-sponsored indoor track meet at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

The Maryland National Guard, in keeping with the spirit of the physical fitness program endorsed by President John F. Kennedy, is sponsoring the meet for the state's secondary schools—public, private and parochial. It will get under way at 7 p. m.

The meet is sanctioned by the Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association, and the South Atlantic AAU is cooperating in detailed management. The sponsoring organization hopes to make it an annual event.

Baltimore Schools Enter

Competition should be even tougher than at the state meets held at College Park every spring. Baltimore high schools, which do not participate in the state event, will be well represented at the Saturday night games, in which as many as fifty schools may be entered.

Coach Ed Schwarz of Allegany stated last night that his team will run in the relays and several of the individual track and field events.

There will be 12 events on the program, including one and two-mile runs; one and two-mile relays; 60-yard dash trials, semi-finals and finals; running high jump; 12-pound shotput; 1,000 yard run and 880-yard relay.

Five Points For First

Scoring will be five points for first place, three for second, two for third, and one for fourth for all events, including the relays.

Medals will be presented to the first three finishers in all races—gold for first, silver for second and bronze for third. Relay teams will be awarded medals for first, second and third place finishes.

A team trophy will be awarded to the team with the highest total number of points.

Hitchcock Sings Happy Tune, Predicts High Finish

Skipper Confident Birds Will Take First Or Second

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles is whistling a happy tune these days as he makes the rounds of the banquet circuit.

The 46-year-old, sophomore skipper expresses confidence his revamped Birds not only will make the first division but stand a good chance to take first or second in the American League.

A series of crippling injuries and bad breaks saw the Orioles drop from third place to seventh last year in Hitchcock's first season as manager of the club.

Hitchcock and Club President Lee MacPhail gave the team a drastic overhauling in wholesale trading and dealing sessions with the Chicago White Sox, Detroit Tigers, San Francisco Giants, Washington Senators and Cincinnati Reds.

"The deal with the White Sox makes us," Hitchcock said in an interview with The Associated Press the other night. "Getting Luis Aparicio makes our infield one of the best—if not the best in the league. Al Smith adds right-handed power we needed."

Hitchcock already has his lineup set. Unless injuries hurt the club again, Billy figures to start off with Jim Gentile at first, Jerry Adair at second, Aparicio at short and Brooks Robinson at third.

"We'll go in the outfield with Smith, Jackie Brandt and John Powell," said Hitchcock. "Then we'll have Joe Gaines and Russ Snyder back of them.

"The catching looks real solid with Dick Brown (from Detroit), John Orsino (from San Francisco) and Charlie Lau," said Hitchcock.

"The pitching could be even better this year," said Hitchcock.

"We've got a strong nucleus in Barber, Pappas, Estrada and Robin Roberts. Mike McCormick (from the Giants) has been going great in winter ball and could give us a lot of help.

"Then we've got those two strong kids we brought up last year—Dave McNally 20, a left-hander and John Miller 21, a right-hander. Both looked real good in September and we think they have a good chance to stay up."

"Over all, I'd say we're going to have a real good club in there. With a couple of breaks we'll have a good shot at it this year."

Cincy Defense Will Get Test Against Illini

Saturday's Game Called 'Natural'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Coach Ed Jucker of Cincinnati's top-rated Bearcats admitted Wednesday his team's defensive reputation will be on the spot in college basketball's game of the year Saturday against Illinois.

"But this isn't the first time," Jucker added, that the Bearcats have been up against a good offensive outfit. He reminded that Cincinnati has jammed the offensive gears of such fine scoring teams in recent years as Ohio State, Wisconsin and Bradley.

Must Stop Fast Break

So far this year, the Bearcats have allowed only one opponent to hit as high as 61 points. Eight times they have held the opposition below the 50 mark.

Saturday's contest, the second game of a double header at Chicago Stadium, will pit the fine Cincinnati defense against an Illinois team that has scored at least 90 points on eight occasions and never less than 66.

Three Seniors Start

Cincinnati will start three seniors against the Illini — forward Tom Thacker (6-2) and guards Tony Yates (6-1) and Larry Shingleton (5-10).

Plenty At Stake

Cincinnati has plenty at stake in the Illinois game. The defending NCAA champions have a 14-0 record and a 32-game winning streak underway extending back to January, 1962.

More than 18,000 fans are expected to watch the double bill at Chicago. The first game features the nation's No. 2 team, Loyola, against Santa Clara.

Cincinnati's 11-man squad will depart the Greater Cincinnati Airport Friday afternoon and will work out at the stadium at 5 p.m. that same day.

SHORT MEMORIES

Gene Littler Defends Title In International Golf Open

Field Of 149 Pros Enter Tournament At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gene (The Machine) Littler opens defense of his title in the $50,000 San Francisco International Golf Open Thursday hoping the putting cog is well oiled again.

The machine sputtered the past two tournaments as Littler failed to shoot low enough to qualify for the final rounds at San Diego and in the Bing Crosby event.

After playing his practice round over the Harding Park Municipal Course, scene of the San Francisco event, the former U.S. Open champion commented, "I'm putting better now."

He'll have to, in facing a field of 149 pros including such big names as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Bill Casper, who already have posted 1963 victories.

Palmer won the $9,000 first prize at Los Angeles, missed the San Diego Open and then was disqualified at the Crosby when he broke a rule. That infraction also broke Palmer's consecutive in-the-money string at 47 tournaments.

Player, the South African who won here in 1961, tops the 1963 money list with $9,440 after winning at San Diego and winding up in a five-way tie for second at the Crosby.

Casper captured the Crosby by one stroke with a 285 for 72 holes and has collected $8,308 already this month.

Junior Skiing Championships Will Be Held

The sixth annual Maryland State Junior Skiing Championships set for Saturday and Sunday will take place as scheduled. A fresh cover of snow on an already good base assure excellent skiing conditions for the weekend at Marsh Mountain in Garrett County.

Boys and girls 18 years of age and younger are eligible to compete. Junior skiers wishing to enter should immediately contact Taft Oursler at Oakland.

Slalom races for junior classes I through IV will get under way on Saturday at 1 p. m., and the giant slaloms will start at one the following day.

Entries have been received from four states and the District of Columbia. Ski clubs from Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, Morgantown, Ligonier and Silver Spring will be represented.

Piedmont Romps To 90-40 Victory

It was also their ninth win in the PVC, and moved them ahead of Keyser High's Golden Tornado, which boasts an 8-0 record. The two will clash in a showdown battle next Wednesday at Keyser.

After a close first period, which ended with Piedmont on top 18-15, the Lions pulled away to a comfortable halftime edge (38-22) and continued to pour it on.

Five Piedmont players scored in double figures. Leading the parade was Larry Patterson with 17. Eugene Taylor was right behind with 16, Jimmy Shaver had 15, Wenzil Jessie collected 12 and Aubrey Green 10.

Allegany To Compete In Indoor Track Meet At Baltimore Saturday

National Guard Of Maryland Sponsors Event

Coach Schwarz Plans To Enter 15 Alco Athletes

Allegany High School will send 15 atheletes to Baltimore Saturday to participate in a National Guard-sponsored indoor track meet at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

The Maryland National Guard, in keeping with the spirit of the physical fitness program endorsed by President John F. Kennedy, is sponsoring the meet for the state's secondary schools—public, private and parochial. It will get under way at 7 p. m.

The meet is sanctioned by the Maryland Public Secondary Schools Athletic Association, and the South Atlantic AAU is cooperating in detailed management. The sponsoring organization hopes to make it an annual event.

Baltimore Schools Enter

Competition should be even tougher than at the state meets held at College Park every spring. Baltimore high schools, which do not participate in the state event, will be well represented at the Saturday night games, in which as many as fifty schools may be entered.

Coach Ed Schwarz of Allegany stated last night that his team will run in the relays and several of the individual track and field events.

There will be 12 events on the program, including one and two-mile runs; one and two-mile relays; 60-yard dash trials, semi-finals and finals; running high jump; 12-pound shotput; 1,000 yard run and 880-yard relay.

Five Points For First

Scoring will be five points for first place, three for second, two for third, and one for fourth for all events, including the relays.

Medals will be presented to the first three finishers in all races—gold for first, silver for second and bronze for third. Relay teams will be awarded medals for first, second and third place finishes.

A team trophy will be awarded to the team with the highest total number of points.

Hitchcock Sings Happy Tune, Predicts High Finish

Skipper Confident Birds Will Take First Or Second

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Billy Hitchcock of the Baltimore Orioles is whistling a happy tune these days as he makes the rounds of the banquet circuit.

The 46-year-old, sophomore skipper expresses confidence his revamped Birds not only will make the first division but stand a good chance to take first or second in the American League.

A series of crippling injuries and bad breaks saw the Orioles drop from third place to seventh last year in Hitchcock's first season as manager of the club.

Hitchcock and Club President Lee MacPhail gave the team a drastic overhauling in wholesale trading and dealing sessions with the Chicago White Sox, Detroit Tigers, San Francisco Giants, Washington Senators and Cincinnati Reds.

"The deal with the White Sox makes us," Hitchcock said in an interview with The Associated Press the other night. "Getting Luis Aparicio makes our infield one of the best—if not the best in the league. Al Smith adds right-handed power we needed."

Hitchcock already has his lineup set. Unless injuries hurt the club again, Billy figures to start off with Jim Gentile at first, Jerry Adair at second, Aparicio at short and Brooks Robinson at third.

"We'll go in the outfield with Smith, Jackie Brandt and John Powell," said Hitchcock. "Then we'll have Joe Gaines and Russ Snyder back of them.

"The catching looks real solid with Dick Brown (from Detroit), John Orsino (from San Francisco) and Charlie Lau," said Hitchcock.

Although left-handers Steve Barber and Milt Pappas were handicapped by illness last year and Chuck Estrada fell off in the won-lost column by his teammates' low-run-itis, the Orioles still topped the AL in pitching in earned runs with a low of 3.692.

"The pitching could be even better this year," said Hitchcock.

"We've got a strong nucleus in Barber, Pappas, Estrada and Robin Roberts. Mike McCormick (from the Giants) has been going great in winter ball and could give us a lot of help.

"Then we've got those two strong kids we brought up last year—Dave McNally 20, a left-hander and John Miller 21, a right-hander. Both looked real good in September and we think they have a good chance to stay up."

"Over all, I'd say we're going to have a real good club in there. With a couple of breaks we'll have a good shot at it this year."

Cincy Defense Will Get Test Against Illini

Saturday's Game Called 'Natural'

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Coach Ed Jucker of Cincinnati's top-rated Bearcats admitted Wednesday his team's defensive reputation will be on the spot in college basketball's game of the year Saturday against Illinois.

"But this isn't the first time," Jucker added, that the Bearcats have been up against a good offensive outfit. He reminded that Cincinnati has jammed the offensive gears of such fine scoring teams in recent years as Ohio State, Wisconsin and Bradley.

Cincinnati will send a team against the high - scoring Illini that is first in the nation in both defense (48.5 per game) and in fewest personal fouls committed (12.1 per game).

Must Stop Fast Break

"We must prevent Illinois' great fast break or we'll get blown right off the court," Jucker said. "But my kids take an awful lot of pride in their defense, and I've said right along that this is a bit stronger club defensively than last year's."

So far this year, the Bearcats have allowed only one opponent to hit as high as 61 points. Eight times they have held the opposition below the 50 mark.

Saturday's contest, the second game of a double header at Chicago Stadium, will pit the fine Cincinnati defense against an Illinois team that has scored at least 90 points on eight occasions and never less than 66.

Three Seniors Start

Cincinnati will start three seniors against the Illini — forward Tom Thacker (6-2) and guards Tony Yates (6-1) and Larry Shingleton (5-10).

Two juniors, forward Ron Bonham (6-5) and center George Wilson (6-8) round out the starting five, with sixth-man Dale Heidotting, a 6-8 senior, helping out.

The Bearcats' top scorer is Bonham with an average of 20.8 points per game. Wilson is behind Bonham with a 16-point average and leads the team in rebounds with 10.9 recoveries a contest.

Plenty At Stake

Cincinnati has plenty at stake in the Illinois game. The defending NCAA champions have a 14-0 record and a 32-game winning streak underway extending back to January, 1962.

Illinois, the top-ranked team in the Big Ten, has a 12-1 record and features a fast break that hasn't been shut off yet.

More than 18,000 fans are expected to watch the double bill at Chicago. The first game features the nation's No. 2 team, Loyola, against Santa Clara.

Cincinnati's 11-man squad will depart the Greater Cincinnati Airport Friday afternoon and will work out at the stadium at 5 p.m. that same day.

SHORT MEMORIES

Gene Littler Defends Title In International Golf Open

Field Of 149 Pros Enter Tournament At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gene (The Machine) Littler opens defense of his title in the $50,000 San Francisco International Golf Open Thursday hoping the putting cog is well oiled again.

The machine sputtered the past two tournaments as Littler failed to shoot low enough to qualify for the final rounds at San Diego and in the Bing Crosby event.

He three-putted seven greens in the first round of the Crosby in carding an 11-over-par 83.

After playing his practice round over the Harding Park Municipal Course, scene of the San Francisco event, the former U.S. Open champion commented, "I'm putting better now."

He'll have to, in facing a field of 149 pros including such big names as Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Bill Casper, who already have posted 1963 victories.

Palmer won the $9,000 first prize at Los Angeles, missed the San Diego Open and then was disqualified at the Crosby when he broke a rule. That infraction also broke Palmer's consecutive in-the-money string at 47 tournaments.

Player, the South African who won here in 1961, tops the 1963 money list with $9,440 after winning at San Diego and winding up in a five-way tie for second at the Crosby.

Casper captured the Crosby by one stroke with a 285 for 72 holes and has collected $8,308 already this month.

Junior Skiing Championships Will Be Held

The sixth annual Maryland State Junior Skiing Championships set for Saturday and Sunday will take place as scheduled. A fresh cover of snow on an already good base assure excellent skiing conditions for the weekend at Marsh Mountain in Garrett County.

Boys and girls 18 years of age and younger are eligible to compete. Junior skiers wishing to enter should immediately contact Taft Oursler at Oakland.

Slalom races for junior classes I through IV will get under way on Saturday at 1 p. m., and the giant slaloms will start at one the following day.

Entries have been received from four states and the District of Columbia. Ski clubs from Pittsburgh, Washington, Baltimore, Morgantown, Ligonier and Silver Spring will be represented.

West Virginia, Duke Clash In Saturday Game

Battle At Durham Will Be Televised

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—West Virginia battles an old basketball nemesis Duke and All-Americans Rod Thorn and Art Heyman collide Saturday afternoon in an inter-conference game at Durham, N. C. As the Atlantic Coast Conference "game of the week," it will be televised regionally beginning at 2:15 p. m.

Both the Blue Devils, with their 12-2 record, and the Mountaineers (12-3) rank in the wire-service standings. Whichever wins this contest will count it one of the highlights of the season.

West Virginia has mostly sad memories of the pesky Blue Devils. In the 1952 Southern Conference semi-finals, Dick Groat & Co. edged Mark Workman & Co. 90-88 on the most controversial play in Mountaineer history. In 1958, the nation's No. 1 team suffered its only defeat at Durham. Last year, a sophomore-tinged Duke team scored one of the two victories by a team visiting Mountaineer Field House in seven years.

The Mountaineers hold precious their three victories in the 13-game series—trouncings of Dick Groat's team and by Jerry West's team in 1959, both in Morgantown, and a last-second victory in the Birmingham Classic.

The series has always been hotly contested between the premier teams of the Atlantic Coast and Southern conferences, spiced by the presence of several West Virginians on Duke rosters, and marked by their exciting styles of play.

HAS A BENT FOR POLE VAULTING — Dave Tork of Fairmont, W. Va., almost bends his pole in half as he vaults to a record 15 feet, 8½ inches during the Los Angeles Invitational indoor track and field meet. At right is an overhead view of Tork as he was coming up from the floor to set the meet record.

Berra No Longer Made Butt Of Baseball Jokes

Once Considered Character, Yogi Is Respected Now

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) —It has been a long time since anyone laughed at Yogi Berra.

Once he was the butt of many a baseball joke but now they're talking about Yogi's brain instead of his brawn.

At least two major league clubs put out feelers to try to lure him away as a manager. Then the Yankees, who wouldn't have stood in his way if he wanted to go, expressed keen delight that he chose to stay as a combination player-coach where his brain and brawn can be used in roughly equal portions.

But it was a long haul for old Yogi who came down from "the hill" in old St. Louis followed by a carload of laughter.

They laughed at his size and shape when he came to play with the Yankees 18 years ago, laughed at his awkward efforts to learn his trade, laughed at his penchant for reading comic books even after he became a star and they laughed at his malapropisms when he tried to make a speech.

Paychecks Grew

When Yankee General Manager Roy Hamey came up with the idea of adding Yogi to the coaching staff in place of the veteran Wally Moses, who was sent back as farm system batting coach, the thought occurred to many:

After all, much of the Berra legend was based on jokes at his expense.

"There's no problem on that score," says Hamey. "They all have great respect both for him and his great record."

Came Up With Classic

"Dickey is learning me his experience," Yogi told interviewers.

And not long thereafter Berra said in an acceptance speech at St. Louis after a special night in his honor:

"I want to thank all the people who made this night necessary."

Choice items of that nature, plus Berra's preference for hitting bad balls into the seats instead of waiting for pitches in the strike zone, quickly established him as a character seemingly out of place in the Yankee picture.

But Berra-watchers began to note that he made few mistakes and was thinking all the time. An incident in a Yankee-Dodger World Series game in 1949 showed 'em all he knew what the score was.

Details of the episode are hazy but the Dodgers had a rally going until an unusual double-play somehow produced the third out. No one was aware of it except Yogi and one umpire. While Phil Rizzuto and other veteran Yankees were trotting back to their positions to await the next batter, Yogi was heading for the dugout.

"Three outs is all you get," Yogi said to protesting Dodgers—and the umpire upheld him.

U.S. Bobsledders Crash In Austria

IGLS, Austria (UPI) — American bobsledders Joe McKillip and Paul King crashed at 60 miles an hour in a practice run for the world bobsled championships Wednesday but both sustained only minor injuries.

McKillip, from Saranac Lake, N.Y., the driver of the two-man sled, sustained a cut left cheek and was treated for a dislocated shoulder in Innsbruck Hospital. King, Massena, N.Y., was shaken up. The brakeman was allowed to return to the team hotel Wednesday afternoon and was loudly demanding a sled for Thursday's workouts.

McKillip was detained overnight and will re-join his teammates Wednesday.

The spill occurred on the final straight just 20 yards from the finish line. When both men were taken from the run, King was unable to move his left leg while McKillip had to be assisted away by other members of the team.

West Virginia, Duke Clash In Saturday Game

Battle At Durham Will Be Televised

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—West Virginia battles an old basketball nemesis Duke and All-Americans Rod Thorn and Art Heyman collide Saturday afternoon in an inter-conference game at Durham, N. C. As the Atlantic Coast Conference "game of the week," it will be televised regionally beginning at 2:15 p. m.

Both the Blue Devils, with their 12-2 record, and the Mountaineers (12-3) rank in the wire-service standings. Whichever wins this contest will count it one of the highlights of the season.

West Virginia has mostly sad memories of the pesky Blue Devils. In the 1952 Southern Conference semi-finals, Dick Groat & Co. edged Mark Workman & Co. 90-88 on the most controversial play in Mountaineer history. In 1958, the nation's No. 1 team suffered its only defeat at Durham. Last year, a sophomore-tinged Duke team scored one of the two victories by a team visiting Mountaineer Field House in seven years.

The Mountaineers hold precious their three victories in the 13-game series—trouncings of Dick Groat's team and by Jerry West's team in 1959, both in Morgantown, and a last-second victory in the Birmingham Classic.

The series has always been hotly contested between the premier teams of the Atlantic Coast and Southern conferences, spiced by the presence of several West Virginians on Duke rosters, and marked by their exciting styles of play.

Petersburg Gets Sectional Tilts

Three 7-AA Games Carded March 8-9

Five schools, namely, Keyser, Petersburg, Romney, Charles Town and Berkeley Springs, will compete for the West Virginia Section 7-AA basketball championship next month in games billed for Shepherd College and Petersburg High School.

The first session will be held at Shepherd gym Wednesday, March 6 where Charles Town and Berkeley Springs will clash at 8:30 p. m.

Winner of this contest will advance to the semi-finals set for Petersburg Friday, March 8. Keyser will oppose the winner of the Charles Town-Berkeley Springs contest at 7 p. m., and Romney will battle Petersburg at 9 p. m.

Semi-final victors will tangle Saturday at 8:30 p. m., at Petersburg for the sectional title and a berth in the Region Two playoffs. No consolation game is scheduled.

Floyd "Pete" Elliott and Charles Lattimer of Cumberland will be the officials.

Berra No Longer Made Butt Of Baseball Jokes

Once Considered Character, Yogi Is Respected Now

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) —It has been a long time since anyone laughed at Yogi Berra.

Once he was the butt of many a baseball joke but now they're talking about Yogi's brain instead of his brawn.

At least two major league clubs put out feelers to try to lure him away as a manager. Then the Yankees, who wouldn't have stood in his way if he wanted to go, expressed keen delight that he chose to stay as a combination player-coach where his brain and brawn can be used in roughly equal portions.

But it was a long haul for old Yogi who came down from "the hill" in old St. Louis followed by a carload of laughter.

They laughed at his size and shape when he came to play with the Yankees 18 years ago, laughed at his awkward efforts to learn his trade, laughed at his penchant for reading comic books even after he became a star and they laughed at his malapropisms when he tried to make a speech.

Paychecks Grew

Yogi just kept laughing all the way to the bank as his paychecks grew fatter and fatter and his non-baseball interests waxed richer and richer.

When Yankee General Manager Roy Hamey came up with the idea of adding Yogi to the coaching staff in place of the veteran Wally Moses, who was sent back as farm system batting coach, the thought occurred to many:

"How'll the players take it?"

After all, much of the Berra legend was based on jokes at his expense.

"There's no problem on that score," says Hamey. "They all have great respect both for him and his great record."

Came Up With Classic

During the early going, he came up with a classic while Bill Dickey was spending hour after hour with him trying to convert him from an outfielder into a catcher.

"Dickey is learning me his experience," Yogi told interviewers.

And not long thereafter Berra said in an acceptance speech at St. Louis after a special night in his honor:

"I want to thank all the people who made this night necessary."

Choice items of that nature, plus Berra's preference for hitting bad balls into the seats instead of waiting for pitches in the strike zone, quickly established him as a character seemingly out of place in the Yankee picture.

But Berra-watchers began to note that he made few mistakes and was thinking all the time. An incident in a Yankee-Dodger World Series game in 1949 showed 'em all he knew what the score was.

Details of the episode are hazy but the Dodgers had a rally going until an unusual double-play somehow produced the third out. No one was aware of it except Yogi and one umpire. While Phil Rizzuto and other veteran Yankees were trotting back to their positions to await the next batter, Yogi was heading for the dugout.

"Three outs is all you get," Yogi said to protesting Dodgers—and the umpire upheld him.

As Berra began piling up his three most valuable player awards (1951, 1954, 1955) the laughter began to fade.

St. Pat's Seeks 1st Half Title, Plays SS. Peter And Paul

Coach Dick Boyle's St. Patrick's quint gets an opportunity to sew up the first half championship of the Catholic Youth Basketball League tonight but they must dispose of their crosstown rivals, SS. Peter & Paul, to register their tenth straight win of the campaign.

The battle between the Fighting Irish and the Dutchmen is the last on a tripleheader program at SS. Peter & Paul gym and is set for 8:45 o'clock.

SS. Peter & Paul occupies second place with a 6-2 record and is 2½ games off the pace.

St. Patrick's won the series opener, 37-34, and has three more games on its first half slate, including tonight's contest. The teams play 12 more games in each half of the split season schedule.

In the first game of tonight's program, St. Peter's of Westernport plays St. Ambrose of Cresaptown at 6:15 while in the second tilt St. Michael's of Frostburg opposes St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage at 7:30 o'clock.

U.S. Bobsledders Crash In Austria

IGLS, Austria (UPI) — American bobsledders Joe McKillip and Paul King crashed at 60 miles an hour in a practice run for the world bobsled championships Wednesday but both sustained only minor injuries.

McKillip, from Saranac Lake, N.Y., the driver of the two-man sled, sustained a cut left cheek and was treated for a dislocated shoulder in Innsbruck Hospital. King, Massena, N.Y., was shaken up. The brakeman was allowed to return to the team hotel Wednesday afternoon and was loudly demanding a sled for Thursday's workouts.

McKillip was detained overnight and will re-join his teammates Wednesday.

The spill occurred on the final straight just 20 yards from the finish line. When both men were taken from the run, King was unable to move his left leg while McKillip had to be assisted away by other members of the team.

EX PARTE IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF GLEN DUDLEY AND MADELINE ANNA DUDLEY FOR THE ADOPTION OF A MINOR

No. 442 Adoption
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND
Filed January 14 1963
ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Petition states that a certain child born of the marriage of Bobby Daniel Young and Mary Lee Young, now Mary Lee Tyler, namely, BOBBY DANIEL YOUNG, JR., born December 5, 1958 is the object of a certain Petition for Adoption, which has been filed in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland; that the mother of said child, Mary Lee Tyler, has consented to the adoption of said child by Your Petitioners, and that the father of said child, Bobby Daniel Young, whose address is unknown has not consented to the adoption of said child, that your Petitioners have been providing care and maintenance for said child, while the father of said child has not contributed to his support for many years nor shown any interest in said child, Your Petitioners state that it would be for the best interest of said child that he be adopted by them and that his name be changed to BOBBY DANIEL DUDLEY.

It is thereupon this 14th day of January 1963, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Ordered that the Petitioners by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland once in each of four successive weeks before the 15th day of February, 1963, giving notice of the object and substance of this proceeding to Bobby Daniel Young as provided by law in the case of non-residents warning him to be and appear in person or by solicitor in this Court on or before the 18th day of March, 1963, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

Best Flower Buys In January Cited

Carnations, roses, gladioli, snap-dragons and strelitzias are in plentiful supply in January and are considered "good buys" for table decorations and other displays in the home, the Society of American Florists reports.

To prolong their life, SAF recommends these steps be taken:

Using a sharp knife, cut diagonally the stem ends of these flowers. Place them in a container of warm water, remove all foliage (including the thorns of roses) below the water level and add a commercial flower preservative to the water.

Keep arrangements of these cut flowers away from drafts and direct sunshine, and place them in a cool location. Add warm water to the flower containers every two or three days. If stem ends get soft or decayed, recut the stems diagonally to remove that portion.

EX PARTE IN THE MATTER OF THE PETITION OF GLEN DUDLEY AND MADELINE ANNA DUDLEY FOR THE ADOPTION OF A MINOR

No. 442 Adoption
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND
Filed January 14 1963
ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The Petition states that a certain child born of the marriage of Bobby Daniel Young and Mary Lee Young, now Mary Lee Tyler, namely, BOBBY DANIEL YOUNG, JR., born December 5, 1958 is the object of a certain Petition for Adoption, which has been filed in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland; that the mother of said child, Mary Lee Tyler, has consented to the adoption of said child by Your Petitioners, and that the father of said child, Bobby Daniel Young, whose address is unknown has not consented to the adoption of said child, that your Petitioners have been providing care and maintenance for said child, while the father of said child has not contributed to his support for many years nor shown any interest in said child, Your Petitioners state that it would be for the best interest of said child that he be adopted by them and that his name be changed to BOBBY DANIEL DUDLEY.

It is thereupon this 14th day of January 1963, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Ordered that the Petitioners by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland once in each of four successive weeks before the 15th day of February, 1963, giving notice of the object and substance of this proceeding to Bobby Daniel Young as provided by law in the case of non-residents warning him to be and appear in person or by solicitor in this Court on or before the 18th day of March, 1963, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree should not be passed as prayed.

Best Flower Buys In January Cited

Carnations, roses, gladioli, snap-dragons and strelitzias are in plentiful supply in January and are considered "good buys" for table decorations and other displays in the home, the Society of American Florists reports.

To prolong their life, SAF recommends these steps be taken:

Using a sharp knife, cut diagonally the stem ends of these flowers. Place them in a container of warm water, remove all foliage (including the thorns of roses) below the water level and add a commercial flower preservative to the water.

Keep arrangements of these cut flowers away from drafts and direct sunshine, and place them in a cool location. Add warm water to the flower containers every two or three days. If stem ends get soft or decayed, recut the stems diagonally to remove that portion.

ABL Layoffs Less Than Rumored

Official Report Of Impact To Be Released Today

The impact of furloughs at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory will not be as great as had originally been expected, The News learned last night.

An official announcement regarding the work force for this year is expected to be made today.

However, this figure will not be mentioned in the announcement, and a reliable source said the furloughs would not affect nearly so many.

It also was learned that Governors Tawes and Barron of Maryland and West Virginia, and Maryland Attorney General Thomas B. Finan all have been in touch with President Kennedy about the ABL situation.

U. S. Senator Daniel B. Brewster has asked for a meeting of Navy officials and Hercules Powder Company executives with city, county and state officials to discuss the effect of reductions in force.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall also has been working with Navy and civilian officials on the subject.

The plant, which is owned by the Navy and operated by Hercules Powder Company, announced earlier this month that there was a possibility of . reduction in the work force but that negotiations were in progress to bring the program level at the plant up to that of previous years.

On the basis of unofficial reports from reliable sources, the reduction in force now is a certainty, but the impact will be much less great and much less sudden than rumors have indicated.

Tfc. Leonard F. Glenn said the Turner vehicle was traveling west on the Oldtown Road when it apparently went out of control after hitting an icy spot on the highway. The car crossed the road and then struck an embankment.

The accident occurred about 2 p.m. just east of the Nine Mile House on Route 51.

Board To Seek Advice Of Architect For New School In South End

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of the Allegany County public schools system and secretary of the Board of Education, was authorized yesterday to get professional advice from an architect in connection with the proposed junior high school in South Cumberland.

During a Board meeting at Webster's office, he was also authorized to have a contour map prepared of an area being considered for the location of the school.

About eight months ago, according to Mr. Webster, negotiations were started for the purchase of 15 acres of land which is considered a minimum amout of space for the proposed school as well as a reasonable amount of surrounding land.

He said the most desirable section of the land has been marked off. $85,000 has been offered for the land although no transaction has been completed with the owner.

Future needs of the public schools system were discussed yesterday by the Board. Mr. Webster pointed out that three pertinent projects are in the offing and the need for the projects should be discussed with the County Board of Commissioners.

The projects include additional classroom space for Cresaptown where from four to six more rooms are expected to be needed in the next few years. This would include space for pupils of Cresaptown, Winchester Road, Parkside area and as far south as Rawlings. Mr. Webster based his figures on an anticipated survey for the next five years.

Also urgently needed are additional athletic facilities for Bruce High School in Westernport where the present field is not adequate and the shower rooms and storage space at the high school are insufficient.

The third project is additional toilet facilities for the Fort Hill High School stadium. Mr. Webster said plans call for a concrete building on the opposite side of the field from the concrete bleachers, under which there are toilet facilities.

The Board members approved five teacher contracts, three high school teachers and two elementary teachers who are replacing teachers who are ill or have moved away.

Also approved was the use of the Pennsylvania Avenue School playlot June 2-8 by the South Cumberland Businessmen's Association which plans a fun fair that week; a merit examination at Fort Hill in June and a program by the Girl Scouts at Fort Hill.

Court Upholds Abe Conviction

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that there was sufficient evidence to find Richard Daniel Abe negligent in an automobile accident which caused the death of Mrs. Myrtle Pfaff.

Mrs. Pfaff was killed while a passenger in a car operated by Mrs. Margaret Lloyd which collided with an automobile driven by Abe.

The accident happened on U.S. 40 in Allegany County on May 18, 1961. Abe was convicted of manslaughter by automobile and sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction by the Allegany County Circuit Court.

The high court said the evidence showed not only that Abe was traveling at an excessive speed "but that he had been drinking to an extent likely to affect his driving judgment. . .and that he was proceeding prior to the accident in the center lane of a three-lane highway when there was no occasion for him to do so."

Workers Differ With Tawes On Pay Boost Plan

Beer Tax Proposed To Finance Raise

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State employes took issue with Gov. Tawes over a pay raise by asking the Maryland Legislature Wednesday to finance it from an 11 cent increase in the tax on beer.

The beer tax is considered a sore point with the administration because one of the governor's closest advisers, George Hocker, represents brewers.

Hence any bill calling for raising the tax the past few years has become known as a "Hocker Rocker."

Tawes approved an employe pay raise plan in a statement only hours before the one with the beer tax was introduced by two senators and three delegates.

The governor proposes to make salary adjustments for 10,400 of the 27,000 state employes and provide longevity payments for 6,200 others.

Funds In Budget

The total cost would be $4,225,000—to be financed out of current revenues. The governor included the funds in the budget he submitted Tuesday.

The Maryland Classified Employes Association wants a general increase of $447 for everyone and annual pay raises for seven years ranging from $464.88 to $581.10.

That would cost $10 million which would come out of a special fund created by an 11-cent tax on a gallon of beer. The present tax of 3 cents would continue to go into general state funds.

Pay adjustments approved by the governor were recommended by the Standard Salary Board after a review. They would amount to $3.1 million compared with requests from the agencies totaling $5.5 million.

Looking at the sponsors of the beer tax bill, many legislators wondered if it also might have undertones concerning slot machines, another pending controversy in the legislature.

Four of the five sponsors are from St. Marys and Calvert, two of the slot machine counties. Tawes intends to have introduced before the session is over a bill to outlaw the machines by state action.

Slogan Backed

While the state employe pay battle was brewing, four on the staff of the house of delegates received a raise in a matter of seconds.

An order read across the desk was all that was needed to give the chief clerk, journal clerk and their assistants increases. The chief clerk went from $2,500 to $3,500 for the 90-day session, his assistant from $2,000 to $2,500, the journal clerk from $2,100 to $3,000 and his assistant from $2,000 to $2,500.

In the senate, the slogan "America in Miniature" moved a step closer to going on Maryland license tags in 1965 as a favorable report was adopted by its judicial proceedings committee.

Chairman Frederick C. Malkus Jr., said there was no opposition to it in committee.

School Board Seeks Meeting On Pay Boost

Commissioners' Support Sought

A meeting with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners is being anticipated by the Board of Education in reference to a $700 across-the-board teacher salary increase being sought by the County Association of Teachers.

During a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon, Ralph R. Webster, secretary, was instructed to write a letter to the commissioners requesting an informal conference to discuss the pay increase and other matters of the school system.

On Wednesday evening the teachers association met with the commissioners and presented a detailed report in which they requested a $700 across-the-board salary increase for the county's 680 teachers, plus other fringe benefits.

At yesterday's meeting, T. Donald Shires, board member, said there is a "good possibility" of the pay raise, and according to one of the commissioners prospects are "most encouraging."

The county schools system, said Mr. Shires, should be in a position to hire the best college graduates as teachers, and pointed out that in the near future new teachers will be needed to replace those who will be retiring.

He feels the fringe benefits being sought—hospital and medical insurance paid by the county now being paid by the teachers — should be tied into one program for all county employes.

Mr. Webster pointed out that secretaries, custodians and cafeteria workers should also be considered in the pay boost program. All members of the board were in agreement on that phase of the discussion.

If the pay boost should be granted by the commissioners, the highest starting salary in Maryland would be paid to Allegany County teachers, according to Mr. Webster, who said the top salary of $7,100 would be rated ninth in the state.

Sacred Heart Employes Raise $21,681 For New Hospital On Haystack Mt.

The story of success of the $500,000 drive to put the new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain soared to new heights last night.

Sacred Heart employes who, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the new-hospital campaign, are in the best position to understand the need for new hospital facilities, have pledged a total of $21,681 to the drive to date.

Smashing over their goal of $20,000, the hospital employes won the acclaim of all campaign leaders, and their own campaign co-chairmen, Charles K. Blauch, X-ray technician, and Kathleen Hamburg of the accounting staff, who said:

"We are proud to be associated with this wonderful group. They cooperated all the way with a true spirit of community leadership. There was no doubt of victory from the first hour of the campaign. In two short weeks the job was done."

Sister Mary Richard, Sacred Heart administrator, will entertain the victorious employes with a dinner catered by Anton Squillari at the Sacred Heart nurses home on February 4, the co-chairmen said, with every employe being given an opportunity to attend. At that time, the employes will vote on a choice of a permenent memorial in the new hospital.

The administrator herself declared: "In all of my experience, I have never seen such tremendous response from a hospital employe group. Their example is an inspiration to all of us, and a heart-warming addition to the success stories that are coming in from all parts of the community."

The employes' big gift qualifies them for the selection of a memorial lecture room, main waiting room, private dining room, operating room — or a combination of other memorials under $20,000.

Every department of the hospital achieved success in the drive, including dietary, laundry, linen and sewing, housekeeping, plant operation, maintenance and repair, nursing administration, registered nurses, head nurses, practical nurses, orderlies, nurses' aides, ward secretary, central control, medical records, pharmacy, operating room, recovery room, anesthesia, laboratory, X-ray, physiotherapy, electro cardiogram, oxygen therapy, emergency room, accounting, admitting, purchasing, personnel, general administration (including telephone operators, security guards, elevator operators and secretaries), and motor service.

William C. Walsh is associate general chairman of the campaign; John J. McMulleen and William E. Crooks are chairmen of the industrial division; U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, William H. Oburn and Thomas B. Finan Jr. head the healing and mercy division; and the labor division is headed by John G. Thomas, Charles E. Stutzman, Wilbur Johnson, Josiah E. Mullenax, James W. Stein, Harold G. Fansler and John W. Mangus.

The remaining committee chairmen will be named within a few days, Mr. Ort said.

Cold Wave Takes Grip On Area

Temperature Skids As Snow Glazes Mountain Roads

Borne by gusty northwest winds, a new cold wave moved into this section yesterday, dropping several inches of snow upon the Tri-State area and glazing highways.

The use of chains or snow tires was being generally recommended by the State Roads Commission in Western Maryland.

The precaution was not needed in Allegany County, except west of Red Hill.

Up to three inches of snow was reported in Garrett County, where all SRC crews were called out early in the afternoon to plow the highways and scatter abrasives.

Gusty winds were still blowing in Oakland at 9 p. m. as the thermometer stood at zero. The change in temperature was marked, as it was 34 at 8 a. m. and still 12 above at 3:30 p. m.

The SRC reported about an inch of snow fell in Allegany County, Frostburg reported a temperature of 8 above at 7 p. m.

In Washington County, snow had stopped at 9 p. m., leaving one to two inches of snow on the ground. It was 13 above at Hagerstown at 9 p. m.

The bad weather news was general. Nearby Preston County, W. Va., reported depths of up to eight inches of snow.

Grandson Of Late Col. T. G. Pownall

Thomas G. Pownall, a native of Moorefield, W. Va., and a grandson of the late Colonel T. G. Pownall of Cumberland, has been named as one of four new vice presidents of Martin Company.

Col. Pownall was a long-time resident of Cumberland and was active in civic and political affairs here.

Mr. Pownall has been named vice president for sales and requirements on the executive staff of Martin's headquarters staff at Friendship International Airport at Baltimore.

He joins the Martin Company, a division of Martin Marietta Corporation, from Fairbanks Morse and Company, where he was vice president in charge of the company's Washington activities.

Mr. Pownall is a 1946 graduate of the Naval Academy. He resigned his commission in the Navy in 1949 to enter business as a manufacturing supervisor with the Chevrolet Division of General Motors. He returned to active duty as a naval officer during the Korean war.

After his Korean service, Mr. Pownall became co-owner of a small California paper box firm. In 1954, he joined the Drake Steel Supply Company of Los Angeles as a sales representative, and later joined the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corporation.

In 1959, he was named Washington representative for Convair, a position he held until joining Fairbanks Morse in 1961. He is married to the former Marilyn Cunnick of Detroit, and they have two children.

The three other new vice presidents are Vernon R. Rawlings, O. E. Tibbs and Woodrow W. Storey, all employes of the Martin Company.

Court Upholds Abe Conviction

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The Court of Appeals ruled Wednesday that there was sufficient evidence to find Richard Daniel Abe negligent in an automobile accident which caused the death of Mrs. Myrtle Pfaff.

Mrs. Pfaff was killed while a passenger in a car operated by Mrs. Margaret Lloyd which collided with an automobile driven by Abe.

The accident happened on U.S. 40 in Allegany County on May 18, 1961. Abe was convicted of manslaughter by automobile and sentenced to one year in the Maryland House of Correction by the Allegany County Circuit Court.

The high court said the evidence showed not only that Abe was traveling at an excessive speed "but that he had been drinking to an extent likely to affect his driving judgment. . .and that he was proceeding prior to the accident in the center lane of a three-lane highway when there was no occasion for him to do so."

Workers Differ With Tawes On Pay Boost Plan

Beer Tax Proposed To Finance Raise

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — State employes took issue with Gov. Tawes over a pay raise by asking the Maryland Legislature Wednesday to finance it from an 11 cent increase in the tax on beer.

The beer tax is considered a sore point with the administration because one of the governor's closest advisers, George Hocker, represents brewers.

Hence any bill calling for raising the tax the past few years has become known as a "Hocker Rocker."

Tawes approved an employe pay raise plan in a statement only hours before the one with the beer tax was introduced by two senators and three delegates.

The governor proposes to make salary adjustments for 10,400 of the 27,000 state employes and provide longevity payments for 6,200 others.

Funds In Budget

The total cost would be $4,225,000—to be financed out of current revenues. The governor included the funds in the budget he submitted Tuesday.

The Maryland Classified Employes Association wants a general increase of $447 for everyone and annual pay raises for seven years ranging from $464.88 to $581.10.

That would cost $10 million which would come out of a special fund created by an 11-cent tax on a gallon of beer. The present tax of 3 cents would continue to go into general state funds.

Pay adjustments approved by the governor were recommended by the Standard Salary Board after a review. They would amount to $3.1 million compared with requests from the agencies totaling $5.5 million.

Looking at the sponsors of the beer tax bill, many legislators wondered if it also might have undertones concerning slot machines, another pending controversy in the legislature.

Four of the five sponsors are from St. Marys and Calvert, two of the slot machine counties. Tawes intends to have introduced before the session is over a bill to outlaw the machines by state action.

Slogan Backed

While the state employe pay battle was brewing, four on the staff of the house of delegates received a raise in a matter of seconds.

An order read across the desk was all that was needed to give the chief clerk, journal clerk and their assistants increases. The chief clerk went from $2,500 to $3,500 for the 90-day session, his assistant from $2,000 to $2,500, the journal clerk from $2,100 to $3,000 and his assistant from $2,000 to $2,500.

In the senate, the slogan "America in Miniature" moved a step closer to going on Maryland license tags in 1965 as a favorable report was adopted by its judicial proceedings committee.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. George E. Snyder, D-Washington, comes up for one more vote in the senate and then goes to the house.

Chairman Frederick C. Malkus Jr., said there was no opposition to it in committee.

School Board Seeks Meeting On Pay Boost

Commissioners' Support Sought

A meeting with the Allegany County Board of Commissioners is being anticipated by the Board of Education in reference to a $700 across-the-board teacher salary increase being sought by the County Association of Teachers.

During a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon, Ralph R. Webster, secretary, was instructed to write a letter to the commissioners requesting an informal conference to discuss the pay increase and other matters of the school system.

On Wednesday evening the teachers association met with the commissioners and presented a detailed report in which they requested a $700 across-the-board salary increase for the county's 680 teachers, plus other fringe benefits.

At yesterday's meeting, T. Donald Shires, board member, said there is a "good possibility" of the pay raise, and according to one of the commissioners prospects are "most encouraging."

The county schools system, said Mr. Shires, should be in a position to hire the best college graduates as teachers, and pointed out that in the near future new teachers will be needed to replace those who will be retiring.

He feels the fringe benefits being sought—hospital and medical insurance paid by the county now being paid by the teachers — should be tied into one program for all county employes.

Mr. Webster pointed out that secretaries, custodians and cafeteria workers should also be considered in the pay boost program. All members of the board were in agreement on that phase of the discussion.

If the pay boost should be granted by the commissioners, the highest starting salary in Maryland would be paid to Allegany County teachers, according to Mr. Webster, who said the top salary of $7,100 would be rated ninth in the state.

Sacred Heart Employes Raise $21,681 For New Hospital On Haystack Mt.

The story of success of the $500,000 drive to put the new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain soared to new heights last night.

Sacred Heart employes who, according to Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the new-hospital campaign, are in the best position to understand the need for new hospital facilities, have pledged a total of $21,681 to the drive to date.

Smashing over their goal of $20,000, the hospital employes won the acclaim of all campaign leaders, and their own campaign co-chairmen, Charles K. Blauch, X-ray technician, and Kathleen Hamburg of the accounting staff, who said:

"We are proud to be associated with this wonderful group. They cooperated all the way with a true spirit of community leadership. There was no doubt of victory from the first hour of the campaign. In two short weeks the job was done."

Sister Mary Richard, Sacred Heart administrator, will entertain the victorious employes with a dinner catered by Anton Squillari at the Sacred Heart nurses home on February 4, the co-chairmen said, with every employe being given an opportunity to attend. At that time, the employes will vote on a choice of a permenent memorial in the new hospital.

The administrator herself declared: "In all of my experience, I have never seen such tremendous response from a hospital employe group. Their example is an inspiration to all of us, and a heart-warming addition to the success stories that are coming in from all parts of the community."

The employes' big gift qualifies them for the selection of a memorial lecture room, main waiting room, private dining room, operating room — or a combination of other memorials under $20,000.

Every department of the hospital achieved success in the drive, including dietary, laundry, linen and sewing, housekeeping, plant operation, maintenance and repair, nursing administration, registered nurses, head nurses, practical nurses, orderlies, nurses' aides, ward secretary, central control, medical records, pharmacy, operating room, recovery room, anesthesia, laboratory, X-ray, physiotherapy, electro cardiogram, oxygen therapy, emergency room, accounting, admitting, purchasing, personnel, general administration (including telephone operators, security guards, elevator operators and secretaries), and motor service.

William C. Walsh is associate general chairman of the campaign; John J. McMulleen and William E. Crooks are chairmen of the industrial division; U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, William H. Oburn and Thomas B. Finan Jr. head the healing and mercy division; and the labor division is headed by John G. Thomas, Charles E. Stutzman, Wilbur Johnson, Josiah E. Mullenax, James W. Stein, Harold G. Fansler and John W. Mangus.

The remaining committee chairmen will be named within a few days, Mr. Ort said.

Cold Wave Takes Grip On Area

Temperature Skids As Snow Glazes Mountain Roads

Borne by gusty northwest winds, a new cold wave moved into this section yesterday, dropping several inches of snow upon the Tri-State area and glazing highways.

The cold mass of air from Canada dropped temperatures all over the area to near or below the zero mark.

The use of chains or snow tires was being generally recommended by the State Roads Commission in Western Maryland.

Up to three inches of snow was reported in Garrett County, where all SRC crews were called out early in the afternoon to plow the highways and scatter abrasives.

Gusty winds were still blowing in Oakland at 9 p. m. as the thermometer stood at zero. The change in temperature was marked, as it was 34 at 8 a. m. and still 12 above at 3:30 p. m.

The SRC reported about an inch of snow fell in Allegany County, Frostburg reported a temperature of 8 above at 7 p. m.

In Washington County, snow had stopped at 9 p. m., leaving one to two inches of snow on the ground. It was 13 above at Hagerstown at 9 p. m.

SRC crews were busy there, clearing snow from highways and scattering abrasives.

The bad weather news was general. Nearby Preston County, W. Va., reported depths of up to eight inches of snow.
